Breakaway Bomber Hits Lagos

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—A warplane believed to be from breakaway eastern Nigeria bombed this African capital Wednesday night as rebel troops invaded federal territory and claimed the capture of the mid-western region.

The hostile aircraft dropped explosives on the Lagos waterfront section of Apapa where docks and petroleum dumps are located. Nearby Nigerian naval units fired on the plane, and there were unconfirmed reports that it was hit.

(The BBC in London said three bombs fell on Lagos.)

CAPTURE CLAIMED

The air raid took place as rebel forces invaded the neighboring midwestern state and claimed its capture. Rebels seized the radio station in the state capital at Benin and announced they had taken over the midwest "as a result of the liberation action of midwest forces backed by friendly troops from the east."

IBO HELP

The federal government said in an official statement that rebel soldiers had infiltrated the state with the help of the anti-government Ibo tribesmen in the Nigerian army.

Nigeria, with more than 55,000,000 people, is the most populous nation in Africa. It has been torn by tribal rivalries and religious differences for months.

The midwest state is one of 12 states into which the country was recently carved.

PHONES OUT

Telephone service between Lagos and Benin was cut late Wednesday night.

A woman announcer broadcasting on Radio Benin said "revolutionary forces" occupying the city were led by Lt.-Col. Victor Banjo, a member of the Yoruba tribe.

Lagos sources said they doubted Banjo was involved. These sources said the rebels probably used his name in an effort to bring Yoruba tribesmen into the rebel camp.

NO MENTION

Radio Benin reported that a curfew had been imposed throughout the midwestern region, and that it would remain in effect until a new government was formed. It said revolutionary forces had saved the region from "the shackles of domination."

The broadcast from Benin made no mention of Brig. Gen. David Ejoor, the governor of the midwestern region.

A police announcement Wednesday night ordered Nigerians off the streets of Lagos because of what was described as an emergency situation. The announcement said failure to obey the order "may lead to grave consequences for which those concerned will have only themselves to blame."

Key Putt Gives Canada Victory

A 14-foot eagle putt by Johnny Johnston of Vancouver was the telling blow as Canada's six-man team to the fourth Commonwealth golf tournament defeated South Africa Wednesday by five matches to four.

Johnston's putt came on the 17th green when Canada was in the middle of an exciting recovery that could have brought victory or a narrow loss.

Johnston's putt put him one-up on John Fourie of South Africa, a lead he held through to the end.

Great Britain won the other match, dropping the talented Australian team, five matches to four. New Zealand had the bye. (See Page 16.)

Canada had to struggle for its win when South Africa opened a 2-1 gap after the morning foursomes. But, with Gary Cowan in devastating form, the Canadians rallied to grab victory in four of the six singles.

Britain, which now has won one match and drawn another, is in first place with three points. Canada and South Africa are tied for second with two points, New Zealand has one and Australia is scoreless.

CITY TO ORDER: ROLL UP HOSES

By A. H. MURPHY

City council will probably be asked today to impose a ban on sprinkling because nearly 40,000,000 gallons of water was used Wednesday in Greater Victoria — the highest daily volume in the water district's history.

By the time the thermometer had climbed to 83 degrees at the Gonzales weather station at 4:30 p.m., on the hottest day of the year, it was already clear that Greater Victorians had ignored warnings that they must begin conserving water.

As the drought continued, with another forest fire flareup on the Malahat and restrictions imposed on swimming at Thetis Lake, civic officials began taking preliminary steps to slow the flow of precious water through city water mains.

SPRINKLERS OFF

Mayor Hugh Stephen ordered a week's cessation of sprinkling in city parks and on city-tended boulevards, the water board abandoned its effort to keep salmon fry alive in Goldstream Creek, and city parks administrator Herbert Warren said swimming will not be allowed beyond the dam at Thetis Lake until the fire hazard ends. (See also Page 22.)

The last rain fell on Victoria July 20 — a miserable sprinkle of .13 inch.

During July, only .21 inch fell. The average rainfall for the month is slightly more than half an inch.

REVERSE EFFECT

Commissioner Ronald Upward of the Greater Victoria Water District said he was hesitant to suggest that restrictions of any kind be imposed, because the very suggestion seemed to have the effect of making people use more water.

"They evidently feel that their flowers and grass and shrubs are going to be water-starved, so they turn the sprinklers on full and pour the water to them," he said.

First warning of trouble was given in Tuesday's Colonist when Mr. Upward pointed out that there had been no fall-off in

Aberfan Won't Prosecute

ABERFAN, Wales (AP)—People of this little Welsh mining town, who lost 144 children and other kinfolk killed in last October's coal-mountain slide, decided Wednesday night not to prosecute any National Coal Board official blamed for the tragedy.

Man Killed In Car Crash

A two-car collision at the intersection of Sooke and Metchosin roads in Colwood at 12:45 this morning led to the death of an unidentified male occupant of one of the cars.

The victim, whose age was reported to be in the mid-30s, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital emergency ward after being rushed there by Langford volunteer ambulance.

A woman also was taken to hospital but was pronounced in satisfactory condition by hospital officials.

RCMP officials are investigating the accident.

Whites Seize Bukavu

SHANGUGU, Rwanda (LAT) — The rebellious white mercenaries took full control of the important eastern Congo city of Bukavu Wednesday and vowed to keep control until the kidnapped Moise Tshombe was released and returned to Congolese political life.

The column of mercenaries demonstrated its control by marching to the Rwanda border and releasing the first of the more than 100 white civilians who had lived with them in the Congolese bush for the past month.

The Congolese government radio and called these civilians hostages, but the civilians, as soon as they reached Rwanda, insisted they had joined the mercenaries for their own protection.

No one standing here on the Rwanda border could doubt the control and power of the 150 mercenaries and their 700 to 800 allies, the former African gendarmes of secessionist Katanga province.

Space Feat Hinted

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Wednesday launched an unmanned satellite into an orbit which indicated that Russian scientists were planning a new space spectacular.

The satellite named Cosmos 175 was the second to be launched in two days, and the seventh consecutive space probe to follow an almost identical path around the earth.

Observers believed that the concentration on the same orbit indicated that some new, manned space feat was being planned for the Nov. 7 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Formal Declaration

Conservative Thinkers Urge Two-Nation Plan

QUEBEC (CP)—A recommendation that the Progressive Conservative party formally endorse the two-nations theory of Canada will be placed before next month's leadership convention in Toronto.

The constitution study group at the party's policy advisory conference here endorsed the idea late Wednesday, formally declaring that the party should recognize that Canada is composed of "two founding peoples"—in French, deux nations—with historic rights.

TWO MEANINGS

The proposal, put into formal language by former Conservative national president Egan Chambers of Montreal in draft form Wednesday, represented the committee's resolution of a three-day argument over whether the step would be misunderstood in English-speaking Canada.

It was argued that in English nation means political unit while in French the word is used to denote a cultural grouping.

Ontario Premier Robarts used both "two founding peoples" and "two societies" in a Wednesday address to the conference.

He said he believes "English-speaking Canadians, by actual practice and not just by words, must recognize that Canada is essentially a country of two societies and two founding peoples . . ."

The constitution group's report to plenary sessions also calls for immediate establishment of a parliamentary committee study of changes in the constitution followed by a constitutional conference of representatives of all parties in legislative bodies to recommend specific changes desirable.

The committee says the constitution should encourage equality in the full growth and development of the two founding peoples throughout Canada.

Gordon Fairweather, MP for Royal and chairman of the study group, said he plans to reiterate in reappointing to the conference plenary session the earlier decision recommending that use of French and English be guaranteed in the courts and legislatures throughout Canada, and that access to education in either language be guaranteed throughout Canada.

TWO-HOUR TALK

He said he also will renew the study group's call for a constitutional tribunal to decide constitutional disputes between the federal and provincial governments.

In resolving the argument over the two-nation theory in the way they did, participants in the constitution study group held a two-hour session in camera.

The study group's report still faces on final hurdle at Thursday's plenary session of the conference, but the issue was debated at length in plenary session Tuesday night without any indication of uncompromising opposition.

Quake Shakes Denver Area

DENVER (UPI) — The worst earthquake in Denver's history, estimated up to five times as strong as any previous tremor and nearly reaching major proportions, knocked bricks out of chimneys, cracked walls and shook a wide area around the city Wednesday.

There were no reports of injuries.

Dayan Rejects Withdrawal Of Israeli Lines

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israeli defence minister Moshe Dayan said Wednesday night the Jewish state must never pull back to its pre-1958 borders. He said surrender of land won in the war with the Arab world would invite new attacks and deny the Israeli people "fulfilment of ancestral dreams."

Dayan reiterated Israeli demands for direct peace negotiations with Arab states, and a former Jordanian government minister close to King Hussein said Jordan is planning to hold talks with Israel.

Ismail Nijezi, former minister of development in Hussein's cabinet, told newsmen Wednesday that the plan would be submitted to the Arab summit conference later this month. Egypt and Syria have refused to negotiate with Israel and do not recognize its existence.

IMPATIENT

Dayan stepped out of his role as defence minister Wednesday night by addressing a cheering political rally in Jerusalem. He has become increasingly impatient with political feuds that have plagued Israel in the aftermath of its war victory.

Dayan's hard-hitting speech widened the rift between him and Premier Levi Eshkol. Dayan addressed a political rally attended by 5,000 members of the Rafi party, an organization opposed to Eshkol's Mapai party.

BAN VIOLATED

The speech by the one-eyed general violated a parliamentary ban on discussion of Israeli peace terms in any settlement with the Arab world.

Dayan spoke against a background of increasingly hostile Arab sentiment against Israel in occupied areas. Israeli police arrested two prominent Arabs Wednesday in the former Jordanian sector of Jerusalem and authorities invoked strong security measures against the threat of civil disobedience.

Casualties Reach 200

HONG KONG (UPI)—A battle between Red Army troops and fanatic Red Guard supporters of Mao Tse-tung in Canton killed or wounded more than 200 persons, the independent Hong Kong newspaper Ming Pao said today.

It also quoted travelers from southern China's largest city as saying Communist murder squads from rival political factions are roaming the city at night.

Mao's Thoughts Are Everywhere

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. (AP) — Police searched the lockers of three prisoners in the city jail Wednesday and found beer, liquor, candy, obscene drawings and a book of quotations from Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung.

Brown Buffaloed

Negro Crowd Laughs

Governor Defuses Gun Talk

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Flamboyant Gov. Claude Kirk caught H. Rap Brown by surprise at a Black Power rally Wednesday night, bounding out of the darkness to welcome him to Florida and to warn he did not want to hear "any talk about guns."

The crowd of about 300 Negroes gathered in a baseball park had no notice Kirk would fly by jet from Tallahassee to appear at the rally.

Brown complained:

"These white hunkies try to step in and take over your meeting."

★ ★ ★

Earlier the crowd had chanted, "We don't need you . . . go home Brown."

Kirk appeared at the microphone just after Brown told the crowd. "You better get yourself some guns, baby. That's the only way you're going to get what you need."

★ ★ ★

Dressed in a dapper dark pin-striped suit, Kirk came forward and offered his hand to Brown. The Black Power militant turned his back to Kirk.

Kirk took the microphone from Brown's hands and said:

"Welcome to Florida. Are you here in good spirits?"

Brown tried to ignore the governor before the delighted crowd. He then yelled:

"If he wants to campaign let him pay for it."

Florida's first Republican governor in modern times was not perplexed. He persisted at the microphone:

"I don't want any talk about guns," he said.

★ ★ ★

The crowd surged around Kirk to shake his hand and tell him of problems. He milled about as if on the campaign trail, smiling and nodding.

A grinning Negro youth rushed up and said, "How about two dollars, I'm broke." Kirk just laughed and moved on.

★ ★ ★

Illinois Widens Money Search

CHICAGO (UPI) — An investigation into the cashing of some of the $2,000,000 in American Express money orders stolen or destroyed during the Detroit riots, and of the forging of Illinois state cheques widened Wednesday.

State's attorney John Stamos said he would give all information on the money orders to President Johnson's advisory commission on civil disorders. Four men were under arrest Wednesday and police sought associates in the theft and forgery ring.

Lozzie R. Johnson, 25, Chicago, was charged with cashing a forged state cheque for $150.76 and attempting to pass a stolen American Express money order for $100.

Bruce W. Taylor, 43, Chicago, it was charged, used a $610.68 cheque to buy an old car for $187.50 at the Blue Island Auto Mart. He was given the balance, investigators said.

Also in custody were Ernest L. (Buster) Mack, 30, and Joseph O. Dupree, 27, both of Chicago. Authorities said Dupree formerly worked at the Hackett Corp. in Chicago.

demand this year — that the water consumption peak had lasted for many weeks and that a drenching rainfall was desperately needed to bring up the level of Sooke Lake and the other source lakes in the watershed.

Subsequently other warnings were given, including an appeal from the chairman of the board of the water district, Mayor Hugh Stephen, who urged Greater Victoria Water District users to curb consumption.

The appeal was disregarded.

"The daily consumption figure has risen steadily and it showed no reduction yesterday, nor do I expect to see a drop today," Mr. Upward said Wednesday.

One reason so much water is used in Greater Victoria is that the area has such a large and efficient distribution system.

NEVER BEFORE

There has never been any shortage of water and people have become accustomed to using it lavishly, according to Mr. Upward.

Restrictions have been imposed occasionally in Saanich and Oak Bay but it has not been because of the lack of water but, rather that the inadequate distribution system in those municipalities had not been able to cope with the demand.

HE'S SORRY

Mr. Upward said that he was sorry it was necessary to reduce the flow of water to Goldstream "to a mere trickle," jeopardizing salmon fry.

Supplies from the watershed made the fish development system there possible in the first place, and when it came to a choice between fish and people, people were given preference, he said.

In the light of subsequent developments, it was probably a mistake in the beginning to agree to release water for the Goldstream, Mr. Upward said.

Asked what consumers should do, specifically, to save water, a city official said they should keep the need for conservation in mind and "use their heads."

Cutting down lawn and garden sprinkling to an absolute minimum would be a big help, he added.

The prohibition on park and boulevard watering will mean temporary unemployment for about 18 men, said Mr. Warren.

Reeve Hugh Curtis appealed to residents of Saanich to conserve water, and on Wednesday afternoon issued instructions that municipal water consumption be cut to a "bare minimum."

ALL RECORDS

He said water consumption in Saanich broke all records during June and July and hasn't levelled off this month.

Reeve Curtis added that Saanich will take its cues on water restrictions from the Greater Victoria Water Board.

HE KNOWS

"Commissioner Upward is a very competent and knowledgable water official, and when he's expressing concern, you can be certain it is something to be concerned about."

Among the reasons for Saanich's increased water consumption, the reeve speculated, is the larger and improved distribution system.

MERE HANDFUL

"We have had only a handful of water complaints compared to scores and possibly hundreds we received a few years ago," said Reeve Curtis.

During June, residents of the municipality used 246,632,000 gallons, while in July the consumption was 291,745,000 gallons.

Workmen Recalled

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — General Motors of Canada has started recalling production workers this week for 1968 model car and truck assembly lines. About 9,400 of the plant's 12,400 workers were laid off July 24 for conversion of the lines to new models.

No Charge

BEXLEY, England (CP) — Drivers used to seeing traffic cops handing out tickets were surprised to see a bobby giving ice cream to passing motorists. The manufacturers decided they couldn't salvage the ice cream from an overturned truck and it was given away before it melted.

Childhood-Type TB Victims Often Show No Side Effects

Your Good Health

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: One of my children was exposed to tuberculosis and was in hospital for six months with what was called "childhood-type of TB." Friends and neighbors say he will be handicapped for the rest of his life. Please tell me the truth — J.F.

I am shocked that you were told such a thing. It is not true.

"Childhood-type of TB" is involvement of the glands which are situated in and around the trachea and bronchi — roughly speaking, the windpipe and passages leading to the lungs proper.

In this type of TB, the germs have affected these glands but not the lungs themselves. And — especially important — the germs have not succeeded in establishing what we call an open-type of TB, or areas in which the germs are flourishing and reproducing.

The "open type" is, of course, the most dangerous type. Not only will the infected area spread unless checked, but the sputum shows a positive test for the germs. That is to say, the patient, with every cough and sneeze, is scattering the germs in the air and endangering anyone close enough to breathe them.

With the "childhood-type," while the glands are affected by the germs, the body is still succeeding in combating them, has prevented open infection from starting in the lungs germs which will be breathed into the air and passed on to others. In short, in that form it is not contagious.

If the body's defences are sufficiently strong, the "childhood-type" will be fought off successfully. This often happens. If the body's defences begin to lose, however, then there is every likelihood of the disease advancing to the lungs and becoming the fullblown, "open" case of tuberculosis.

Thus it was fortunate that your son's case was detected and he was treated before serious damage was done. With such treatment, people (including your son) can live an entirely normal life, no restrictions of any kind. It is inconceivable to me that anyone with any factual knowledge would have made such a had and unfounded remark to you about the boy being "handicapped."

HAVE SCARS

As a matter of fact, people of my age often have scars to show that we had the childhood-type of TB, because it was very prevalent in our youth. Most of us — except those who developed open TB — never knew until later that we had had the childhood-type. The only ways it could be detected were a postive tuberculin test, showing that we had been exposed to the germ, or X-rays showing calcified (scarred) nodes of the glands.

Tito Talks Compromise In Cairo Visit Today

* * *

Arms Deal, Oil Bill New Mideast Issues

From UPI

Two Mideast developments Wednesday spelled trouble for the western world.

The Sudanese cabinet met in Khartoum to consider an arms deal with Russia, Czechoslovakia and West Germany. Sudan will give cotton in exchange. Its arms business formerly was with Britain.

In Libya, the government announced it wants foreign oil companies to pay 75 cents a barrel in royalties instead of the present 35. Lengthy negotiations are expected.

CAIRO (UPI) — President Tito of Yugoslavia is flying here today with a compromise plan for settling the Middle Eastern crisis, informed sources said Wednesday.

His state visit, described locally as "the most important development" in the Middle East situation recently, follows a three-cornered exchange of views between Washington, Belgrade and Cairo.

President Johnson sent a letter to Tito when he heard of his planned visit, and there has been further contact to clarify some of its points, the sources said.

DAMASCUS NEXT

Tito, who solidly backed the Arab cause during the June war with Israel, will be met by President Gamal Abdel Nasser when his plane arrives at Cairo airport today.

After discussions with Nasser, Tito will go on to Damascus on Sunday, the Middle East news agency said, for similar talks with the Syrian government.

PLAN OUTLINED

It was believed here that Tito's compromise plan might be along the lines of proposals he recently outlined in recent discussions with Katherine Graham, chairman of The Washington Post.

The suggested plan would call for Israel to withdraw from Arab territories it captured in the June war and in exchange Israel would receive international guarantees for its frontiers — underwritten either by the United Nations Security Council or the Big Four powers.

ROLE SECONDARY

Tito, a leader in the so-called nonaligned bloc of nations, also is expected to discuss with Nasser the role of these nations in world affairs. But these discussions would be of secondary importance to the general Middle East talks, the informed sources said.

The first few days of his visit were expected to be concentrated primarily on discussions with Nasser, and ceremonies were to be held to a minimum.

CIVILIANS OUSTED

As officials prepared for Tito's visit, a government spokesman charged that Israel is expelling Egyptian civilians from the Israeli-occupied Sinai Peninsula.

Meanwhile the Arab League Wednesday appealed for United Nations intervention to protect Arab citizens in Israel-occupied territories from "anti-suppression, detention, torture and expulsion" by Israel authorities.

Cuban President:

U.S. Writers Doubt Facts

HAVANA (Reuters)—Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos stormed into the middle of a show presentation of two alleged U.S. spies here Wednesday, seized the microphone and accused American journalists of doubting the facts.

The president challenged the American press to quiz President Johnson on the details of Central Intelligence Agency activities against Cuba.

SECOND SHOW

The incident occurred in the luxurious Ambassador Salon of the Hotel Havana Libre during the presentation of the agents, who were first presented Sunday at a special session of the Latin American Solidarity Conference.

Dorticos' entry occurred near the end of the three-hour show, after questions by certain American journalists about equipment said to have been carried by the agents and other details evidently had given the impression that they harbored some doubts.

Closing the session, Orlando Hart, organizing secretary of the Cuban Communist party, said the American people are not objectively informed.

SHORT QUIZ

The short interrogation of the two alleged CIA agents was the second such presentation in three days. On Sunday the Cubans presented a group of agents who declared their aim was to assassinate Premier Fidel Castro and other leaders.

The two alleged agents produced Wednesday were said to have landed last Thursday on the north coast of Pinar del Rio province in western Cuba and to have been captured Sunday.

State Primary

Mississippi Negroes Make Historic Gains

JACKSON, Miss (UPI) — Mississippi Negroes chalked up historic political gains Wednesday, claiming at least 11 victories in the state's Democratic primary.

With returns still coming in, 11 others were assured positions against white opponents in the Aug. 29 runoff primary, 20 had been defeated and the results of elections involving 30 other Negro candidates were undetermined.

Three of five Negro candidates for the state House of Representatives were defeated but two other house contests in Hinds County were still undecided.

SPECTACULAR

Nevertheless, it was the most spectacular political gain for Mississippi Negroes since reconstruction. Only one other Negro has held political office since the post-civil war era, and he was elected to a county school board just last year.

Meanwhile a fellow segregationist was credited Wednesday with the political undoing of former Gov. Ross Barnett, the one-time symbol of the "old south" who went down to a resounding defeat in Mississippi's Democratic gubernatorial primary.

The 69-year-old Barnett, considered by many as an odds-on favorite, finished a poor fourth Tuesday in a seven-man field, trailing front-runners William Winter and John Bell Williams by more than 100,000 votes.

WHITE SUPREMACY

The 100,000 vote margin was about the same number of ballots that arch segregationist Jimmy Swan, a political newcomer, picked up.

Swan, a radio executive, preached white supremacy and vowed he would create a free, private, segregated school system for whites.

Unions Bitter

French Lash Reform Plans

PARIS (UPI) — The French cabinet Wednesday under President de Gaulle's stern eye approved two economic and social welfare reforms despite widespread criticism throughout France.

Trade unions immediately ordered protest demonstrations.

The reforms, which were criticized left and right since they were tabled before the cabinet July 31, were passed by the cabinet presided over by de Gaulle.

ON SCHEDULE

The Confederation Generale du Travail, the Communist-led largest union in France, immediately decreed that a day of opposition to the reforms would be carried out today as originally scheduled.

The CGT was supported in its move by the Catholic-led Democratic Labor Confederation union.

The first measure made it compulsory for all business organizations with more than 100 employees to introduce a profit-sharing scheme.

The second dealt with higher social security taxes and lower benefits.

BOOST NEEDED

The trade unions called the profit-sharing plan "impracticable," newspapers said it was "an unworkable dream," and business circles predicted it would have "a paralyzing effect on industries already in need of a boost."

The social securities measure, designed to counter-balance a heavy deficit in the welfare program, aroused union ire and the Communist Daily l'Humanite called it "another strike at the liberties left in this country."

Manxmen Halt Radio Revolt

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (UPI) —The government of the Isle of Man Wednesday formally ended the rebellion against Britain sparked by a pirate radio ship operating off this island in the Irish Sea.

In a subdued, 10-minute session, the joint Houses of Parliament recorded the action of the 24-member lower chamber known as the House of Keys which passed a resolution Tuesday protesting Britain's "interference in the island's home affairs" and asking the Commonwealth secretariat to intervene.

The speaker then adjourned the Tynwald (parliament) until September and members returned to their vacations, which had been interupted by the storm over Britain's actions in extending its ban on pirate radio broadcasting to this island.

STICKING IT OUT

The Tynwald's action left the pirate ship Caroline, anchored five miles off the Isle of Man, figuratively high and dry. But Rohan O'Rahilly, the 27-year-old Irishman who runs the ship, pledged to stick it out.

"We won't up anchor and sail away," he told newsmen at a champagne party he threw Tuesday night as a gesture of appreciation for support from the House of Keys. "No matter what happens, we will continue to broadcast to the island and the British mainland."

STOCKING UP

The pirate ship has been stocking up on all kinds of supplies during the past weeks and its permament staff of eight disc jockeys claim they can hold out indefinitely.

The British law making it a criminal offense to advertise from or provide supplies to a pirate radio station goes into effect on Aug. 15. O'Rahilly said he had arranged to get supplies from the Continent when the current stockpiles run out.

Since last week, the 17 by 28-mile island had reverberated with Manx cries of independence and threats to call in the United Nations to investigate the alleged British interference in home rule.

The islanders, whose own Radio Manx is barely strong enough to cover the island, had come to rely on Radio Caroline to boost tourism. In return for the hospitality of the Manx, Radio Caroline had been broadcasting free commercials on the glories of a vacation on the island toward Britain, Ireland, Scotland and Wales.

But when it came to a showdown with Britain, parliament, which dates back 1,000 years, balked at airing its domestic troubles before an outside body. One speaker after another urged: "Let's keep this in the family."

Hong Kong-Canton Railway Cut Again

HONG KONG (AP) — No freight trains have arrived from China since Monday, causing speculation that opponents of Mao Tse-tung may have knocked out the rail line from Canton to Hong Kong again.

Visitors from the Chinese mainland have told of repeated sabotage of rail traffic by anti-Maoists, but this is the first time the trains have been delayed for so long a period. A Hong Kong government spokesman said the colony is facing a meat shortage.

He said supplies are still arriving by road and sea, but they are not enough to make up for the rail stoppage.

In another development, Hong Kong police Wednesday served notice on pro-Peking newspapers in the city to stop urging defiance of this British colony's authorities by arresting two publishers, an editor and two printing company directors.

Sources close to the government in this troubled colony off mainland China said the arrests were aimed at warning pro-Peking newspapers to tone down their inflammatory anti-government articles.

The sources said that, if they did not heed the warning, the next step would be to close some of the newspapers.

Powerful Tory Team

HEARTENING for Progressive Conservative forces across the country, the announcement of the candidacy for party leadership of such formidable politicians as Manitoba's Premier Duff Roblin and Nova Scotia's Premier Robert L. Stanfield has added a large potential voting strength for a federal election whenever it is called.

Whether either of them wins the leadership, they are pretty well committed to the federal field.

Six former cabinet ministers in the contest promise additional weight for the Tory team when the test comes at the polls. And of course, there is John Diefenbaker. His calculated delay to announce his intentions with respect to the leadership one way or another does not alter the fact that in an election he is a power to be reckoned with, as the saying goes.

Former federal ministers Gordon Fleming, George Hees, Davie Fulton, Michael Starr, Alvin Hamilton and Senator Wallace McCutcheon, all in the leadership race, present an impressive nucleus for a "shadow cabinet" at least and, at best, sound material for government front benches.

By this time next month the nation will know with whom responsibility for leadership rests. In the meantime, the contest is taking on an excitement rarely generated to such a degree outside strictly party limits.

Mr. Fleming, speaking in Vancouver Tuesday, no doubt expressed an opinion common to all candidates, when he accused the Liberal government of reckless spending. He pointed out that in the past four years the federal budget has leaped from $7 billion to $11 billion and that unless a more responsible government takes over there is the unpleasant probability the tax bill will reach $14 billion by 1970.

This is one of the reasons why the general public is so much interested in the decision of the Tory convention in Toronto on Sept. 6-9.

The people are anxious to know who the Conservative champion will be. They are anxious to learn what the party's policies will be. A strong leadership and a sound approach to greater economy in government would win enormous popular support.

Choice of a leader, therefore, has become a matter of national rather than party concern, and it is high time all intending candidates declared themselves so that we know from whom we have to choose.

Saving Water

ASKING FOR voluntary restriction of the use of water in the Greater Victoria area is asking for a lot at this season. There may be quite a few bath-shy young lads who will applaud the idea. But most Victorians are proud and fond of their gardens, and even without watering limitations except those imposed by time, it is hard enough for many of them to keep plants from wilting and lawns from turning brown these hot, dry days.

Mayor Hugh Stephen as chairman of the Greater Victoria Water District has warned citizens however of the seriousness of the shortage in the district's reserves. Failing heavy rainfall, and unless there is a sharp curtailment of water consumption, a complete ban on sprinkling may have to be imposed before September.

This would mean, of course, that everyone would be the loser of the garden beauty around and about him, for we don't just look at our own.

It will be a test of the community spirit of every resident in the coming days therefore whether the voluntary restriction works and the consumption is so reduced that a total ban on sprinkling is avoided and hopefully, that some water can continue to be supplied to Goldstream in order that a whole cycle of salmon will not be wiped out.

The fact that the district is using six to eight million more gallons a day than normal at this time of year—about 25 per cent—is an indication of the saving of the precious commodity that could be achieved. And if this seems difficult, it might help a little to think of the people of Hong Kong, drawing water for four hours every fourth day—and somehow, ingeniously, making do.

Drama in Havana

THE HOSTS of the Latin America Solidarity Organization conference in Havana have paraded six young Cubans before the assembled revolutionaries and, to the accompaniment of cheers and jeers, elicited from them confessions that they were acting under the direct orders of the United States Central Intelligence Agency.

Relaxed and frequently smiling, these alleged agents of the CIA admitted they had been sent to plot the assassination of Premier Fidel Castro and other Cuban leaders.

It is certainly not beyond belief that the CIA would send counter-revolutionist spies into Cuba or assist patriots whose ambition is to destroy the brand of communism represented by the Castro regime. But the theatrical presentation of the so-called confessions and the whole demeanor of the alleged agents, supposedly in fear of execution, rather strains credulity.

The affair smacks more of a stage-managed production to stimulate the enthusiasm of the delegates to the LASO conference for the revolution they plan in South America republics rather than a genuine expose of a dastardly United States plot.

The conference audience, however, was undoubtedly impressed. In such an atmosphere where, only a few days before, the American Negro Stokely Carmichael had expressed the hope that assassins would reach for the lives of President L. B. Johnson and, incredibly, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, the story would be accepted readily enough.

After all, Castro's agents are promoting insurrection and training terrorists for missions in Latin America, and the whole purpose of the Havana conference is to plan strategy for the expansion of these enterprises. So why should it not be credible to the delegates that the CIA would send young Cubans of a different political persuasion on similar missions to their homeland?

Although the LASO delegates need no excuse for their revolutionary aims, this alleged plot could be calculated to encourage them and even to win converts to their cause.

Such tactics are in common use.

As a Safeguard Against Red Influence

Continued Western Presence Urged In Pacific's Vast Trust Territory

By VICE-ADMIRAL RUTHVEN E. LIBBY, USN, Retired

WHAT is generally regarded as the western bastion of the free world — the barrier to Communist expansion eastward from Asia — sweeps in a great arc from the Aleutians through Japan, South Korea, Okinawa, Taiwan and the Philippines south to Australia.

At its westernmost point it is tangent to another arc running through the Indian Ocean littoral whose eastern end passes through Burma, Thailand, the Malay peninsula and Indonesia. Sort of in between, politically and geographically, are "neutralized" Laos and "neutral" Cambodia.

One of the objectives of the bitter struggle in Vietnam is to protect this bastion, just as was the case with respect to South Korea. (It will be recalled that the Korean War began immediately following an unfortunate remark by a high Washington official that Korea was outside the American defence perimeter.)

Between these arcs and the American continents lie some 64 million square miles of ocean and hundreds of islands varying in size from huge to minuscule. For centuries comparatively untouched by the conflicts which ravaged the rest of the planet, their peaceful existence was shattered by the Second World War, and subsequent developments have made it evident that they can no longer remain aloof from the worldwide struggle between the forces of freedom and those of communism.

It is now manifest that sweeping political realignments throughout this vast island complex are essential to their security and to that of the free world.

Geographers have divided this myriad-island world into three main parts. Included in the Hawaii-New Zealand-Easter Island triangle is Polynesia, whose natives are tall and brown-skinned.

★ ★ ★

West of this group, and north of the equator, lies Micronesia, inhabited by a people of medium height but also brown-skinned.

The remainder constitute Melanesia, the "black islands" whose natives have dark skins and kinky hair.

Unfortunately, no such neat and tidy political grouping is possible. Several of the free world's major powers have a finger in the pie one way or another.

Prior to World War, U.S. interests in the Pacific were limited almost entirely to the Hawaiian chain, Midway, Wake, Guam, American Samoa and the Philippines (which were granted their independence in 1946). That war demonstrated how expensive it can be to let a power inimical to the West take over in the Pacific.

★ ★ ★

As a contribution toward seeing that this does not happen again, the Americans continue to administer the Ryukyus, Bonins and Volcano islands under the terms of the San Francisco Treaty of 1951, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific under a trustee arrangement with the United Nations. This latter territory is a huge area which includes the Marshalls, the Carolines, the Marianas less Guam, and the Palaus.

So long as these arrangements continue in effect American interests in her area of responsibility are pretty well protected. The catch is that they have no assurance that these arrangements are in fact permanent.

The U.S. dislodged the Japanese from these islands at a high cost in American blood and treasure. With full justification and complete logic they could have retained full and permanent possession of all or any part of them.

But the state department told the Japanese that they possess something called "residual sovereignty" over the Ryukyus, Bonins and Volcanos—a declaration which is a major headache to the U.S. governor of the Ryukyus and a handicap to the efficient operation of major U.S. military bases on Okinawa.

It is true that Americans have informed Japan that they intend to retain these bases so long as the military situation in the Far East necessitates, but the pressure for returning these islands to Japan continues to increase. It is only a matter of time until some Washington administration succumbs to it.

As for the Trust Territories, the United Nations gave and the United Nations could take away—or try to. It is by no means unthinkable, or even unlikely, that one fine day that organization might try. Should this eventuate, it is to be hoped that the Americans would emulate South Africa and tell the United Nations to go climb a tree.

However, we would be wise to forestall any such possibility by doing now what we should have done at the end of the Second World War—incorporate the Trust Territory outright as U.S. territory.

Various ideas for doing this already are being advanced. One envisions tacking all the Trust Territory onto the state of Hawaii. Another would attach the eastern part to Hawaii and the western part to Guam, the latter combination eventually to form another state. By whatever means it is accomplished, however, the area is so vital to our security that permanent U.S. control over it ought to be assured.

By the same token, Australia would be quite justified to incorporate the Trust Territory of New Guinea and Papua and the eight other outlying territories under outright Australian sovereignty, if only to forestall any future idiocy such as the recent handover of The Netherlands New Guinea to the now deposed Sukarno, in which we connived. And as Britain continues to liquidate her erstwhile responsibilities in the Pacific area, the logical country to pick up the load is Australia.

The Pacific islands vary widely in every respect, with cultures running the entire gamut from the Stone Age to the most sophisticated. But willy-nilly, they are now trapped in the mainstream of world conflict because they are all targets for possible Communist takeover, since they all produce something of value. Individually, because of limited resources and small populations, few or none could defend themselves against any sort of attack, or even survive economically. That is why an orderly and carefully planned consolidation, under the aegis of the free world powers, should be undertaken with no further delay.

It is unfortunate that France, which has sizable holdings in the Pacific, is so little disposed to co-operate with the western powers in any anti-Communist endeavors at this period in history. For right now is a crucial time in the development of the Pacific islands. Many competent observers warn that their future will be determined within the next few years, and see as the alternatives either an unstable, non-viable "proliferation of new nations" or a carefully worked out plan whereby—in the words of the Washington Report—"the island populations will find a permanent place in association with stable, free world nations such as the United States, Australia and New Zealand."

The latter alternative is certainly preferable to the chaos which would result from the former. But it will not just happen; it will have to be arranged.

Ottawa Offbeat

Martin Betrayed By His Own Hero

By GREG CONNOLLEY, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THE federal official who was hit hardest by the Charles de Gaulle bombshell was undoubtedly that old smoothie, Paul Martin, minister of external affairs.

It was true that the main responsibility in rebuking General de Gaulle rested with Prime Minister Lester Pearson, but for sheer suffering Mr. Martin won in a canter.

In the weeks preceding the visit of le grand Charles to Canada, Mr. Martin had been saying how wonderful it was going to be. He said President de Gaulle was a splendid chap and that his visit to Canada would be a great success.

In June, the Honorable Paul even went to call on General de Gaulle at the Elysee Palace in Paris. It was like making a pilgrimage and Mr. Martin emerged starry-eyed from his 25 minutes with the great man.

Among the matters they discussed was the impending visit of the president to Canada. From all that Mr. Martin said, no one could detect that any disasters would develop from the de Gaulle tour of Quebec City, Montreal and Ottawa.

Indeed Mr. Martin reiterated to journalists that the French president would get a splendid welcome in Canada, not only in Quebec but from English-speaking Canadians too.

Mr. Martin just seemed to glow with happiness as he pondered upon the vision of the towering de Gaulle striding happily through throngs of admiring Canadians.

And the external affairs minister observed to newsmen — "he is a great man, one of the great men of our time."

★ ★ ★

The rotund and amiable Mr. Martin of course might have been trying out the theory of positive thinking. Perhaps he believed that if he said often enough that de Gaulle was great and that the pilgrimage to Canada would be wonderful, these things would come to pass.

It is possible that while he was closeted with General de Gaulle at the Elysee Palace, he got a hint or the furores the president would stir up in Quebec. By then of course it would have been too late for Mr. Martin to do anything about it — all he could do was put on a brave front and pray.

It was common knowledge even back in June that there was a certain uneasiness about the de Gaulle visit. There was the business of the president insisting on visiting Quebec first before dropping in on Ottawa.

There were the disputes between federal and provincial officials as to how the tour would be run and who would be in charge.

But these difficulties seemed to outsiders to be more amusing then anything else. No one — unless it was Mr. Martin or just possibly Premier Johnson of Quebec — had an inkling of what was to transpire.

★ ★ ★

At last the great day arrived, the president made his majestic entry to Quebec and landed, as it turned out, to begin a kind of re-conquest of New France.

In short order de Gaulle was bombarding Ottawa, supporting the separatists and rending the very confederation celebration which had brought him to Canada in the first place.

There was that preliminary meanness when Mr. Martin was not invited to attend a Quebec banquet for de Gaulle. Mr. Martin practically had to beg his way into the festivities. And then at Montreal city hall all pretence of accord and amity between the French president and the Canadian government was torn into shreds.

General de Gaulle did the incredible thing of fomenting an attack on the very country which was hosting him. And Mr. Martin who had been championing this man as one of the greats of our time had been shot down in flames.

Abruptly the external affairs minister was summoned back to Ottawa to report on the de Gaulle incident and to participate in the drafting of the statement which sharply rejected the president's intervention in Canadian affairs.

Mr. Martin, too, had to supervise the sending of this Canadian note to the French officials who passed it on to General de Gaulle.

★ ★ ★

It was said later that Mr. Martin had been one of the cabinet ministers who had urged a stern reprimand for de Gaulle — and well he might.

Here was this friendly, amiable Mr. Martin doing his very best to promote good relations between France and Canada. He had been trying to ensure that General de Gaulle would get a tremendous welcome in Canada, particularly in Ottawa.

And thus it ensued that our external affairs minister had his neck stuck way out for de Gaulle and the latter promptly stepped on it with obvious relish.

Well, it was Mr. Martin who said — de Gaulle was one of the great men of our time.

A great man no doubt but not, perhaps, just lately.

By Devious Ways

Conspirators Flock to Cuba

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON from Havana, Cuba

THERE is an air of organized confusion about all international conferences, but of all such gatherings I have attended the first international meeting of the Organization of Latin American Solidarity (OLAS), which began here in the Cuban capital on July 31, holds a record for highly-planned chaos.

The delegates were not diplomats or businessmen, but leaders of opposition groups, many of them clandestine and some of them in open rebellion against their governments, from all over Latin America and the West Indies. The declared aim of the conference was "to unite, co-ordinate and step up the struggle against United States imperialism on the part of all the exploited peoples of Latin America."

Many delegates and observers reached here by devious routes without prior warning of their date of arrival or the composition of their group.

There were also observers from "socialist" countries, from Bulgaria to North Korea, sympathisers like the Negro leader Stokely Carmichael from the United States, a couple of hundred intellectuals and professional men from the Salon de Mayo, an organization founded in France during the Second World War as a kind of cerebral resistance movement.

There was a huge gathering called Cancion Protesta, singers of protest songs from all over the world, some of whom would assuredly be categorised by Fidel Castro as beatniks or layabouts if they had come in any other capacity. And there was an entertainment troupe from the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front, otherwise known as the Viet Cong, invited because in Cuba this is the Year of Heroic South Vietnam. Previous years have been dedicated more prosaically to themes like agriculture. The Vietnamese, men and women, wore smart, well-pressed uniforms, and rather saucy hats. They were small and neat and looked incredibly young. The girls tended to hold hands.

To bring this vast congregation of people to a city like London or Paris, enjoying the best of communications, would be a considerable logistic feat.

★ ★ ★

Bringing them to Havana is an act of faith. Regular air services from the outside world consist of two flights a week from Madrid, one by Iberia and one by an old Britannia of Cubana Airlines, a couple of flights from Prague, one from Moscow, and an erratic service from Mexico City by Cubana.

I had the first taste of the semi-secrecy of this much-publicised gathering at Madrid, where I sat next to two Africans and asked one of them his name and what he'd be doing in Havana.

"Malachi Madimutsa," he said, adding "like a Jewish-Japanese." He was from Rhodesia, a member of ZAPU (the Zimbabwe African People's Union) with headquarters in Zambia. After the conference he and his colleague were staying on to open the first ZAPU office in what he called with geographical inaccuracy a non-Western country. He then offered me a Rhodesian cigarette and looked only mildly put out when I suggested he was trading with the enemy. "The blockade doesn't work anyway," he said.

★ ★ ★

Before leaving London, I had taken care to see I had no Communist literature which might offend the Spaniards and no anti-Communist literature which might offend the Cubans. But in the event neither of them opened my bags at Madrid or Havana.

A black, chauffeur-driven foreign ministry Cadillac took me and three others into Havana. Along the dual carriageway leading into the city the large billboards which once sang the praises of the products of capitalist North America, and which for long remained bare skeletons, had now been refurbished with different messages: "Cuba welcomes the delegates to OLAS" — "Armed Struggle is the only road to revolution" — "World underwater fishing championship, Cuba, September 1967," and on every lamp standard down the centre of the road was an identical placard like a toothpaste advertisement, one after another diminishing into the distance and shouting: "OLAS, OLAS, OLAS, OLAS . . ."

The Capri is a luxury hotel in the heart of Havana's West End whose interior decor looks as if it were designed for a Hollywood mogul in the 1930s. Here the desk would change any foreign money other than U.S. dollars.

In my large, double room with a bath, I found the shower wasn't working, but when, as instructed by a worried official called Comrade Campusano, I telephoned for my breakfast next morning, the voice at the other end, unprompted, answered brightly in American English: "Good morning, room service." Old habits die hard.

After breakfast I told Comrade Campusano that I wanted to go down to Santiago for National Day on Wednesday (this was Monday) and would like to go down on Tuesday and come back on Thursday. No, I couldn't do that; I would have to go today, and be ready at 1:45 p.m. When would I get back? Ah, well, maybe Thursday or maybe Friday. I could cable from Santiago, but first I needed an identity card. Where did I get it? The press office at the Habana Libre Hotel, formerly the Hilton.

There a sentry stopped me and directed me to a side door. A civilian official at the side door said, "You can't get in without a pass."

"But I've come for an identity card."

"I don't know about that, but you can't get in without a pass."

★ ★ ★

Back to Comrade Campusano, who made out a pass on the spot. Back to the civilian official. Okay this time.

Where was the press room? He didn't know. Somewhere inside.

The Libre is a block long and 25 storeys high. When I found the press room a man was listlessly reading a paper and a girl sat at a desk. After more form filling I got my temporary pass.

Could I have a program of the conference? No, she said, it had been postponed until Monday.

Well, could I have a list of delegates or delegations? No, there wasn't one. Could I have any literature on the conference she had. No, it hadn't yet been printed.

Well I was off to Santiago, but when something was printed, could she have it sent round to my hotel? She wrote down my name and room number, but no literature ever arrived.

At 1:20 p.m. Comrade Campusano rushed in to tell us a car for the airport was leaving. The Cadillac hurtled us back past the OLAS signs to Rancho Boyeros where we checked in our baggage and sat hotly in a departure lounge for an hour — the air conditioning had broken down.

★ ★ ★

At last our flight was called. We boarded a Britannia, filling every seat. One of the two stewardesses in blue and white uniforms and stiletto heels addressed us in Spanish and again startlingly in American-English: "Cubana Airlines welcome you aboard their Flight 304 for Santiago de Cuba." The duration of the flight will be approximately one hour and 20 minutes . . ." It sounded like a calm echo from an ordered outside world.

Fishing Treaty Needed

From Portland Oregonian

THE United States, like many other countries, has unilaterally declared its authority to prohibit foreigners from fishing in a zone nine miles farther to sea than the U.S. three-mile territorial zone. The Soviet Union, which claims a 12-mile territorial sea, has entered into a special agreement with the United States to observe the U.S. 12-mile fishing zone.

The United States, however, does not recognize validity of a 200-mile no-fishing-by-foreigners zone proclaimed by Peru and Chile.

Despite the Soviet agreement, which in the name of conservation restricted Russian fishing of certain stocks, like ocean perch, even beyond the American 12-mile zone, some Russian violations of the zone have occurred. These were dealt with in the light of over-eagerness by some skippers who are on a quota system and maximum fines were not imposed.

The Japanese, however, have declined to recognize as American exclusive fishing waters any extension of the three-mile territorial limit. Recently a 330-foot fishing vessel, Tenyo Maru, was caught by the U.S. Coast Guard with nets in place off Segula Island in the Aleutian chain. The Coast Guard said it was within the three-mile zone. The vessel's owners said it was outside the three-mile zone. That it was within the 12-mile fishing zone, nobody disputed.

The Japanese not only wish to nullify the U.S. 12-mile fishing zone and claim traditional or historic rights to fish anywhere beyond the the three-mile limit for bottom fish. They also want to move eastward the North Pacific Treaty line for Japanese catching of sockeye salmon which are spawned in the United States and Canada.

The obvious resolution of the double-standards employed by nations in off-shore fishing is a worldwide treaty or law of the sea. It should recognize the principle that a nation has the right to manage and conserve its seafood stocks in adjacent waters and that other nations must abstain. It should recognize sovereignty of the nation of origin over anadromous fish spawning in inland waters, primarily the salmon. Some progress toward such goals has been made in Law of the Sea conferences in Geneva, but not nearly enough.

It Took Major War to Delay U.S. Explosion

Tenements Bred Riots

By DAVID KRASLOW, from Washington

OPINION

If two of the cheese-baited mousetraps set out at bedtime were occupied in the morning, it was reason enough for self-congratulation.

The war would never end; everyone knew that. The idea was to keep it within manageable limits. Those dead mice represented progress.

The four-room flat had hot water but no heat. The bathtub was in the kitchen; the toilet was outside the flat in the centre of a long, dark, foul-smelling hall with two apartments at either end.

★ ★ ★

Four families (20 persons), as well as passersby on the first floor of the eight-storey, walk-up tenement, shared the toilet. Not only was it like an ice box in winter, but often there was a wide-area spray of freezing water when the chain to the uncovered overhead flush bowl was pulled.

Despite the most diligent efforts at cleanliness, inside the flat, the cockroaches grew bolder— and fatter. The bedbugs persevered.

A vacant flat in that degrading caricature of an apartment building was a rarity. There was nothing better within reach.

This was before and during the Second World War, when the building—already a slum tenement for many years — must have been more than half a century old.

Today, a generation later, this tenement on New York's lower east side still houses human beings on its eight floors, a tenement that can be multiplied by the tens of thousands across the United States.

Today, a generation ater, in a gesture so futile it hurts simply to think of it, President Johnson appoints a commission to find out why there is violence in the ghettos.

Where has he been all these years?

★ ★ ★

Where has Congress, still uncertain in some respects about embracing the second half of the 20th century, been all these years?

Where has the American conscience, the capacity for indignation and compassion been all these years?

It was all there to be plainly seen. One had only to look at the ghettos, and to give some thought to what he saw.

To be sure, there have been changes in a generation. Many whites in that lower east side ghetto have been succeeded by Negroes and Puerto Ricans. And there is a great deal more affluence outside the ghetto easily visible to those trapped inside.

Had it not been for the Second World War, violence might have come to the ghettos much sooner. The pressure was building, but national mobilization for the war uncapped it. For many in the east side ghetto, war was the great liberator, the restorer of dignity, the provider of opportunity.

★ ★ ★

Heads of families suddenly found their services in demand, and at livable wages. Unskilled men who had peddled for peanuts earned $70 a week as sweepers at the Brooklyn navy yard.

The young people, the potential troublemakers, were taken from the ghettos and shown their country and the world. Many returned home from military service just long enough to say goodbye before leaving for a college education at government expense. It wasn't a lark, but the opportunity was there.

The easing of the pressure did not solve the crisis of the cities; it only delayed the explosion.

★ ★ ★

The situation in the ghettos today is far more complex, far more grievous. The educational level has plummeted. The family structure is deteriorating. All of it is infinitely aggravated by the racial factor. For so many, the opportunity — a fair chance — is\not there. Nor is it in sight.

In coping with the ghettos over the past generation, the United States seems to have regressed — while accumulating vast wealth.

It has been increasingly argued in recent years, particularly abroad, that a rich America is denying its revolutionary, reform-minded heritage to become a bulwark of conservatism, a blind protector of the status quo in both foreign and domestic policies regardless of the need for change.

★ ★ ★

The evidence, while not that clear overall, is disturbing in more than a few instances.

The late Arthur M. Schlesinger, Sr., a distinguished historian, held that the reformist streak runs deep in the American character.

He noted, however, "a national preference for evolution over revolution, whether the revolution be peaceable or violent."

But the time for evolutionary reform—for slow or moderately-paced change—in the ghettos may have passed us by.

That may be the deeper meaning of this summer's violent cries from the cities. We misread them at our peril.

The Hon. John Gilbey arrives home from another international tour

England welcomes home the Hon. John Gilbey

Arriving home after another International Tour, the Hon. John Gilbey remarks on the excellent standards of Gilbey's London Dry in Canada. And Gilbey's International Quality Controller announces that he will now compare the English Gilbey's with its overseas brother:

"My gin has been the best gin in the world for no less than 110 years," says the Hon. John Gilbey. "In Canada, for example, I have found that Gilbey's London Dry perfectly matches the original English standard. So now I intend to compare our English product with it."

Next time you see Gilbey's famous frosty bottle, remember the Hon. John Gilbey and his job as Gilbey's International Quality Controller. When you see the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks, bear in mind his proud words: "This is my gin! For no less than 110 years it has carried my family's name. Gilbey's London Dry is the gin with the perfect balance for mixed drinks. And I shall make sure it stays that way."

Italian Reds to Make NATO Election Issue

BACKGROUND

By DAVID MAZZARELLA, from Rome

Italy's membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is developing into a major issue for the national election next spring.

The Communist party, the largest in the West, has warned Premier Aldo Moro's centre-left government that is seeking a showdown over whether Italy should quit the alliance in 1969, when the pact is 20 years old.

Some leaders of the Socialist-Christian Democratic coalition fired away at the Communists during the weekend, saying it would be "unthinkable" for Italy to invoke the treaty clause permitting a member of the alliance to break away then.

But a sizeable number of Socialists and even a few of the traditionally pro-Western Christian Democrats are calling for a re-evaluation of NATO policy and programs.

★ ★ ★

A hard struggle over the issue would have profound effects on the centre-left government in power since 1963. Observers believe many politicians will be reluctant to see NATO continue after 1969 without significant changes in the organization's character and purpose.

There are two big dangers to the coalition:

- A bitter split in the Socialist ranks during the election campaign.
- A serious dispute in the next centre-left government that is almost sure to result from the vote.

Playing on these possibilities and appealing to coalition members who oppose the government's support of NATO, the Communist party newspaper L'Unita says in a front-page editorial: 'The currents of thinking asking for the denunciation of a mechanism (NATO) that renders the U.S. 6th Fleet the arbiter of the politico-military situation in our seas have become gigantic.

★ ★ ★

"The political battle is destined to be opened and extended." L'Unita exhorts Socialists "who do not consider the old socialist principle of neutralism" lost to fight against the government's pro-NATO policy.

The Socialist party's deputy secretary, Giacomo Brodolini, called on Tuesday for a debate on NATO's "transformation and re-adjustment" in an age when the cold war no longer dominates European affairs.

Even Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani, a staunch member of Premier Moro's Christian Democratic party, has been talking of changes in NATO's role. He wants the organization to become an instrument to help close the technological gap between Western Europe and North America.

A deep rift among the Socialists before the national elections — the first such vote since the merger of Socialist militants and moderates last October — would automatically mean trouble for the government coalition, particularly if the Communists gain votes.

This could lead to a new Italian policy demanding a change in NATO's predominantly military emphasis or create enough dissension within the coalition to produce a prolonged crisis.

Press Echoes Alarm

Mao's Appeals Desperate As Struggle Nears Climax

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Special to the Colonist

A note of alarm has crept into the official Chinese press. From its tone, there is a suggestion that much of China has been turned into a battlefield and that a climactic engagement is in prospect to the tense struggle to determine the nation's destiny.

Everywhere in China, the party press appeals constantly for support of those forces seeking to impose or restore total authority of the faction headed by Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Defence Minister Lin Piao against those backing President Liu Shao-chi, whom the official press still calls "China's Khrushchev."

★ ★ ★

There is no way of checking the authenticity of reports concerning either side in the struggle. Posters of the Maoist Red Guards often are deliberately confusing, and the official press is a propaganda instrument. Foreigners on the scene can misread what is going on.

But at present, the sources of information from inside China seem to justify a conclusion that dramatic events are on the way.

★ ★ ★

The Liu Shao-chi faction must be a big one. It has been strong enough to do battle, the reports indicate, even in provinces which have been regarded as Mao strongholds.

A picture emerges of China's biggest city, Shanghai, turned into a main arena of struggle and of the important economic centre, Wuhan, turned into a nightmare of hand-to-hand fighting.

★ ★ ★

Repeatedly the Maoist press warns that anti-Mao forces are about to "stir up a second upheaval" in Shanghai. The first violent upheaval there occurred early in the year.

The impression left by the propaganda is that Shanghai is a powder keg about to explode. Foreign visitors to the city have reported constant outbreaks of fighting in the streets between opposing armed mobs.

★ ★ ★

In Peking, the capital, and in Shanghai, the official press warns Mao's followers that the contest is far from ended. It calls for violence against "the handful of bad leaders" in Shanghai, Wuhan and other areas.

These "bad leaders" are in the party and in the armed forces.

There is a strong suggestion of a powerful dissident movement within the armed forces, led by military figures who have been humiliated by Mao's Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution.

Moscow radio this week said: "Never before has the situation in China been as serious as now."

★ ★ ★

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia detected desperation in the Maoist camp. It said that the Maoists felt impelled to promise a new party congress—the ninth—next summer. It would be five years overdue.

Until recently, the commentator said, "if anyone dared to hint that such a congress should be convened, it was considered heretical and a rabid attack on Chairman Mao." The reason, of course, was that the Maoists lacked the assurance of a party congress majority.

★ ★ ★

Izvestia saw the promise of a congress as a manoeuvre to create the impression that the Maoist side is confident of winning this struggle.

Aug. 18 will be the first anniversary of Mao's blessing of the Red Guard movement, an event which sent the fanatical teenagers out on a wild binge of reckless cruelty against all enemies of the chairman, real or imagined. The story has been one of constant bloodshed and turmoil ever since.

Plankton Sub Camouflage?

The United States Navy may soon be drafting plankton to prevent the tiny plants from helping the enemy, says biologist Jack Littlepage.

Plankton, a minute form of marine life, satisfies the appetites of larger fish.

Dr. Littlepage, a University of Victoria biologist, says he believes they may also be a source of camouflage for submarines in enemy areas.

★ ★ ★

Plankton can be cleverly trapped because of their unique behaviour — when it's light they stay down deep in the water and when the sun sets, the plankton rise to be near available light.

Dr. Littlepage spent more than two years studying the plankton life cycle in the Antarctic. When results of his study were published, the U.S. government's bureau of geographical names labelled a 10,000-foot mountain Mount Littlepage.

★ ★ ★

He was also awarded $15,000 by the U.S. National Science Foundation to continue the studies.

If a submarine in an enemy area detected an enemy vessel nearby, it could huddle in the plankton and escape sonar detection. As well as covering the vessel, the plankton would screen out any sound the enemy devices might pick up.

It may be a little far out, Dr. Littlepage admits, but it's one of the practical applications of his work.

★ ★ ★

The study of Antarctic plankton also has peaceful purposes, the scientist says.

It may provide clues on how to multiply man's present animal food supplies.

By studying the tiny animals, scientists may also learn how to alter the metabolic ratios of his food animals to help speed their growth and reproduction cycle. Hence, more food may be available.

★ ★ ★

The Antarctic with its 10 months of darkness is no place for man, Dr. Littlepage says.

He predicts that a fishing industry will flourish along thhe Antarctic iceline within a few years. But he doesn't think man will be able to take advantage of mineral resources in the territory.

Steak Erases Lake Nightmares

Two cross-country canoeists heading for Expo have discovered that winds on northern lakes can be treacherous, but this was offset by a fabulous meal in Winnipeg.

In a recent letter, UVic students Ken McRae, 21, and Geoffrey Davis, 19, travelled down Lac La Loche and the Methye River, across Peter Pond Lake and most of Lac Ile a la Crosse, all in northern Saskatchewan.

★ ★ ★

"Peter Pond Lake whipped up treacherous three-foot waves. Before making it safely to shore, we came perilously close to tipping several times. For the next few days we had to do most of our travelling in the evening to avoid the high winds," they wrote.

In their latest letter they report reaching Winnipeg to watch the Pan-Am Games — but not without hardships.

In late July they left The Pas to travel southward toward Grand Rapids. They found the landscape strange — flooded by a dam.

★ ★ ★

"The atmosphere of the area was highly reminiscent of a Twilight Zone scene. There we were, paddling through this barren land at evening, no sign of humans, narrow channels bordered by dead trees and undergrowth, strange birds flying through the air emitting weird, eerie sounds, and lightning flashing on the horizon," they wrote.

In several days they reached Grand Rapids, on Lake Winnipeg.

★ ★ ★

"Both the RCMP and the forestry officials strongly advised us against tackling shallow, treacherous Lake Winnipeg.

"Since we were low on funds and were anxious to reach Winnipeg to see the Pan-American Games, we took their advice. We hitched a ride to Winnipeg and shipped our canoe down, a distance of about 250 miles."

At Winnipeg they dined lavishly on wine, filet mignon and lobster.

★ ★ ★

The president of the Kimberley (the boys' home town) Chamber of Commerce, having some doubts whether they would make Winnipeg, said that if they did, he would buy them the biggest steak in Winnipeg.

★ ★ ★

"We had been thinking of this meal for 2,000 miles, and it was no disappointment. All we need to keep us going is a promise of another in Montreal," they wrote.

About a week and a half ago they set out from Winnipeg on the second half of their journey, paddling about 100 miles up Lake Winnipeg, then up the Winnipeg River to Kenora, Ont.

'Kook' Paddlers Ignored by Expo

MONTREAL (CP) — Four Ontario university students, who paddled a canoe 420 miles to Expo from Peterborough, Ont., say the "promises we were given were not honored."

George Ade, David Garrich, Dan Delong and Rodney Hammel, all students of Trent University in Peterborough, say the Expo office in Toronto promised them "red carpet treatment" on arrival here.

"From Expo's point of view, we were just another group of 'kooks' who came to Expo in an unusual way," George said in an interview.

The quartet fought rain, storm and finally the Lachine Rapids to make to Expo last month.

There was no reception and if it had not been for the commodore of the Marina at Expo, they might have been sent paddling back to Peterborough.

The Marina offered a warehouse floor as sleeping quarters.

CHARRINGTON TOBY BEER... NOTED FOR ITS BRITISH GOOD TASTE

The British are noted for good taste. And so is British beer. Does this mean that Charrington Toby has MORE good taste than Canadian brews? No. It simply means that British brewers like Charrington omit a great deal of the fizz inherent in Canadian beer. And when interfering fizz is removed, you get full flavour. THIS is how Charrington Toby achieves good taste: less gas... fuller flavour. Have a Toby!

Stanfield

Left and Right Split Not for Stanfield

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

A sharp split between the political right and left in Canada would tend to divide rather than unify the country, Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia said here Wednesday.

The premier, here on a day-long tour of Vancouver Island to win delegates' votes in his bid for the Progressive Conservative party leadership in Toronto next month, attended a reception in the Empress Hotel.

He said in answer to a question that Alberta Premier Manning's book advocating realignment of the political right might well, as the Alberta premier predicted, cause people to draw together behind the Tory party. Mr. Stanfield said he hoped so.

He added: "I would be disappointed, however, to see any sharp cleavage between the right and left in this country. This tends to divide rather than unify, and in the end creates instability."

TOO COMPLEX

Present day society and its problems, Mr. Stanfield said, are too complex for any government to reach decisions on policy matters by improvisation.

He proposed that both the Tory party and the national government "stop improvising" and substitute a continuing method of policy development by inviting participation of the academic community.

The premier was asked whether this had not already, at the current Tory thinkers conference in Quebec, raised issues like the future role of the monarchy in Canada that would prove political hot potatoes.

NOT PROMINENT

"I don't think (the monarchy) is a question that is prominent in many Canadian minds today," replied Mr. Stanfield. "However, I don't think that all forms of consultation which I propose need necessarily be made public."

On the question of constitutional reforms, Mr. Stanfield said the most important problem requiring solution was the issue of relations between French-speaking and English-speaking Canadians.

URGENT DESIRE

"There is no consensus at present as to what might be required to reach this solution," he said, "but it is something that French Canada urgently desires and I would like to see a dialogue set up within the Conservative party on this question."

Mr. Stanfield arrived here shortly after 3 p.m., proudly wearing the insignia of the Order of the Golden Bathplug in his lapel. It was presented to him by Nanaimo centennial chairman Frank Ney during his visit to that city.

NOT RESPONSIBLE

He rejected Premier Bennett's earlier claim that patronage and deficit financing at the federal level were responsible for Canada's financial woes.

Mr. Stanfield said patronage, as he saw it, was insignificant, and if deficit financing was good for business firms, why not for government?

BASIC CONCEPT

"My conception of the Progressive Conservative party," he said, "is a party that is broadly based so that it can appeal to and draw support from Canadians in all walks of life and in all parts of Canada."

This concept is basic to future Tory success, he said, and if applied conscientiously would tend to "draw the country together."

Socred's Idea Good But Impossible

RED DEER (CP) — Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin Wednesday expressed doubt Canada would ever adopt a two-party political system despite an impending return to majority government.

Mr. Roblin, a candidate for the national Conservative Party leadership, said five political parties on the nation scene were "at least a couple too many."

Commenting on Alberta Premier E. C. Manning's recently published book in which political realignment was called for, Mr. Roblin said he agreed basically with the idea.

Mr. Roblin said the Social Credit premier's call for a return to two-party politics would be good for Canadian democracy, but didn't think it possible.

He disagreed with Mr. Manning's call for the Conservative party to adopt an unchanging set of principles.

In the book Mr. Manning said the Conservatives had the greatest potential as a vehicle for national political realignment.

Mr. Roblin said Canada is a land which encompasses a wide variety of people with a wide variety of problems — a situation under which no party could "hope to espouse a rigid doctrine."

New Plan Critic:

Canada Needs Federalism

A proposal for abolition of provincial governments and setting up of new relationships between Ottawa and a series of city-states in Canada was received here coolly Wednesday.

"We need some federalism in Canada," said Premier Robert Stanfield, here to seek support for his bid as Progressive Conservative leader.

Mr. Stanfield said the proposal by a Vancouver planning group, contained in a paper presented to a Toronto conference on urban problems, would lead to an undesirable degree of centralization.

Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell called the report "academic nonsense" and claimed the system of regional districts introduced in B.C. shows the province's awareness and concern for urban problems.

"He said it was "absolutely false" to suggest regional districts represented a form of taxation without representation, on the grounds municipalities would be spending money raised from unorganized territories.

The paper suggested Canada might consider eliminating provincial governments, leaving Ottawa to deal with all matters except those involving the major urban-centred regions, which then might become city-states on their own.

'Brave girl' welcomed

Pen-Pal Bride Can Cook, Too

VANCOUVER (CP) — "I'm very nervous . . . I don't know what to say," Lucy Wu said shyly as she stepped off a plane Tuesday, into the arms of her future husband — a man she had never met before.

Mrs. Wu, a divorcee from Formosa, arrived from Hong Kong to join her pen-pal bridegroom, Henry Blanchard, of Mission.

"She's a beauty . . . the prettiest girl on the plane," said Mr. Blanchard, 59.

He then placed a bouquet of red and pink carnations into Mrs. Wu's arms, and introduced her to his family.

The meeting at Vancouver International Airport culminated a 16-month romance by mail.

* * *

The role of cupid was played by Frank Feng, of Vancouver, who met the 38-year-old Mrs. Wu at her home in Formosa.

"Frank's been a friend of mine for some time and he suggested I should start writing to Lucy," said Mr. Blanchard, a father of six and grandfather of eight.

"We got on real well in our letters and I think we understand every step what we're doing," he said. "She's a brave girl to come all this way by herself because she's never been out of Formosa before."

* * *

Mr. Blanchard, divorced five years ago, owns a drive-in theatre near Mission and is in the real estate business.

He said Lucy "likes living in the country, and she makes good chow mein."

Mrs. Wu speaks English, but Mr. Blanchard is "French-Canadian, so I'm going to teach her French and I guess I'll soon be talking Chinese too."

Trailer Space On Ferry

A new freight ferry being built at Victoria Machinery Depot will have a second deck for drop trailers.

Above its main deck, where rail cars are carried, will be a second deck on which up to 28 drop trailers may be carried.

A huge hydraulically-operated elevator will lift truck units from the main deck to the top.

NIGHTLY CHARTER

The ship — still unnamed — is being built at an undisclosed price for the Vancouver towing firm of F. M. Yorke and Sons Ltd.

It will be leased on a nightly charter to the CPR for carrying boxcars on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run.

Company manager Lorne Yorke said the vessel likely would be used by Yorke towing during the daytime to serve pulp mills from Port Mellon to Crofton.

Rail capacity will be 25 rail cars, but the first deck could also be used for drop trailers.

Seven Slain In Detroit?

DETROIT (AP)—Three new investigations by city police and the FBI into Detroit riot deaths came to light Wednesday.

Murder charges already have been filed in four deaths, including charges against two policemen.

One of the new investigations prompted Maj.-Gen. Clarence C. Schnipke of the Michigan national guard to say:

"First we are criticized for not shooting enough and then we are criticized for shooting too much."

In another, Homicide Inspector Albert Schwaller said the FBI is investigating the death of John Leroy, 19, a Negro who was shot at a national guard roadblock.

In the third investigation, The News says witnesses told it they saw a policeman kill William N. Dalton, 19, a Negro, while 20 other officers and guardsmen looked on.

★ ★ ★

The News quotes the witnesses as saying the policemen told the youth, apparently stopped for curfew violation, to run, then brought him down with one blast from a shotgun when he did.

Toll in the rioting rose Wednesday to 43 with the death of National Guard Sgt. Larry Poe, 26, of Detroit. He was shot July 26, apparently by a sniper, authorities said.

Meanwhile Michigan Governor George Romney Wednesday warned against the rise of demagoguery in the aftermath of the rioting.

"There will be unreasonable appeals from both whites and Negroes," he told a crowd at Ionia, Mich. "Men of reason should recognize these dangers and guard against compounding error by piling misdirection on top of disorder."

★ ★ ★

Maj.-Gen. Schnipke said an FBI agent called him Tuesday to question him about the death of a man killed at a guard roadblock and that the call "came as a shock."

Schnipke said he "presumed" the death in question was that of Henry Denson, 27, a Detroit Negro.

The official police and guard report lists Denson as death No. 17 at 2:10 a.m. Tuesday, July 25. The report says Denson was "shot by national guardsmen while trying to run a roadblock."

Veteran Dies

'Bomber' Inquiry Launched

TRAIL (CP) — The department of transport launched an inquiry Wednesday into the crash of a water bomber, north of this southeastern British Columbia city Tuesday night, that claimed the life of its pilot.

The victim was Don Hill, a veteran pilot who had four years experience with Skyway Air Services of Abbotsford, in the Fraser Valley, owner of the single-engined Grumman Avenger bomber. His family said Mr. Hill joined the RCAF in the Second World War and had about 20 years' experience as an air force pilot.

BROKE IN TWO

The Avenger was bombing a fire started by lightning at Kelly Creek, near here, when it went out of control and broke in two after striking a tree. It crashed in a ball of fire.

It had been reported that Mr. Hill dropped his load of purple-colored bentonite mud before reaching the blaze, indicating he was experiencing some trouble with the aircraft.

The aircraft was one of three Avengers based at Castlegar, north of here, which were attacking the Kelly Creek fire.

Assault Nets Fine of $350

* * *

Courtroom Parade

An Esquimalt man was fined $350, for assaulting a peace officer, in a judgment rendered by Magistrate William Ostler in central magistrate's court Wednesday.

Magistrate Ostler found Maxwell F. Norrish, 25, of 1266 Woodway, guilty of having assaulted Cpl. Douglas Sproxton on June 22, on the basis of evidence given at the trial last week.

He emphasized the seriousness of the offence, and said he was fully aware the "Court of Appeal recently directed magistrates to deal firmly and harshly with assaults on peace officers."

He said, "A jail sentence would be justified by reason of the offence itself."

In mitigation, however, he said, the accused had been influenced by liquor, emotionally upset, and had inflicted a "minimal assault."

The evidence produced at the trial showed that Cpl. Sproxton had gone to Norrish's residence following a phone call from a guest saying Norrish was "beating up a girl."

On that occasion, Cpl. Sproxton had been assured things were under control, but the same guest subsequently flagged down a patrol car, and Cpl. Sproxton had also returned to the scene.

Police Not Recalled

The defence lawyer claimed Cpl. Sproxton had not had sufficient reason to be there the second time, when the assault occurred, since the police had not been called a second time.

Magistrate Ostler ruled, however, that it was a "situation which would cause any conscientious officer to look further into the situation," and found Cpl. Sproxton "clearly in execution of his duty."

* * *

James W. Lilley, 20, of 2630 Cadboro Bay, was fined $250 for being impaired while in care and control of a vehicle.

Magistrate Ostler took into consideration the fact that Lilley had recognized the fact he was too drunk to drive and had pulled over to sleep it off, when he was arrested at 10:15 p.m. Tuesday on Lansdowne.

"A lot of people twice your age don't have this much sense," Magistrate Ostler said.

Concerning licence suspension, Crown prosecutor John MacIntyre said Lilley had three previous convictions and had just had his licence back for three days following a 15-day suspension.

Lilley said he would lose his job if he had his licence suspended, and Magistrate Ostler agreed he did not "want to jeopardize your career."

He placed Lilley on his own recognizance for six months, in the amount of $350, confined his driving to business vehicles and ordered him to surrender his personal licence plates for six months.

Driven Carelessly

In central traffic court, Ronald J. Fraser, also known as Fagan, was found guilty of being the registered owner of a vehicle which had been driven carelessly. Judgment was reserved one day.

The evidence showed the car owned by Fraser, driven by a female, had been noted twice around midnight June 17, exceeding the speed limit on the Town and Country shopping centre parking lot and running a stop sign.

Fraser claimed he was home in bed, and his car was at home, too.

* * *

John E. L. Johnson of 2535 Selwyn was fined $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

The evidence showed he had bumped a boy June 3 when leaving the Western Speedway and, although notified of the incident, had driven away.

Court was informed he had seven previous driving offences and two convictions under the Government Liquor Act.

* * *

Bruce S. Shaw, 21, of 3332 Metchosin, was fined $350 and had his licence suspended for impaired driving. The evidence showed he had struck a car causing $25 damage, at 5:25 a.m., July 23 in a parking lot at 1338 Hillside.

* * *

Fined for careless driving: Patricia Evans of 450 Simcoe, $35; Peter Stuart Kennedy of 3877 Saanich, $40; John Jesse Macenko of 1140 Pandora, $40.

Visitors' Bureau

Historic Totem Pole Stolen on Causeway

A thief with an eye for history stole a 10-foot totem pole from the visitors' bureau office on the Causeway Tuesday night.

Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity and Visitors' Bureau commissioner Mike Heppell said the theft of Kha-Ne-Ki-Laq from the pedestal where it had stood for 20 years must have been planned.

"The thief or thieves must have had an excellent hacksaw," he said. "The steel bracket was cut so cleanly."

The totem depicted a legendary benefactor of coastal Indians, known for his acts of kindness, believed to be the son of the first man and called by many The Wanderer.

Mr. Heppell said the loss will be felt by the bureau, since it has long been a photographic prop for camera bugs and a conversation piece for tourists.

He had no word on the totem Wednesday.

Danes Publish LSD Coupons

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — A left-wing Danish periodical said to contain a coupon impregnated with the hallucinatory drug LSD, has gone on sale. Editors of the Politisk Revy said a treated tearout two-inch square had been included in a few of the editions.

Some Cash Taken At Bowling Alley

Thieves made off with a small amount of cash in the Tuesday night burglary of the Mayfair Lanes bowling alley.

Saanich police reported entry had been gained by smashing a rear window. The door to the manager's office was forced and the keys to the vending machines taken, but the machines had been emptied of cash earlier, leaving only a small amount.

Two fishboats, moored at the Johnson Street fishwharf were entered and items stolen.

Fred Sheldrake of 841 Ellery reported a compass worth $50 and some foodstuffs had been stolen from his boat; Silver Jacura of 2659 Douglas reported a $20 compass and a $6 barometer missing.

SODA keeps refrigerators clean — odorless

A solution of Cow Brand Baking Soda (3 tablespoons per quart of water) makes an economical cleanser. Recommended by refrigerator manufacturers, it cuts film, removes stains, won't scratch, "sweetens" crispers, ice trays and all food containers to keep meat and vegetables fresh, flavorful.

Mailless motel 'temporary but comfortable'

Motel Raps U.S. Move

Mail Ban Protested

MONTREAL (CP) — A delegation from the 350-room Canadiana 67 Motel here plans to go to Washington to contest a decision by the United States Post Office banning all U.S. mail addressed to the motel.

Manager Paul Baker said Wednesday the decision was "completely unfair since we were not advised in advance by the American government."

He said the motel was not operating under false pretences and everything published in advertising brochures circulated in the U.S. was true—except that there are only 300 rooms and not 400 as advertised.

'FRAUDULENT'

The U.S. Post Office Tuesday ordered postal officials to seize letters headed for the Montreal motel and return them stamped "fraudulent."

A spokesman said in Washington the motel had been fraudulently promising first-class accommodation and demanding advance deposits in full.

NOT FIRST-CLASS

Mr. Baker said in an interview that his advertising brochure does not claim the Canadiana is a first-class motel. It simply promised comfortable, completely new rooms near downtown Montreal and near Expo 67.

The brochure did not use the words "temporary structure" either, but it described the motel as "constructed especially for Expo."

OFF LIST

The motel was dropped from the Logexpo-approved list several weeks ago, but continues to identify itself with the Expo reservation office through a Logexpo membership card at its desk.

Meanwhile, Norton Buel, general manager of Canadian Tours Ltd. which operates Canadiana Village, a 160-room motel in suburban Longueuil near Expo, issued a statement saying his firm is not connected with the Canadiana 67 motel.

NO TRIAL

Norman May, legal counsel for Canadiana 67, complained that U.S. post office officials were "finding us guilty without even the elementary prerequisite of a trial."

He said the U.S. postal department did not check to see if its information was correct. It was misinformed about room prices, which are not $28 a day per person but $22 a day for two persons.

NEW POLICY

As for the deposits, half the amount was demanded in making a reservation and the rest four weeks in advance at the beginning of Expo. A new policy now demands only one-third down as deposit and the rest on arrival.

Another Canadiana official said Wednesday that last week he was shown a letter signed by Expo General Manager Andrew Kniewasser in which three conditions were set out for the Canadiana to be reinstated within Logexpo.

CONDITIONS MET

One of them involved the refunding of deposits and another the lowering of prices. "We have agreed to this," he said, "but the only response we got was in the U.S. Post Office action."

Logexpo Offered To Hotels

MONTREAL (CP) — Logexpo, the lodging agency of Expo 67, was offered lock, stock and barrel to the Montreal hotel industry Wednesday but only one of 21 major city hotels expressed interest.

Robert F. Shaw, deputy commissioner-general of the fair, made the offer in a statement on the Expo accommodation situation.

It followed the announcement by a downtown hotel that it was setting up an emergency accommodation service for Expo visitors.

Rene Eschenlohr, president of the 20-member Montreal Hotel Association, said in an interview the offer is not being taken as a serious proposition and the association would not be interested in taking charge of Logexpo.

Donald Mumford, managing director of the hotel offering the emergency service—the Queen Elizabeth—said in a statement he "would be willing to discuss the possibility of taking over the operation of Logexpo alone, and to operate it independently of all other segments of Expo, or we would be prepared to do it jointly with other hotels."

This contradicted a statement made by him earlier in the day that his hotel was not interested in accepting Mr. Shaw's offer.

Statement Not Read

A spokesman for Mr. Mumford said the earlier statement was accurate as reported but he had made it before reading the full text of Mr. Shaw's statement.

Meanwhile, the hotel's emergency service announced Monday by Mr. Mumford, was in full swing and a spokesman said 408 persons had been found rooms by late Wednesday.

Crowds of between 20 and 60 surrounded the lobby desk where six phones were in constant use by a staff of 15. Planned to operate seven days a week between 11 a.m. and 11 p.m. to "help visitors find good accommodation in the city at fair prices," the booming business made it likely that the hours of operation would be extended.

By Wednesday 800 calls and 100 letters had been received. The service is free.

In Quebec City, Premier Daniel Johnson, commenting on Mr. Shaw's statement, said hotel-keepers should have undertaken, from the very start, the activities that have been handled by Logexpo.

Logexpo has been under intermittent fire for months because of alleged inadequacies in accommodation it has listed.

Water Contaminated

Clamor Echoes In Empty Camp

MONTREAL (CP)—The Seaway Trailer Park, jammed with about 1,200 campers early this week, was practically deserted Wednesday after its drinking water was found to be contaminated.

But the 29-acre south shore lot near Expo 67 still echoed with the cries of tourists who demanded refunds after being ordered off the site by police. The lot was shut down Tuesday night on orders from the Quebec health department.

Health officials had determined that drinking water was drawn from near the lot's septic tank.

Many of the campers refused to move out immediately Tuesday night because they had no other place to go.

An employee of the trailer park said Wednesday the campers were told refunds would be mailed to them soon. About 300 families, averaging four members each, had been staying at the trailer park at the time of the closing.

Stranded visitors at the trailer park Wednesday were offered free accommodation at another camping site nearby for the period they had booked at the Seaway site.

Some of the visitors said they had paid up to $100 for their accommodation at the site.

Complaints Varied

Visitors have complained about camp sites with poor facilities, over-charging, low-quality temporary motels and even lodgings that were not there when the visitor arrived. Another sore point has been the refusal of some lodging operators to return deposits in some cases when the customers were not satisfied.

In his statement Wednesday Mr. Shaw said the ratio of visitors who complain about accommodation is "small."

"We estimate one complaint for every 4,000 bed nights," he added.

However, "as a result of complaints, the Quebec Lodging Service has, to date, instituted some 103 prosecutions where in their opinion the law had been broken."

"Logexpo . . . has ceased to make referrals to 41 establishments for one or more of the following reasons:

- They were delisted by the Quebec Lodging Service.
- It was obvious they were over-booking.
- They proved to be agents rather than establishments.
- Their permits were rescinded or withheld by the city of Montreal.
- There were an excessive number of apparently justifiable complaints or serious complaints to Logexpo and the Quebec Lodging Service."

Establishments to which Logexpo had ceased to make referrals had caused "70 per cent of the complaints received by the Quebec Lodging Service" and some of these establishments "still are certified by the Quebec Lodging Service" because "it has not yet been demonstrated that they have contravened the law."

Okanagan Apples Best Since 1963

KELOWNA (CP) — British Columbia Tree Fruits Ltd. estimated Wednesday this year's Okanagan apple crop will be the largest since 1963.

Total production is expected to go as high as 289,300,000 pounds, and fresh-market sales of 232,000,000 pounds are hoped for with the remainder being processed or canned.

This would be an increase of 16,000,000 pounds in market sales over last year.

Unexpected Disaster Ends Trip to Expo

By BOB PETHICK

The voyage of the 27-foot gaff-rigged sailboat Pagan I from Victoria to Expo has ended in disaster, but not for any of the reasons many people thought it would.

"I was working on the canal (Panama) trying to make enough money to get going again," owner-skipper Karl Darwin said by telephone from his home on Lasqueti Island.

"The first thing I heard about it was a message from Balboa telling me the boat had broken loose from its moorings at the yacht club in a gale, and broken up on the rocks," he said.

* * *

Karl was the last remaining member of the two-girl-and-one-man crew of the Pagan that left Victoria for Expo in late October.

Beverly Stevens, 22, was taken off the Pagan outside San Francisco when she became ill.

Jackie Shaw, 21, grew homesick for England and boarded the P and O Orient liner Canberra after the Pagan made Balboa.

There were a few skeptics around when the determined trio put to sea in their 16-year-old engineless sailboat, but this didn't bother any of them.

* * *

"We had all worked on sailboats, so we weren't worried," said Karl.

The first trip between Victoria and Esenada took the craft 32 days.

"Some days we would be making terrific time. Other times we sat still and there was no wind at all," said Karl.

At Ensenada they ran straight into trouble.

"The customs people lost our money, then misplaced a money order and finally wouldn't cash a money order when it arrived," he said.

* * *

"Throughout their wrangle with the customs and immigration over money matters Karl and Jackie worked aboard the 150-foot steel yacht Explorer.

"We had to keep food on the table," said Karl.

"We finally got straightened out and left Ensenada Dec. 18. We spent Christmas in Turtle Bay, San Bartoli. New Year's Day we were becalmed off the Mexican coast," he said.

* * *

Things improved Jan. 2 when the Pagan arrived in San Lucas. "We painted the deck, built sand castles, went skin diving and studied all kinds of interesting fish," said Karl.

The next attraction Jan. 15 was a coconut plantation at Isla Grande but Karl didn't know it was a plantation.

* * *

"I picked quite a few coconuts before I found out it was a plantation. I swapped the proprietor a bottle of native rum for the coconuts. We opened coconuts and put rum in them. It turned out to be pretty good," he said.

At Acapulco the Pagan ran into other Victoria boats and Karl built a self-steering wind vane copied from one aboard the Victoria craft Dragon.

* * *

"In the next 38 days at sea I only had to steer for about 10 hours," he said.

En route to Balboa while navigating with small scale chart Karl found himself approaching on the inside of some breakers.

"Jackie was asleep. When I called her she came up and took a look then went down and put her diet pills and passport in a plastic bag then went back to sleep again," said Karl.

* * *

A coast guard vessel saw their plight and towed them to safety and through the tricky channel for about a day.

"That tow saved us between three days and a week," said Karl.

The Pagan arrived in Balboa April 15. The trip took 31 days. "We were going through squalls of up to 50 miles an hour followed by long periods of being becalmed," said Karl.

* * *

Jackie left for England aboard the Canberra not knowing it would be the last time she would see the Pagan afloat.

"I ripped the mainsail on the trip from Acapulco to Balboa. There was a new one on order. I was working on the canal trying to make some money for the next part of the trip when I received word June 9 she slipped her moorings at Balboa and broke up," he said.

But for the benefit of the cynics the break-up wasn't caused by poor navigation or seamanship.

* * *

Back at Lasqueti he plans to go beachcombing with his brother and build up a little capital but after that he isn't sure.

"Maybe I'll try for Expo again," he says.

3 Cees Controversy

'Veterans Should Pick Club of Their Choice'

A veteran's choice of a social club cannot be dictated by a "quarterdecker," the secretary of the 3 Cees Association, Donald Sykes, said Wednesday.

* * *

A. C. Wurtele, honorary corps commandant, has said the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires will stand by its demand that members of the 3 Cees Association disband by Aug. 17 or lose membership in the corps.

"The 3 Cees is a veterans' organization like the Legion or the Army, Navy and Air Force veterans," said Mr. Sykes.

"No quarterdecker is going to dictate to veterans what association they can belong to."

He said the threat by the corps of taking away membership in the corps from 3 Cees members is a vicious thing.

Mr. Wurtele had suggested the 3 Cees was taking over functions such as welfare, which constitutes management of the corps.

"Every association has a welfare committee," said Mr. Sykes. "Just because we happen to have corps members making up 75 per cent of our membership does not mean we are trying to manage the corps.

* * *

"We wouldn't want to go down so far as to associate ourselves with the present management of the corps, which leaves a lot to be desired," added Mr. Sykes.

Mr. Sykes said the Aug. 17 ultimatum is a threat to every member, and he challenged Mr. Wurtele to put the case to an impartial hearing.

Eskimo Artists Worth Notice

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

Thirty-six artists are represented in the latest collection of Eskimo graphic art at 1208 Wharf, 21 women and 15 men.

This may seem surprising but the conditions under which the Eskimos live have changed so rapidly that the women have greater opportunities now to develop instinctive individual styles.

Lucy, the most popular of the Cape Dorset artists, is possibly the most widely know for her fresh viewpoint and even in the Tate Gallery in London, England, her Large Bear, a print of exceptional power, caused a sensation when first exhibited there in 1960.

In this exhibition, which will remain on view until Aug. 24, her work dominates.

I was particularly struck by the powerful rhythms of Goose Fighting For Fish, a stone cut in black and brown. The statement in this is simple and direct. Line dominates, but there is enough change and variety of texture to provide richness.

She is represented by eight outstanding stone cuts, three beauties being Bird, Chasing Geese and Woman Scraping Sealskin, but Bird Startled By Spirit must not be missed for its rare charm.

But it is difficult to concentrate on one artist when so many other good ones claim one's notice.

Mural for Expo

There is the work of Eliyah, who was commissioned to create a mural for Expo; of Parr, with his rugged strength of creative vision; Jamasie reminiscing about life as it was lived in his young days, using the human figure as his medium of expression; Kananginak, the youngest son of the great Pootogook, hunter, engraver and textile printer, president of the Co-operative of Cape Dorset, a leader of his people and valuable to the community for his artistic talents.

Another woman artist is Kenojuak, whose Enchanted Owl is one of the greatest prints ever to emerge from Cape Dorset.

There is Kiakshuk, the storyteller and singer of old songs, Pudlo, whose work shows a uniquely Eskimo way of expression and is strongly spiritualistic; Pitseolak, another woman artist who has many outstanding prints to her credit and whose work has been purchased by the National Gallery of Canada; Pauta, a sculptor, bold, simple and monumental, whose Startled Owl is one of the attractions of this exhibition.

Johnniebo is one of the most distinguished artists in his wide variety and great power. Others are Sharni, Innuksuakju, Paunichea and Pootagook.

All of these combine to make this exhibition one of the events of the current year. It will be more widely shown than those of the past, being already booked for 10 European cities as well as for galleries in Canada and the United States.

Wounding Aftermath

Metchosin Requests No-Shooting Rules

Metchosin may shortly be covered by "no shooting" regulations, according to Geoffrey Mitchell, area representative on the Regional Board.

He said Wednesday he had asked the provincial fish and wild life branch of the recreation and conservation department to extend the area where the discharge of firearms is prohibited, to cover the built-up areas of Metchosin.

A ban on shooting in the Langford and Colwood area came into effect recently after an order-in-council, and Mr. Mitchell said he had been assured the department would consider extending the boundaries.

Mr. Mitchell's request followed shooting incidents in the area, the most recent Monday when a four-year-old girl was nicked by a ricocheting bullet.

RCN Cruises

They'll Be Sailing —Destination Secret

Esquimalt-based sailors will travel to faraway places as yet undisclosed in extended training cruises being planned.

Two cruises are tentatively lined up, one this fall and one early next year.

* * *

But navy officials declined to say where, since the areas have not yet been cleared with external affairs department. Unofficial word around HMC Dockyard is that Japan and Australia will be the destinations.

Both cruises will include ships of Pacific Maritime Command.

* * *

Also, Esquimalt-based ships will join those of Atlantic Command and the U.S. next year in the annual Maple Spring exercise, possibly in the Carribbean.

North Saanich Native Was Pioneer's Son

A native son of the North Saanich area, John Stanley Brethour, died Tuesday at 86.

Mr. Brethour was born in North Saanich on Nov. 2, 1881, and was the second son of North Saanich pioneer farmer John Brethour.

He lived most of his life on the Saanich Peninsula, apart from several years when he worked as a contractor in Vancouver, and his wife, Harriett Amelia Brethour, died last Feb. 2.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Donald Simpson of Victoria; three sisters, Mrs. Lilly Thomas of Victoria, Mrs. Maria Hirst of Vida, Ore., and Mrs. Marjorie Smith of Sidney, and one brother, Phillip E. Brethour of Sidney.

Funeral service will be held at Sands funeral home in Victoria, at 1 p.m. Friday, Rev. F. C. Vaughan-Birch officiating. Burial will be in Royal Oak Cemetery.

Sechelt Queen Rams Langdale Ferry Slip

LANGDALE (CP) — The B.C. government ferry Queen of Sechelt rammed a dock here Tuesday, ripping out steel-plated timbers and delaying service for 45 minutes.

Witnesses said the vessel hit a guide wall, snapping off ten-inch-square pilings covered with steel plate. A portion of the wall fell on to the prow of the fully-loaded ferry. The vessel was freed by workmen with cutting torches.

Canadians Win On Pressure Putt

By BRIAN DOHERTY

A 14-foot eagle putt stared at Vancouver's Johnny Johnston as he stood on the 17th green of the Victoria Golf Club Wednesday. It was a putt that would swing Canada's match with South Africa in the Commonwealth tournament.

As Johnston studied his putt this much was known:

- The Canadians trailed after the morning foursomes by one win to two;
- Gary Cowan and Nick Weslock had won their singles;
- Doug Silverberg had been walloped;
- Keith Alexander was one up playing 17;
- Wayne Vollmer was two down playing 16; and
- The Canadians had to win four singles to take the match.

Johnston was even on 17 with John Fourie, South Africa's top match-play man.

Fourie was two feet inside Johnston's ball as they lined up their eagle putts.

Johnston's putt curled in and he had his eagle. Suddenly Fourie's putt was longer and harder. Fourie missed on the inside and Johnston was one-up. Canada had a toe in.

He held the advantage. Alexander kept Comrie Du Toit out and the Canadians had their victory by five matches to four.

After he holed an 18-incher to halve the last hole with the painstakingly slow Fourie, he said: "That putt on 17 was the big one."

Fourie was 20 yards in front of him off the tee but Johnston arched a beautiful five iron to the left side of the pin.

"I knew Keith and I had to win," said Johnston.

Alexander had a break in his match against Du Toit. They were even coming into 18 and Alexander dropped his approach short. But Du Toit over-clubbed and finished off the green.

Alexander, with a typical effortless swing, put the ball close and Du Toit came up short. That gave Alexander a one-up lead and the match.

WON FOURSOMES

South Africa, which thumped Australia on the opening day Tuesday, again showed its strength in the morning foursomes.

Derek Kemp and Hugh Balocchi defeated Weslock and Johnston, 2 and 1. Fourie and Rod Mullan downed Silverberg and Vollmer, 3 and 2.

Canada's only win came with Cowan and Alexander beating Dave Symons and Du Toit, 4 and 3.

But the Canadians got away to a great start in the afternoon singles, largely because of the brilliance of Cowan.

ONE UNDER, TWO DOWN

Playing Kemp, South Africa's amateur champion, Cowan was two in the trap at the side of the first green with a drive and a four iron. They shared birdies.

On the shortish par-three second, Cowan canned a 40-footer from off the green for a birdie. He was one-up. He birdied three with a 20-foot putt and Kemp was two down and one under par.

Cowan muscled a magnificent drive on the fourth, over 300 yards, and finished in the beach that fronts the fifth tee. He took a one-stroke penalty but still almost won the hole when Kemp was scrambling.

As it was, Kemp won it with a pressure putt.

ENDED ON 18TH

The match finished on the 18th when Cowan drew his tee shot around the trees, leaving him a lazy wedge to the green. His drive travelled 300 yards before striking a small tree.

Weslock began with a birdie on first against the diminutive Symons. He birdied the fifth to finish the front nine one-under par and three-up.

Symons birdied 10 against Weslock's par but the Canadian came back with a birdie on 12.

Silverberg could do little right in his match against Mullan. He was erratic with his irons while Mullan kept up his fine play.

Mullan had five birdies in the match and finished one-under par after hitting two balls out of bounds.

Balocchi, who came into the South African team when Bobby Cole turned professional, also turned onto the 10th hole one under par.

He turned the tricky par-three seven with a birdie two and followed it with another two on the eighth.

Aussies Suffer Second Setback

By BRIAN DOHERTY

Gordon Cosh burned up the front nine of the Victoria Golf Club Wednesday with a five-under par 28 and then had to come back to down Australia's Bill Britten, one-up, in their singles clash in the Australia-Great Britain match in the Commonwealth tournament.

Britain won the match by five matches to four to hand the Australians their second straight loss. The Australians, who had tied with Britain for first place in the last Commonwealth in Sydney, are at the bottom of the standings.

EAGLE ON FIRST

Cosh began brilliantly with an eagle three on the first hole. He then birdied the second, parred the third, birdied the fourth, parred the fifth and sixth, birdied the seventh, and parred eight and nine.

That left him four-up after nine holes.

But Britten wasn't playing marbles. He birdied the first and the eighth to finish the nine with an even par 32.

Then came the Aussie's fight. He parred 10, birdied 11, 12 and 13 to even the match. They halved 14 with pars and Britten took the lead for the first time with a par four on 15 against a bogey five.

WELL UNDER PAR

But Cosh tied it up on 16th with a par against a bogey and won the 17th with a birdie. They halved 18 with pars and Cosh finished the day with a four-under par 66.

Britten was two-under on the back nine and ended with a 67.

The Australians had taken an early lead when they won two of the three foursomes.

Kevin Donohoe and Kevin Hartley beat Ronnie Shade and Sandy Saddler, 6 and 5, and Dennis Bell and Vic Bulgin downed Cosh and Rodney Foster, 4 and 3.

SCORED LONE WIN

Britain's only win in the foursome came when Mike Bonallack and Dudley Millensted beat Phil Billings and Britten, 5 and 4.

Bonallack and Millensted got their margin on the point holes when they birdied seven, eight and nine.

Some of the day's best golf was seen in the afternoon singles between the Australians and British.

Hartley split his game with Bonallack as he shot a one-under 69 against Bonallack's 68. They both birdied the eighth.

STILL WINLESS

Phil Billings, described by Australian manager Les Graham as the team's steady player, has yet to win a game this week.

He shot par golf but lost out to Rodney Foster, one-up. Foster, who ended on-under par, Foster, who ended one-under par, was two holes down with five to play and headlined his charge with an eagle on 17.

Donohoe eagled the first hole in his singles match against Ronnie Shade for a three-under 67. Shade, who was two down after four holes, finished with a 68 and they split their singles match.

Nanaimo Wins Opener

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Little league teams from Nanaimo, B.C., and San Fernando Valley, Calif., were victorious Wednesday in the western regional finals.

Nanaimo defeated Clearfield, Utah, 6-5, scoring the winning run in the seventh inning on a single, an error and an infield out. Dale Fitzbarry was the winning pitcher.

The losing and winning teams meet today in the double elimination tournament. The eventual winning team moves into the national finals at Des Moines, Iowa, next week.

Shamrocks Fade in Third Drop Decision to 'Bellies

As far as Victoria Shamrocks are concerned, the only statistic that came out of last night's game is that they are not going to finish on top of the Inter-City Lacrosse League standings.

New Westminster Salmonbellies made sure of that with a great third period surge that saw them outscore the Shamrocks, 8-2, and breeze to an 18-13 win.

Shamrocks stayed in second place in the standings, one point ahead of Coquitlam, but Salmonbellies kept alive their chances of getting into the playoffs by moving to within two points of Coquitlam.

Tonight, Rocks play a return engagement in New Westminster. Coquitlam and Vancouver wind up league play with a game in Coquitlam Saturday night.

Last night, Shamrocks played the first five minutes in each period as though they were trying to keep Paul Parnell of New Westminster off the scoresheet, and set up their own Ranjit Dillon.

Parnell and Dillon are in a battle for the league scoring championship, and last night Parnell picked up two goals and three assists to Dillon's one goal and three assists.

Dillon still holds his lead but the margin has been cut to three points, 90-87, and the game tonight will settle the issue.

Although the spotlight was focused on Dillon and Parnell the big man last night was New Westminster defenceman Ian Bull. He scored five goals and five assists to have his biggest night in Inter-City competition.

New Westminster scored the first three goals of the game, but Shamrocks came back and held a 6-4 lead at the end of the first period.

Salmonbellies came back again in the first four minutes of the second period and had a 8-7 lead going into the second half of the period.

Americas, Europe Split Opening Events

MONTREAL (CP)—The Americas track and field stars edged ahead of Europe's best Wednesday night, 79 points to 74 at the half-way mark of the inaugural two-day meet.

A damp and soggy evening, but without rain after the start was made, seemed to affect the athletes. Only one — Vince Matthews of the United States— came within hailing distance of a world mark.

Matthews breezed to his win in the 400-metre run in 45 seconds flat, one-tenth of a second off the world record.

FEW RECORDS SET

Only a scattering of Canadian open records were set.

Europe's most spectacular win was supplied by Roger Bambuck of France in the 100-metre sprint. He defeated Willie Turner and Jerry Bright of the United States.

ALMOST EVEN

The 15 events were almost evenly split. The Americas won seven of the men's events and one of the women's. The Europeans took five first places in the men's and two in the women's.

In the points breakdown, the Americas' men took 57 points and the women 22. The Europeans scored 47 in the men's events and 27 in women's.

Two Vancouver Teams Eliminated

Two Vancouver teams were eliminated yesterday as play started at Hampton Park in the provincial Little League baseball playoffs.

Losers took what were believed to be the worst pounding in the history of the event as Trail blasted Vancouver Shaughnessy, 18-0, behind the one-hit pitching of Rick Babcock and Whalley overwhelmed East Vancouver, 13-2.

There's a consolation game for the losers this afternoon at 2 but play for the championship is a sudden-death thing and yesterday's results leave the two winners, Victoria Hampton and West Vancouver in the semi-finals.

Hampton plays Trail this evening at 6 and Whalley and West Vancouver play the other semi-final tomorrow. The final is set for Saturday.

Babcock, who lost his no-hitter to a second-inning double, struck out 11 and had no worries after the second, when his teammates scored 10 times to go with the five runs they managed in the first inning.

Ted Springenadek was almost as well off, Whalley scoring eight runs in the first three innings.

Rick Babcock and Rud Bunsko; Billy Steward, John Hewell (2) and Mike McNaughton.

Whalley	2	1	5	0	0	0
East Vancouver	1	0	1	0	0	0

Ted Springenadek and Rod Duncan; Dave Kusik, Larry Whitehead (3) and Larry Kaios.

Lister's Four-Hitter Gives Greaves Win

Jerry Lister pitched a four-hit shutout Wednesday at Royal Athletic Park as Greaves hustled to a 3-0 victory over King's Hotel.

The win gave Greaves a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five Senior Amateur Baseball League semi-final series.

The 19-year-old righthander was in command all the way, striking out 13 batters. Lister issued a single base on balls in each of the last two innings.

Plucky Dave Rivers scored Greaves' first two runs. In the fourth inning he singled, moved to second on Les Brice's bunt single and scored on Bob Lumley's hot single off shortstop John Yankoski's glove.

In the sixth, he walked, moved to third on an infield out and a passed ball, scoring on Lumley's sacrifice fly.

Jerry Ciochetti scored the third run on a double steal in the seventh inning.

Rawlings hold a 1-0 lead in the other series going into today's game at 6:30 p.m.

They Could Win Without Swinging a Club

By JIM TANG

If you're a golf fan and gave been following the progress of the Commonwealth Matches this week you'll know about Mike Bonallack and how he has been playing.

You'll know something, too, about the other 29 world-calibre swingers but it may come as a surprise that fellows named Phil Farley, Bryan Silk, Basil Heartland and Leslie Graham can come up with strokes which play an important role in deciding the team championship.

They'll do it without swinging a club in the competition in a little game of stategy and psychology which takes place every day and which ends approximately a half hour after the last singles match of the day has been completed.

They are the men entrusted with making the decision on what order their six players will play— Farley, Silk and Heartland as the non-playing captains of the Canadian, New Zealand and South African teams respectively, and Graham as the manager of the Australian team.

Bonallack's duties don't end with stroking the ball. He is the captain of the British team and matches wits with the other four in an effort to find a winning combination.

* * *

For those who might presume that the order in which outstanding golfers such as those in the Commonwealth Matches play cannot really be too important, it can be said that Canada's first international team victory is largely credited as the result of the team batting order.

It came about in the 1965 Americas Cup competition at Winnipeg when non-playing captain Bruce Forbes was credited with providing the order of play for Nick Weslock, Keith Alexander, Doug Silverberg, Johnny Johnston, Gary Cowan, Bert Tiechurst and Bill Pidlaski which gave them the best possible chance of winning.

Forbes, the former president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association who is chairman of the Commonwealth Matches this year and who captained the Canadian Commonwealth team in 1963 and the World Cup team in 1968, smilingly declined credit for the Winnipeg win but agrees that competitions can be won or lost through the order of play.

* * *

It is essentially a guessing game. Men responsible for making the decision must hand in their "batting order" for the next day 30 minutes after the completion of that day's play. They have no idea on how their opponents are going to line up and the little meeting which follows each day's play is a little drama.

Compatability, says Forbes, is extremely important in the selection of the two players who will pair up for the three Scotch foursomes each day.

But compatability also extends to the play. Whenever possible, pairs are chosen to complement each other in a competition in which they play alternate shots on each hole.

In all selections, Forbes says, consideration must always be given to how the players are hitting the ball.

In the guessing about the other team, a decision has to be made as to whether to try and play best against best or, to try and get the top players against the other side's lower-ranked players.

Forbes says he would like to start playing best against best but that he wouldn't necessarily carry it through the matches. Match standing, of course, becomes important. If a team is behind it has to go best against best but if it is leading it may try it the other way.

Knowing how the next day's opponents are playing is also quite important.

Heartland agrees that the order of play can certainly decide matches.

Heartland, who made no changes for yesterday's losing match against Canada after opening with a rout of Australia Tuesday, had an almost completely new lineup for today's set-to with New Zealand.

His pairings for the foursomes are unchanged but he has John Fourie and Rodney Mullan leading off instead of Dave Symons and Comrie Du Toit, who led off the first two days and now bats third.

* * *

Heartland believes that the Commonwealth Matches will swing on what is done in the Scotch foursomes.

His contention was proven the first day in a 3-0 foursome sweep over Australia which left South Africa needing only two points from the singles for the team victory.

"And it was big again in today's match," he said. "When we took that 2-1 lead in the morning it meant your team had to win four singles, and that's difficult in this kind of competition."

It was, too. South Africa lost only because a birdie on the 17th hole in the second last singles wasn't good enough to get a half. It lost to Johnny Johnston's eagle three and gave Canada the point that won the match, 5-4.

Bombers Gamble and Win With Aid of Stamp Bobbles

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, given a chance to gamble through Calgary Stampeders bobbles, turned a couple of third-down bets into a 27-16 Western Football Conference Victory before 19,727 fans Wednesday night.

It was easy pickings for Bombers as they turned an opening-kick fumble, pass interception and a Calgary penalty into their second victory of the young campaign. The win put them in first place, two points up on Stampeders and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

SCORED TOUCHDOWNS

Gordie Brown, Dave Raimey, Ken Nielsen and Kenny Ploen reached touchdown territory for Winnipeg before Calgary broke away from aggressive Bomber defenders for late six-pointers by Lovell Coleman and Bob Paremore.

Roger Hamelin contributed two converts and Bill Van Burkleo a single as Winnipeg fashioned 7-1, 8-2 and 21-2 quarter margins. Stampeders got a couple of singles from Jim Furlong and two converts from Larry Robinson.

EARLY TOUCHDOWN

The pattern of things to come was established on the game's first play. Ben Woodson, an anxious rookie halfback, fumbled Hamelin's kickoff and Morley Rolhiser pounced on the loose ball at the Calgary 28-yard line.

Ploen, the veteran who handles Bomber signal-calling chores, shrugged off two ineffective plays and calmly tossed a third-down pass to Brown, who spun away from Jerry Keeling at the one-yard line into the end zone.

It was a duel of singles for the rest of the first half, as the respective defence corps took almost complete command.

Then, in the third quarter, Peter Liske — who obviously had lost the passing touch that sent Calgary to a 20-7 triumph over British Columbia Lions earlier — attempted a deep aerial to Terry Evanshen.

Big Ernie Pitts stepped in to intercept and his teammates promptly marched 69 yards for Raimey's two-yard touchdown dive. Calgary helped the cause with illegal use of hands.

Stampeders couldn't seem to avoid gift-giving and a few minutes later sustained a Winnipeg thrust by roughing punter Van Burkleo. Ploen used the second chance to guide Bombers 76 yards to a touchdown, polishing matters off with a 15-yard pass to Nielsen.

There was a slight change of pace for Winnipeg's final points early in the fourth period. The Bomber defence dropped Liske for a 16-yard loss, which left the hometown crew in prime position after the punt. Ploen rubbed in salt by faking, then bootlegging 42 yards up the middle for six points.

Liske dredged up a bit of passing efficiency — catching Paremore for 30 on touchdown throws — but it was too little too late.

The closing minutes were highlighted by a comedy of errors as Winnipeg sent in their second-string offence directed by Rich Badar. Among miscues committed were fumbles, exchanges, and an interception on Badar's first aerial attempt.

The extent of Stampeder's decline was written in the statistics. Liske — who completed 23 of 36 attempts against the Lions — managed only 11 of 27 and had two intercepted.

Ploen, meanwhile, completed 14 of 23 attempts for 152 yards with Nielsen grabbing six for 88 yards.

Late Spree Wins For Rough Riders

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders went on a late passing spree Wednesday night to open the 1967 regular season with a 28-25 victory over Edmonton Eskimos in a Canadian Football League interlocking game.

The Riders played uninspired football for the first 40 minutes but struck for three quick touchdowns and managed to hang on despite a late Edmonton rally.

ESKS CAME CLOSE

Trailing by 10 points with less than a minute to go, the Eskimos struck for one touchdown and recovered the ball from a short kickoff in an attempt to steal the game. The first of two passes was incomplete deep in Ottawa territory and while the second throw by quarterback Frank Cosentino was complete to halfback Jim Thomas, the 10-yard gain left Edmonton on the Ottawa 48-yard-line as the game ended.

Rookie end Margene Adkins sparked the Ottawa drive late in the third quarter and early in the fourth as he took two passes from quarterback Russ Jackson for touchdowns covering 48 and 41 yards.

Jackson carried six yards for Ottawa's first major and hit fullback Rick Black with a five-yard pass for the other touchdown. Moe Racine converted all four.

Thomas got two touchdowns for Edmonton on four-yard running plays. Fullback Art Perkins got the other Edmonton major on a 15-yard running play. Flanker Peter Kempf added three converts and a 35-yard field goal while punter Randy Kerbow got a single on a 43-yard punt.

Tigers Close On Leaders

Detroit Tigers tightened the American League baseball race by whipping the first place Chicago White Sox 4-2 Wednesday night behind Earl Wilson's five-hitter.

Boston Red Sox also gained on the White Sox by defeating Kansas City Athletics 5-1 as Jim Lonborg, with relief help, became the major leagues' first 16-game winner. The Red Sox now are 1½ games back of the White Sox, Detroit two games.

Al Kaline helped the Tigers down the White Sox by driving in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a homer. Jerry Adair batted in three runs to pace the Red Sox over KC.

First place St. Louis Cardinals pulled out a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League on Wes Parker's throwing error in the 11th inning.

CUBS-BUCS SPLIT

Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh. The Cubs took the opener 6-0 on a four-hitter by Ferguson Jenkins. The Pirates took the second game, 10-6, with a four-run uprising in the ninth featured by Manny Sanguillen's three-RBI double with the bases loaded.

Tony Perez drove in four runs on two homers and two singles to pace Cincinnati Reds over Houston Astros, 7-3. New York Mets beat Atlanta Braves, 5-1, for Tom Seaver's 11th triumph of the season. San Francisco Giants were rained out at Philadelphia in the other scheduled NL game.

Davidson Preserves Century Win

Rightfielder Gary Davidson's tremendous game-ending catch provided Century Inn with a 3-1 victory over King's Hotel Wednesday and squared the best-of-seven Stuffy McGinnis Softball League finals at one game each.

Ken McCorkall, who scattered nine for the victory, appeared to have made a mistake when Mike Cox tagged a delivery with a man on base for what looked like a home run but Davidson ran the ball down.

Ron Swinney and Bill James each had two hits for the winners.

On Friday at Heywood Avenue Park, the third game of the series will be played. Today Nelsons meet Sooke Hotel in a consolation game at 6:30 p.m.

Swiss Official Critical On Eve of Big Regatta

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) —The president of the International Rowing Federation (FISA) says that North America is 20 or 30 years behind Europe in its approach to the sport.

Thomas Keller of Switzerland said in an interview Wednesday that failure to accept new techniques in training is hampering rowing's progress in both Canada and the United States.

"There is a whole new generation operating rowing in Europe," Keller said, "but here the old generation is unwilling to change the old ways."

Keller explained that the once-popular theory of putting a junior oarsman in a crew of eight now has been thrown out of European training methods, but it still is used in North America.

CREW COMPENSATES

"We believe that a boy should begin rowing at about the age of 14 and he should begin in a single scull," he said. "If he begins in a crew of eight, the rest of the crew can compensate for his mistakes.

"But if he has to go it alone, he will learn fast. If he makes a mistake he will get into all sorts of trouble. The boat will throw him out if the error is too drastic."

LACK OF SENIORS

Keller also noted that there was a great lack of senior club rowing on this continent.

"Building crews from universities is not the answer. You cannot get a good crew together that way.

"Philadelphia Vespers are a good example of this.

"The Vespers are one of the few clubs beyond university level on this continent and they have proven how important senior rowing is."

PRAISES COURSE

Keller praised the Royal Canadian Henley course over which the four-day North American rowing championships will start today.

The course was revamped earlier this year at a cost of $1,800,000 and is the only FISA-sanctioned course on the continent.

But Keller said he had a complaint about lane markers.

MAY BE CORRECTED

"The buoys should be placed every 20 metres to ensure that every rower rows exactly where he is at all times. The buoys here are 50 metres apart and that is too far.

An official said later that all efforts were being made to get the extra buoys and place them.

Keller said he also was concerned with the current on the course, but that had been assured that the gates up river would be shut before races started and that there would be no current during competition.

'Malicious Decisions' Radio Havana Charges

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Radio Havana charged Tuesday night that there were "malicious decisions of judges" at the Pan-American Games, completed Sunday in Winnipeg, in baseball, fencing, soccer and boxing.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said that politics were more influential than sports during the games.

"Some judges at times of crucial decisions were inclined against Cuban athletes," the broadcast said.

"Our delegation has been unlucky, but despite that, we have won because we surpassed by four times our record that we gained in Brazil."

Havana Radio said the list of injured Cuban athletes was extensive.

"No one knew anything about that because they the athletes hid it in order to play. Only Enrique Figarola (Cuban track champion) left the field because he couldn't run with a seriously injured muscle."

The broadcast said three baseball players, three boxers and one Olympic wrestler were among the injured athletes.

Exhibition Park

Dead Heat Kills Big Exacto Pay

VANCOUVER (CP)—The longshot Journey Man with apprentice Kerry Sam in the saddle won the fourth race Wednesday at Exhibition Park, but what might have been a three-figure exacta payoff was averted when Flashy Crisp and Sun Lodge dead-heated for second.

That made two winning combinations in the exacta, Journey Man-Flashy Crisp paying $47.60 and Journey Man-Sun Lodge returning $25.70.

Journey Man paid $20 to win.

The featured seventh, an allowance with purse of $2,030, was won by the favored Costa Rica, ridden by Jim Broomfield.

Lions Cut Graning, Shafer Back

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League Wednesday announced the outright release of Chick Graning and the reactivation of Steve Shafer.

Graning, a defensive halfback from Chattanooga, Tenn., joined the Lions last year as back up quarterback to Joe Kapp. Before joining the Lions, Graning had a stint with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

Shafer, a defensive halfback, is entering his fifth season with the Lions. He joined the Lions from Utah State University. Shafer is employed by the New Westminster parks and recreation board.

Jess Willard Loses Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A suit for $1,350,000 brought by Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, has been dismissed.

★ ★ ★

Superior Court Judge Robert S. Thompson dismissed the case on grounds the action was not brought to trial within the five-year limit.

★ ★ ★

Willard sought to recover damages claimed from the televising of films made during the 26-round fight in which he won the crown from Jack Johnson in Havana in 1915.

His suit was brought against the Columbia Broadcasting System and Schlitz Brewing Co., sponsor of the 1962 television showing.

Willard, who now is 85 and lives in suburban La Crescenta, claimed the films were televised without his consent and that the last round, in which he knocked out Johnson, was not shown.

★ ★ ★

If the last round has been shown, he contended, it would have dispelled rumors that Johnson had thrown the fight.

Two years ago a $500,000 suit by Willard against the fight's promoters also was dismissed. He claimed the promoters made the film available to CBS.

Two-Game Lead

Northwestern Creamery dumped Yarrows, 12-6, Monday to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five Industrial Softball League finals at Macdonald Park. Next game is Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at Macdonald.

Car Seller, Buyer Win $2,500 Each

BEND, Ore. — Standard Oil Co. of California has written what it hopes is a happy ending to the lucky licence controversy.

Mrs. Carol Crandall of Bend, whose car won $2,500 a week after she sold it for $300, was given a cheque for $2,500.

She sold the car Sunday, July 30, and the next night she said, she received an anonymous phone call saying her car's licence number, HAD 893, would win the top prize in Standard's lucky licence contest. She complained the winning numbers were leaked out in advance and hired an attorney.

Helton Purcell, 48, a private detective who lives near Portland, bought the car and will also receive $2,500.

First Testimony

Garrison on Stand In Lawyer's Trial

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — District Attorney Jim Garrison took the stand Wednesday night for the first time since launching his investigation of the Kennedy assassination.

He testified at the perjury trial of Dean Andrews, once Lee Harvey Oswald's lawyer and the first man tried in connection with the Garrison probe.

Andrews was indicted last month on charges of lying to a grand jury about the identification of the mysterious Clay Bertrand, a name that figures strongly in Garrison's conspiracy charges against Clay Shaw.

Garrison said Wednesday in 85 minutes of questioning by Andrews he can't believe Andrews could not identify Bertrand as Shaw.

MOTIONS DENIED

Andrews took over his own defence as the day began when attorney Sam (Monk) Zeldon quit due to differences of opinion about the handling of the case.

Andrews filed motions for recesses, a mistrial, a delay and the removal of Garrison and his staff because of Garrison's personal interest in the case — his claim of solving the assassination. District Judge Frank Shea denied them all.

Hal Banks Behind In Payments

DETROIT (AP)—The head of a Detroit bail-bond firm says Hal Banks, former head of the Seafarers International Union in Canada, has repaid "just about half" of a $25,000 bond surrendered when Banks fled Canada while on bail pending appeal of a court conviction.

Charles Goldfarb said the payments began about a year ago when Banks sold some property in Canada. But he added he hasn't heard from Banks for six months, and wonders if the rest will be paid.

Youth Orchestra Dynamic

★ ★ ★

Seven Victoria Members Honored at Concert

By BERT BINNY

"They certainly are a dynamic group!"

This was the opinion of many of the audience who Wednesday night heard the National Youth Orchestra at the Royal Theatre. And there were very few empty seats.

There are 105 members of the orchestra and they showed what they were made of right from the start.

They display musical capability and control; they mount a confident attack and they play with admirable crispness. These virtues show to great advantage in items such as Berlioz's Roman Carnival Overture, Freedman's commissioned work, Tangents, and Debussy's Nuages et Fetes. These three items thus made the first half a real treat.

The second half was occupied by Brahms' 2nd Symphony and it was here that such small weaknesses as existed in the orchestra tended to show up: occasional hints of indecision and less success in dealing with the basic nature of the composition.

MODERN IDIOM

Tangents, the work commissioned by the National Youth Orchestra Association and composed by Harry Freedman, is very much in the modern idiom. There is even room for the suspicion that it is one large musical joke.

The orchestra is supremely fortunate in having as its conductor the resident director of the Edmonton Symphony, Brian Priestman. Mr. Priestman is dynamic, too, and this sort of thing, especially to a young orchestra, inspires respect and confidence.

Of the 105 orchestra members, seven are from Victoria: Corinne Dunn, Karen McIvor, Veronica Milton, Merlin Naduriak, Ian Fetterley, Norman Abbott and Ian Franklin.

During the afternoon at the theatre they were presented with specially engraved Centennial plaques in recognition of the honor they bring to Victoria through their membership in the orchestra. The presentations were made by Saanich Councillor D. R. Keir, vice-president of the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

Hordes of Bugs Threaten Hanoi

LUANG PRABANG, Laos (UPI) — U.S. agricultural experts reported Thursday an infestation of millions of army worms has destroyed most of the hill rice crop in wide areas of North Vietnam and parts of Communist-controlled Laos. The plague could have a disastrous effect on the Hanoi regime.

The plague is centred in the mountainous region forming the border between Laos and North Vietnam. The worm takes its name from the hordes of insects which move across rice fields like an advancing army, consuming all vegetation in their path.

Walter Scott, a U.S. agriculture department official from Dallas, Texas, said damage to the rice crops from the army worms could have more effect on the war "than a human invasion of North Vietnam."

On the war front, U.S. troops battled entrenched North Vietnamese regulars Wednesday in an area that officers said the allies had never before penetrated — the Song Re Valley.

This action near the central coast 330 miles northeast of Saigon, and other scattered engagements ended another of the periodic lulls in the ground fighting.

The Song Re Valley shooting ebbed at nightfall and the U.S. troops were believed to have dug in to await daylight.

Add Black Creek To Deathbeds For Salmon Fry

The Goldstream is the second drainage system on Vancouver Island which has been dried up this summer by man's appetite for fresh water, it was learned Wednesday night.

The other is Black Creek, at Miracle Beach, described as one of the best coho spawning streams on Vancouver Island.

Bruce Colegrave, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Conservation Society, blamed the drought on the government, which has given 12 farmers water rights on the stream.

'COMING HOME'

"Suddenly, it's coming home that we can't keep nibbling away at our creeks and rivers and expect them to keep producing fish forever," he said.

Conservationists are also fearing that the Greater Victoria Water Board's decision to cut the flow into the Goldstream to a trickle will destroy those fish runs.

"This is Stone Age mentality," said Dr. Marc Bell of the University of Victoria's biology department.

ALL OVER

"This is happening all over North America. What little fresh water we manage to conserve, we pollute. It distresses me immensely."

Another conservationist said: "This water shortage is an illustration that in all of our resources, we have had the last cak to dinner."

Meanwhile, Dr. Clifford Carl, curator of the provincial museum of natural history, appealed to conservations to save all possible fish which may be trapped in Goldstream's fast-evaporating ponds.

DIP NETS

"I hope someone will be able to organize groups of children with dip nets to remove the salmon to Goldstream's lower regions," said the naturalist.

Because of Vancouver's heavy rainfall and extensive lake system, it should have no problems with fresh water supply, added Dr. Carl.

"The problem is with distribution. We have excellent rainfall and good storage basins in the form of our lakes.

Dr. Carl said the presence of those two factors, however, does not provide any excuse for polluting the water or denuding the faces of watershed areas.

Smallpox Kills Thousands

DACCA (AP) — About 5,000 persons have died of smallpox in rural areas of the Pabna district of Pakistan 90 miles northwest of Dacca, the government-controlled Morning News Despatch says.

It also reports more than 3,000 smallpox deaths in the Manikganj area, 40 miles from Dacca.

Rail Crash Hurts 16 In Ontario

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Sixteen persons were injured Wednesday when an express freight collided with a self-propelled train two miles east of here.

The express freight, headed south for Ottawa from Capreol, struck the self-propelled train eastbound from North Bay to Toronto at a Y-junction. Both are Canadian National Railway trains.

Five women and five men were brought to hospitals here with undetermined injuries.

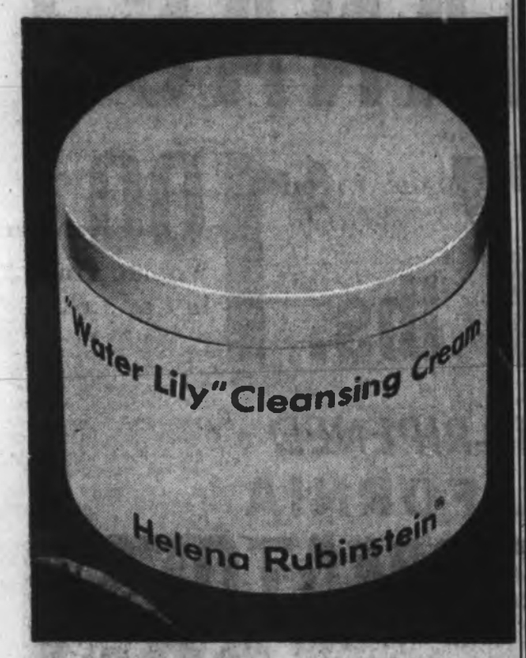

Woman Killed

ADEN (Reuters) — A grenade aimed at British soldiers missed and instead killed an Arab woman and wounded nine men, two seriously, in the busy market square in Crater Town.

Another 12 acres go up in flames on Malahat

Forest Fire On Malahat Flares Anew

The B.C. Forest Service rushed every available man to fight a flareup of a week-old forest fire on the Malahat Wednesday night.

A Canso water bomber from Patricia Bay Airport arrived on the scene at 6 p.m. and started making drops every seven minutes.

Six ground tankers had arrived by 6:30 p.m., and the flying tanker knocked the fire down enough to enable ground crews to move into fighting position.

12 MORE ACRES

The fire had spread over a 12-acre area by nightfall, boosting to 22 acres the total area burned there since the first outbreak — believed caused by an arsonist — occurred on Aug. 3.

The blaze was on the water side of the Trans-Canada Highway, about half a mile south of the Dutch Latch Restaurant.

DRY BROOM

Forest Service officials were hopeful it would be contained by morning. They said some men patrolling a three-day-old Sooke fire were sent to the new outbreak.

Fire touching on a side hill covered with tinder-dry broom was believed to have caused Wednesday's flareup.

Forest fires "never really go out until we get a heavy rain," one firefighter said.

High temperatures expected for the next few days may increase the hazard in the lower Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland areas of B.C., the Forest Service reported.

The fire situation in provincial forests is "relatively good," a spokesman for the Forest Service said.

Hazards range from moderate to high, he said.

260 BURNING

There are 260 forest fires still burning, with 117 of them in the Kamloops forest district. Nelson had 22 fires and Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Prince George had 28, 16 and seven respectively. Vancouver district includes Vancouver Island.

Of the 1,269 men on the fire lines, 851 are employed in the Nelson district.

A fire at Castlegar which destroyed a mill Tuesday and now covers 4,000 acres is "still troublesome."

HARD TO CONTROL

It is burning over rocky ground and difficult to control or even contain.

Earlier this week a suspension of campfire permits was lifted in the Kamloops district, but the suspension remains in effect in the Vancouver and Nelson districts. The suspension is in addition to a recreational closure in effect in a large section of the Nelson district.

Christening Set For City-Built Tuna Fishboats

Two $2,250,000 tuna fishing vessels will be christened at noon Saturday at Yarrows Ltd.

Champagne will be splashed on their bows by Mrs. Emerson H. Gennis, wife of the president of Canadian Tuna Co. Ltd.

The 200-foot vessels, first of their kind to be built in Victoria, are two of a fleet of five that will form Canada's first wholly integrated tuna cannery in St. Stephen, N.B.

The first ship ready, the Atlantic Gairdner, will begin sea trials in a few weeks, while the Atlantic Gennis will not be ready for the sea until the end of the year.

The Gairdner will eventually head for the choice tuna grounds off western Africa.

HELICOPTER

Each of the Dutch-designed ships carries a helicopter for spotting tuna shoals and has holds with new fast-freezing fish storage that can hold 1,000 tons.

They are powered by 2,400 continuous horsepower to five-bladed propellors.

Doctors Ask:

What About Emergency?

By JOHN MATTERS

The embattled operating engineers should assure the public that hospitals' emergency services won't be terminated by their strike action, the Victoria Medical Society said Wednesday night.

"So far, our mood has been one of detachment—the dispute is between the engineers and the hospitals — but we are concerned there has been no assurance that emergency service will not cease," said a spokesman for the doctors.

"We find it difficult to believe the situation could go to such an extreme but the public should be reassured."

SPREAD QUICKLY

The doctors' statement came after officials of the International Union of Operating Engineers, whose members walked out of Royal Columbian Hospital at New Westminster Wednesday, said the strike will spread to other hospitals unless speedy settlement is reached.

Royal Columbian has banned all but urgent surgery and has restricted admissions to emergency cases only.

FIVE OTHERS

The union has served notice on five other Lower Mainland and Victoria hospitals in a bid to get parity between rates for third-class engineers.

They are Vancouver General, St. Paul's, Burnaby General and Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's in Victoria.

The union on Wednesday mailed Nanaimo General Hospital a 48-hour strike notice. It means that at any time after Friday morning, it will be legally able to strike that hospital as well.

Among other duties, the engineers operate steam heating and refrigeration facilities.

WON'T ENTERTAIN

Meanwhile, it was learned the government, specifically B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, is growing concerned about the situation. It does not intend to intervene, however, because each hospital is autonomous in its dealings with employees.

At Royal Columbian, supervisory personnel took over operation of the hospital's heating plant and nurses and other staff members were asked to economize in the use of hot water.

SAME PLANS

St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee also have plans for supervisory personnel to run their heating plants.

Some Victoria doctors said patients were diplaying "an amazing calm" despite the tensions of the situation.

In Saanich

Secret Meetings Irk Councillors

Two Saanich councillors said Wednesday night that too much of the ratepayers' business is being discussed in secret.

Their comments came after The Daily Colonist learned that Saanich council behind closed doors turned down an application from Victoria Youth Council for a free business licence.

The council, which published the controversial Wine Press magazine, wanted a licence on the same basis as the one granted Centennial Sing Out — a Moral Re-Armament organization — two weeks earlier.

Councillors Alan Newberry and Digby Kier said that in addition to the secret meeting over the Wine Press, other important discussions had gone on behind closed doors in recent months.

They listed:

- The secret talks which preceded an agreement with next year's garbage contractor;
- A discussion which preceded last spring's recreation referendum, a $1,250,000 proposal that was subsequently approved by ratepayers;
- "Four or five" discussions over the salary of the Saanich solicitor.

Confirmed by Reeve

Reeve Hugh Curtis confirmed that Monday's committee meeting turned down the Youth Council's request, but "I don't wish to expand on it."

Coun. Edith Gunning had "no comment" on every question raised about the Wine Press-in.

Coun. Leslie Passmore said: "It didn't bother me if the meeting was open or closed. I said it (the Wine Press) was a pretty putrid bit of literature and I would have said that in public. And I say it now in public."

Coun. William Campbell said the Wine Press application was discussed in committee and "I was satisfied with the way it was handled."

"I agree 100 per cent with the reeve's reasoning."

Coun. William Noel said council had no idea what was going to be discussed in private, but "I don't think there should be too many meetings in secret."

He said councillors would "look kind of silly" discussing something which they didn't know about in public without first talking it over privately.

Counsellors Ed Lum and Harold Todd could not be reached for comment.

Coun. Newberry said he voted against the fee licence because "the Youth Council has made no significant contribution to the community, whereas another group which got a free licence had clearly made a contribution to our Centennial activities."

"However, whether or not we like hippies, they are entitled to a meeting and I regret they were not given such an opportunity.

"Secret meetings are becoming more of a trend, and I am alarmed by the attitude of the reeve, of a man who is doing such a good job. He often dicusses sensitive issues at secret meetings."

Coun. Newberry said Saanich has to enter into a dialogue with the Youth Council . . . "and just to treat them as creatures is wrong."

"They asked an opportunity to attend a meeting, and they should have had our ear."

Coun. Kier said more and more important things were being discussed at closed meetings and "you'd be surprised what goes on behind closed doors."

"This could have been handled at an open meeting, although everyone was upset with the content of the magazine."

Trio and Troop Square Fare

The Irvin Lang Trio with vocalist Brian Anderson and comedian Reg Stofer will perform at 7:30 p.m. today at Centennial Square.

The Thunderbird all-girls' drum corps and singers Dinny Hicks and Jerry Pacquette will perform in the Square at 8 p.m. Friday.

Cruiser Visits Barred

The guided missile cruiser USS Chicago will enter Esquimalt Harbor at 1 p.m. today, but the public won't be able to go aboard.

Parking facilities at the Esquimalt base are almost impossible at any time, one official said, and not adequate to cope with numbers of visitors.

Also, since Friday is a working day, it would not be good safety practice to allow crowds among men and vehicles working, officials said.

FLAGSHIP

The 18,000-ton warship, one of the most modern of her kind, is the flagship of Vice-Admiral Bernard F. Roeder, commander of the First Fleet.

The 674-foot ship — fitted with short, medium and long range missiles — is operated by a 1,200-man crew commanded by Capt. Donald Vance Cox.

The ship is designed to operate offensively, independently or with strike, antisubmarine, or amphibious forces, or against air, surface or subsurface threats.

Recently it operated in Southeast Asia identifying and keeping track of aircraft.

The Chicago has never fired a missile in anger, but has won many awards for accuracy and engineering in training exercises.

Mt. Tolmie Burns Five Hours

A fire on the southwest side of Mount Tolmie took more than five hours to put out Wednesday as it burned stubbornly above the sand pits.

Saanich firemen needed 1,000 feet of hose to quell the blaze that burned two acres.

The alarm was turned in at 1:31 p.m. and mopping up was completed by 7 p.m.

Woman Hurt In Car Crash

Mrs. Gilda McDonald, 1421 Harrison, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital for treatment of neck injuries after the car in which she was a passenger was struck from behind by another car while making a left turn at 141 Gorge Road. She was released after treatment.

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

August 10, 1867

Williams, who assaulted Bolton brutally at Nanaimo, was fined by Mr. Spalding $25 for the assault, $10 as compensation to his victim for injuries inflicted upon him, and 20 costs of court. The penalty is a light one compared with the magnitude of the offence; but, light as it is, we believe a magistrate has no power to exceed $25, which amount must include compensation and costs. We may be wrong, but it is our impression that cases calling for a heavier penalty go to a higher court.

We are sorry to learn of the destruction of Goldstream Bridge by fire Wednesday. Two men bound for Leech River made a fire against a tree, some eight feet from the bridge to boil some coffee, and the flames caught the structure and burned the greater portion of it. Mr. Pearse, we learn, will go out today to direct repairs.

Match Greens Kept Green

Sprinklers were turned on Wednesday night on the greens and some of the fairways at the Victoria Golf Club in Oak Bay, where the Commonwealth matches are being held.

The big wet-down came during a water shortage here and amid speculation that the city of Victoria may impose a sprinkling ban.

Youth Week: A Happening

Everything will be happening — including a happening — during the Victoria Youth Council's Youth Week Aug. 20 to 27.

But mostly the VYC wants to foster communication between young people and older ones, VYC spokesman Ruth Kelly said Wednesday.

At its new temporary office at the University of Victoria, the VYC is inviting other teen-age groups in the capital region to participate in Youth Week.

COMBINED DEAL

The event will be "a combined effort of the young people of Victoria to express their sincere desire to improve the community in which they live," said Miss Kelly.

She invited inquiries through the VYC's new phone number 477-3611.

Tentatively planned so far are a downtown parade and a dance in Centennial Square Sunday the 20th; a televised discussion Monday; a public meeting at the YMCA on Tuesday the 22nd; a film festival on Thursday; a "h appening" — spontaneous youth gathering — Friday in Bastion Square, followed by a dance; a Saturday "light show;" and a Sunday love-in at Beacon Hill Park, followed by a family dialogue between parents and teenagers.

BROOM DAY

Thursday the 24th is also planned as a doubleheader Broom Day event, when teenagers will cleam up two areas in Victoria.

Times and places of most Youth Week events haven't yet been fixed.

"We hope Youth Week will be an outstretching — a positive thing," she said.

Ladysmith White Awaits Centennial Run

Among 32 vintage cars making provincial centennial run to Prince George and back to Chilliwack is this 1913 White, driven by Fred and Donna Bell of Ladysmith. Cars will leave Legislative Buildings at 9 a.m. today and can be seen on Douglas Street and Patricia Bay Highway on their way to Swartz Bay ferry.—(Kinsman)

Princess Anne

Pearls for Birthday?

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — A three-strand necklace of pearls is a pretty nice present for any girl — even a princess.

Such a necklace is said to be Queen Elizabeth's choice of a gift for her daughter Princess Anne on her 17th birthday Aug. 15. It would be a sign the princess is approaching adulthood — and the royal duties that go with it.

★ ★ ★

The tall, blonde princess could, for instance wear the pearls when she makes her first formal appearance at a great state occasion. This is to be in November, when she will walk with her eldest brother, 18-year-old Prince Charles, in procession behind the Queen and Prince Philip at the state opening of Parliament. Anne will be dressed in a long white evening gown for the ceremony, ride to parliament in the horse-drawn golden state coach.

In one more year, on her 18th birthday, Princess Anne will become an adult officially according to royal law. She will then start carrying out public duties with her own lady-in-waiting in attendance and her own secretary to look after her affairs. Parliament will grant her an income — 6,000 pounds ($16,800) a year is usual for an unmarried princess — to pay salaries and buy clothes.

With a year to wait for this, Princess Anne can still look forward to a noticeable advance in her social life in the next 12 months. She will go to more grown-up dances and cocktail parties. She will probably be invited to some of the social activities at Cambridge by Prince Charles, who starts at University there in the fall.

★ ★ ★

Princess Anne loves horse riding and all open air life. The Queen has already promised she can go to the races for the first time soon and accompany Prince Philip and Prince Charles to watch some of the events at the winter Olympics in Grenoble next February.

Her father and brother are also to visit the Olympics in Mexico City next year. If the Queen will let her go, Princess Anne will be there, too.

Up to now, the princess has been seen little in public because of the Queen's desire that her schooldays should be as private as possible. Currently, she is vacationing with the royal family at Balmoral Castle in the Scottish Highlands after the end of the summer term at her boarding school of Benenden.

Princess Anne, albeit a slight tomboyishness, is all girl and is popular with boys. Several are always invited to Balmoral Castle during the vacation to provide young company for her and Prince Charles.

★ ★ ★

Her current favorite is probably Lord Caithness, 18, tall, blond, witty and cheerful. The Queen has known him since childhood. Another friend is the Queen's godson, the Hon. Guy Nevill, 22, son of Lord and Lady Rupert Nevill. He has just started on a business career.

Others in Anne's "set" — if it yet can be called that — are the Hon. Norton Knatchbull, 19, grandson of Earl Mountbatten, who is training to become a licensed air pilot, and Prince Nicholas of Prussia, 18, a great-grandson of the late Kaiser Wilhem II. Nicholas is an officer cadet in the British army.

Social and Personal

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes will attend the Luxton Fair parade and lunch on Saturday at the Fair Grounds. Following the luncheon His Honor will open the Luxton 1967 Centennial Fair and present Canadian centennial pioneer medallions to senior citizens of Glen Lake and Happy Valley District. Capt. P. Chaworth-Musters will be aide-de-camp in attendance.

Later that afternoon the Lieutenant-Governor will receive members of the band of the George R. Pearkes, VC Branch No. 5, Royal Canadian Legion, of Summerside, P.E.I., who will be visiting Victoria. The band will play selections during the visit to Government House.

To Wed in Vancouver

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Piper of Vancouver and formerly of Victoria announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Elizabeth Susan, to Mr. Donald Wilson Carter, son of Mrs. Gertrude Carter of Cultus Lake, B.C. The wedding is to take place on August 26 in Dunbar Heights Church, Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric B. Humphries—diamond wedding anniversary

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Married 60 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Eric B. Humphries will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary on Monday, Aug. 14. Residents of Victoria since 1944, they were married in Sherbrooke, Que., in 1907.

★ ★ ★

The couple resided for many years in the prairie provinces where Mr. Humphries was with the petroleum industry. As a young man he served in the United States Cavalry in the Philippine Islands and various other locations.

Mr. and Mrs. Humphries have a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Humphries of Edmonton, and two grandsons, Brian who is on the staff of Ryerson Tech in Toronto, and David, a student at Saskatchewan University, Saskatoon.

★ ★ ★

Mr. and Mrs. Humphries will be "at home" to their friends at their residence Apartment 20, 30 Douglas Street, from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Bray Living in Vancouver

Church of Our Lord was the scene of a recent ceremony uniting in marriage Laura Lee Bartlett and Mr. Peter Douglas Bray. Rev. Wilbur Lyle officiated.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bartlett, 132 Olive Street, and the groom is the son of Mr. Peter S. Bray, Kingston, Ont., and the late Mrs. Bray.

Mr. Joe Osborne was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was in a white satin gown enhanced with Venetian lace. A scalloped train of white satin fell from the shoulders and a headpiece of white roses and pearls held her short veil. Red roses were in her bouquet.

Miss Shirley Austin, maid of honor, was in a blue gown of peau d'elegance and chantilly lace while bridesmaids, the Misses Lindsay Miller and Elizabeth Bray wore similarly-styled gowns in a paler blue. They wore matching floral headdresses and carried pink

Mr. Ray Bessville was best man and ushering were Mr. Don Bartlett and Mr. Peter Murray.

Mr. Rene Parent proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in The Inn.

As her going away ensemble the new Mrs. Bray wore a navy checked coat over a white suit. The newlyweds are now making their home in Vancouver.

Women Bettors More Cautious

CALGARY (CP)—Women, long the race track's steady supply of profit, have started to display a canny feel for horse sense and no longer bet just because they like the color of the rider's silks.

Jim Arnott, manager of the pari-mutuel department at Victoria Park, says women bettors now are no different than men when it comes to choosing a horse.

"If anything, they examine the program more closely and come up with winners a lot of the time," says Mr. Arnott.

"They're better losers; you don't have them coming back and beefing. They may beef to their husbands, but they don't beef to us."

★ ★ ★

Women are more cautious than men, says Lou Davies, general manager of the Western Canada Racing Association.

"They're a little smarter in that they don't usually lose as much as men."

One woman bettor at the summer race meet here said she never misses a day during the season, rain or shine.

"I don't go by tips," she says. "I figure my own picking is as good as somebody else's. Of course, I think it's luck anyway."

★ ★ ★

Another race fan who is a member of the distaff side, said she considers the weight of the horse, the jockey and the horse's record.

She, like most of the other women interviewed, bet mostly to show or place.

"It's chicken betting," she says. "But it's cautious."

Students Ready For 2067

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Oliver secondary school students are looking to Canada's next centennial.

In a recent ceremony the students buried a time capsule in the school's front lawn. It is not to be opened until 2067.

Tucked into a one-cubic foot copper box made by industrial arts classes is a tape recording explaining the purpose of the project. It includes school cheers, folk songs and excerpts from a school play.

Also buried are newspapers, photographs of Vancouver, examination papers, textbooks and other items.

A plaque on a boulder rolled atop the buried box explains what is under the rock.

Skater Chosen

WINNIPEG (CP)—Speed skater Doreen McCannell of Winnipeg was selected sportswoman-of-the-year by the Sports-writers and Broadcasters Association of Greater Winnipeg.

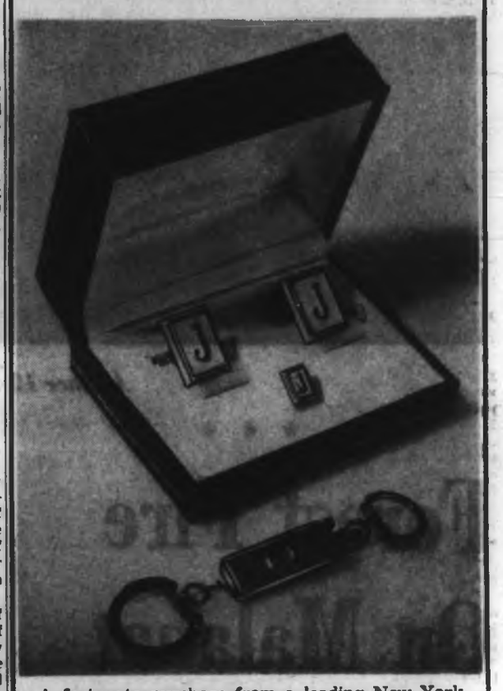

The 19-year-old skater, who is Canadian women's champion and Manitoba's outstanding female athlete of 1965, was selected over 10 other entrants.

Paper Suits for Men

MONTREAL (CP)—The man in the grey flannel suit may soon be the man in grey paper. James Sterling of Sterling Paper Fashions expects to wear nothing else but suits made of Lexon, a heavy new paper, at a Moscow clothing exhibit this summer. Designed in the firm's own workrooms, the conventional-looking suit will sell for about $12.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

Eating area gains color snap from bright plaid rug. Area rugs are well worth considering for the kitchen dining centre. They add warmth to the decorating, make the setting for family meals extra special. It's a good idea to measure before you shop for an area rug. Put down your room's dimensions, and study the furniture placement before you buy. Be sure to choose a size that relates to the furniture grouping you are going to use it with. An area rug under a dining group, for instance, should be wide enough so that the chairs can be pulled out from the table and still be on the rug. With smaller rugs, they can be picked up for cleaning, and in many cases, you can turn them around for even wear. — (Better Homes and Gardens)

Show Tonight

Patients at the Veterans' Hospital and their friends have a treat in store for them this evening when they will be entertained at a variety show in the hospital recreation room. The show will feature everything from music and community singing to can-can dancing, all sponsored by the Victoria Unit, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans.

Couple Wed In Chili

Mr. and Mrs. Warrington

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hawes, 2636 Topp Avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter Glenda Sharlaine, to Richard Stanley Warrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denis W. Warrington, 415 Terrahue Drive.

★ ★ ★

The state (civil) service took place July 14 in Providencia of Chili with Rona McKay and Raoul Gattini as witnesses, and was followed by the formal religious marriage ceremony on July 15 in the Lutheran church at Santiago, with Pastor Hitchcock officiating. Attendants at the latter were Darlene Kunze of Minnesota and Ed Weber of Kitchener, Ont.

For the traditional "something old" the bride wore a seed pearl brooch which belonged to her maternal great-grandmother, which the groom took down with him especially for the occasion. The reception was held in the salon of Santiago college where the bride and groom are on the teaching staff.

Bride's Cousins Officiate At Double-Ring Ceremony

A wedding of interest to Victorians took place recently in Millville, N.B., when Darlene Lcretta Hoyt, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Hoyt of Millville became the bride of David Alan Rasmussen, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Rasmussen, 211 Robertson Street.

The double ring service held in Wesleyan Methodist Church, Millville, was conducted by the bride's cousins, Rev. Karl Gorman of Yarmouth, N.S., and his brother, Rev. Loren Gorman of Strathroy, Ont. Mrs. Karl Gorman was soloist and Mrs. J. Gorman, mother of the officiating ministers, was organist.

★ ★ ★

The dark-haired bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of silk, faced with peau de soie, which was styled on A-lines and highlighted by a front panel of Guipure lace. The gown featured a split chapel train, and three quarter-length sleeves. Her bouffant, three-tier veil of silk illusion net misted softly to the shoulders from a matching headpiece, and she carried a cascade bouquet of a single white orchid nestled in white chrysanthemums, stephanotis and ivy.

★ ★ ★

Floor-length gowns in a soft shade of orange ice, peau de soie, styled with empire waistlines were worn by the bride's trio of attendants. A white chrysanthemum held their matching bouffant veils, and they carried cascade bouquets of pale orange and white chrysanthemums.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Betty Cookson, Fredericton, N.B. was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Barbara Kelly and Janet Johnson, Sherbrooke, Que.

★ ★ ★

Acting as best man for his brother was Mr. Michael Rasmussen, Victoria. Mr. Jim Doyle, Arvida, P.Q. and Mr. Edwin Hoyt, the bride's brother ushered the guests.

Rev. Loren Gorman proposed the toast to his cousin at the reception which was held in the Legion Hall, Millville.

A rose pink sheath dress fashioned on empire lines was the choice of the bride for travelling on honeymoon to Prince Edward Island. A coat en tone, and a white orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

Upon their return, the newlyweds will make their home in Arvida, P.Q.

Among the many out-of-town guests travelling from points in eastern Canada and the United States, were the groom's mother, Mrs. C. Rasmussen and his brother, Mr. Michael Rasmussen, of Victoria.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: School will be starting soon and since I am a kindergarten teacher I'll be seeing more of the same—fat little kids.

In last year's class, 18 youngsters out of a class of 28 were anywhere from five to 20 pounds overweight. Mostly girls, I might add.

I have tried to talk to their mothers but I keep hearing the same weak, stupid defenses: "She'll outgrow it," or "Fat runs in our family." When I tell them that cooking and eating habits run in the family, not fat, they look at me as if I am crazy.

One mother of a grossly overweight child said, "She'll just have to get used to being made fun of and left out of things. I did and now nothing hurts me."

Please print my letter and your views, Ann Landers. People who won't listen to anyone seem to listen to you. —WEIGHTY PROBLEMS

Dear W.P.: Show me a fat little kid and I'll show you a mother who feels inadequate. These disturbed women stuff their kids full of food to compensate for whatever else they aren't getting.

Overeating and eating the wrong foods can become a lifelong habit. Every mother who has a fat child should give that child a break and take him to a doctor at once and get some advice.

Dear Ann Landers: I was married at 22, to a mama's boy who couldn't cut himself loose from his mother's apron strings. He was only 19, and I should have known better.

That was three years ago, and now I have another problem. Last Christmas I started to go with what I thought was a mature fellow of 21. We like the same things, get along well together and I want to marry him. When I asked him to set a date he said he owes quite a lot of money and marriage will have to wait. I told him I wanted to be engaged and if he couldn't afford a ring I would buy one — which I did.

Now it has come back to me that he has told people I bought the ring. I'm humiliated to death. When I asked him about it he said, "Yes, I had to tell the people I owed money to because they wondered how I could afford to buy a ring when I had told them I didn't have any money.

Was he justified? What should my next move be?—CAPRICORN

Dear Cap! Take the ring off your finger and the gun out of his ribs. This guy does not want to marry you. — now or ever. How often do you have to make the same mistake before your learn? Stop going with kids and start looking for men.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I am under 30 and I've had three sons in seven years. Needless to say they are driving me nuts.

Lately they have been fighting constantly. I try to track down the reason for the fight and punish the guilty one. This doesn't always work as two of the boys often gang up on the third boy and tattle. The tattlers' stories are not always truthful, I have discovered.

Any suggestion will be greatly appreciated.—I NEED PEACE

Dear Peace: With three boys it's impossible to find out who started a fight. Tell them you don't want any more Gestapo reports and if they fight, they will all get punished, regardless of who started it. This will cut down the battling and the tattling.

Winters

Trade Door Open to Russia

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Winters said Wednesday the government has no "inhibition" against the use of Soviet-made generators and long - distance electrical transmission equipment in Canada.

Mr. Winters was at a press conference with Soviet Foreign Trade Minister N. S. Patolichev, whose country has expressed an interest in bidding for the contract to supply generators for the huge Portage Mountain dam in northern British Columbia.

RUSSIA SKILLED

The Canadian minister was asked to state federal policy toward Russia's interest in this sensitive area, and whether he considered a security problem was involved.

Mr .Winters replied that the Soviet Union has developed great technical skills in the field of hydro power.

When he was head of British Newfoundland Corporation, which now is building the giant Churchill Falls project in Labrador, he was aware that Russia had advanced further than other countries, especially in long-distance power transmission. Brinco had sent experts to Russia to study Soviet techniques.

'NO INHIBITION'

"We have no inhibition about that kind of transaction between Canada and the U.S.S.R.," Mr. Winters said.

A reporter asked how Mr. Winters drew the line between what touches on security and what doesn't. He cited the case of the late George Victor Spencer, Vancouver postal worker who was fired for passing along general information about Canada to the Russians.

Mr. Winters said it is necessary to conduct affairs with the Russians through proper channels.

EXPLORATION

The Canadian trade minister, replying to other questions, said there are "no obstacles in principle" to Russia's taking part in oil and gas exploration with Canada in northern waters off the Canadian coast.

Mr. Patolichev, in talks with British Columbia's Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark last weekend, was reported to have said Russia and Canada could co-operate in exploration of areas under the Arctic Ocean. He showed special interest in a possible oil-bearing link between the Mackenzie basin and Siberia.

Mr. Winters said he was "flattered" that the U.S.S.R., which has plenty of oil itself, should turn toward Canadian waters for further potential supplies. This indicated high demand prospects in the world oil economy, which was good for Canada.

Mr. Patolichev said Russia was "prepared to co-operate" with Canada. No definite arrangements had been made. The question of joint oil-gas exploration would have to be thoroughly considered, and any agreement could only come later.

Arbitrator

Postal Plea Denied

OTTAWA (CP)—An arbitrator has rejected an appeal by the Canadian Union of Postal Workers seeking a pay benefit for about 2,500 postal clerks who lost out on the Dominion Day public holiday Monday, July 3.

Professor Harry Arthurs told the union Wednesday, however, that his arbitration decision would not prevent it from other avenues of appeal to the public service staff relations board.

The postal union has threatened a one-day walkout in protest at the treasury board's refusal to compensate the clerks. Revenue Minister Benson has warned that any such action will be dealt with severely.

The cabinet decided on the holiday because Dominion Day fell on Saturday. Any federal employees required to work July 3 got overtime pay or another day. But those whose regular day off fell on that day did not receive any benefit.

Cuban Stayed for Freedom

WINNIPEG (CP) — Even as he helped train Cuba's national rowing team for the Pan-American Games, one purpose inspired 25-year-old Nestor Carbonell.

He wanted out of Cuba, but he would wait until the time was right.

★ ★ ★

The slightly-built Cuban stayed with the team until the eve of its race Saturday. Then he skipped.

He came out of hiding Monday, after the last of the Cuban team had departed for home aboard a chartered flight, and sought federal government permission to remain in Canada.

A decision is expected in about a month and predictions are that it will be in Mr. Carbonell's favor.

He said:

"I am a man and I wish, like all men, no matter where they live, to be free.

"Freedom, as I understand the word, is not enjoyed by the people of Cuba, so I decided some time ago to leave my country and to find a new home. I am very sorry that circumstances have compelled me to make this decision."

Mr. Carbonell said he wants to stay in Canada and hopes to get a job as a rowing coach.

8 CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbours for their many acts of kindness, expressions of sympathy, in the recent bereavement of my beloved father. Special thanks to Rev. Dr. E. H. James and Dr. J. P. Tyne, also nurses of the third floor, south wing of Royal Jubilee Hospital.—Sterling MacArthur.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BATTLE, Alan Thomas — In loving memory of a beloved son and brother.
We are and within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today.
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
We think of him in silence,
No eye may see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed
When others are asleep.
—Sadly missed by Mom, Dad, David, Larry and Kathy.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

To some of the 1,000 kibitzers who followed every move in the 1967 World Championship on Bridge-O-Rama, declarer appeared to make his contract on this deal with a lucky guess in the heart suit. Actually, there was a solid reason for the winning play.

One reason why Sam Kehela of Toronto bid three no trump was to protect his unsupported king against a possible heart opening. (A lead which might, in fact, have downed a mere unambitious three diamond contract.) Kehela's reasoning was vindicated when West elected to open the club king.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	3◇	Pass	3 N.T.
All Pass

Opening lead: Club king

When declarer tackled diamonds, East took the king and returned the heart queen, which Kehela of course ducked. Declarer's moment of truth came at the next trick, when East continued with a small heart. After a long trance, declarer ducked again.

The second duck was crucial because it prevented E-W from cashing the long hearts. The defence could get a third heart trick, but declarer could then claim the contract.

Considered only as a problem in percentages, South should put up the heart king on the second round, playing for the even-money chance that East has the ace. But Kehela took account of the fact that West had made the highly-unorthodox opening lead of an unsupported king. This suggested that West's holdings were unattractive to lead away from, and made it more likely that he had the heart ace.

Cowichan District Finds Answer

DUNCAN—Cowichan School District is going to fight fire with fire.

Faced with an influx of more than 5,000 students this fall, the school board is rushing completion of 46 classrooms and other additions. All are expected to be ready by December, according to George Routley, superintendent of works.

★ ★ ★

"Last year there were about 4,400 students in the district, and we are preparing to go over the 5,000-student mark with a school addition project of more than $1,050,000," he said.

"These additions are either in progress right now or will be started in the near future, and the budget is one of the largest the district has had."

★ ★ ★

Three projects are expected to be completed for the September registration: A gymnasium at Duncan elementary school at a cost of $47,777; The addition of one classroom, a library and administration area at Mill Bay elementary at a cost of $30,268; and one classroom, administration area and play area at Crofton elementary at a cost of $17,276.

Mr. Routley said of the 46 new class rooms, five will be libraries to be used as classrooms, and one will be a new industrial arts shop at George Bonner junior high.

★ ★ ★

The Khowhemun elementary school project of an additional four classrooms, a library, activity room and play area will cost $150,583, of which $98,400 will be paid by the federal government on a per capita basis, through the Indian students' grant.

Other school additions include: The new Lane Road elementary, six classrooms, a library and acitivity room, $183,800; the new Roome Road elementary, five classrooms, a library and activity room, $170,442.

★ ★ ★

George Bonner junior high, one classroom and industrial arts shop, $95,540; Wharncliffe Elementary, three classrooms, $80,800; Bench elementary, one classroom, library and electrical room, $33,436; and Mill Bay elementary, one classroom, $18,000.

One of the largest projects now in progress is the alterations and additions to the second storey of Quamichan junior high at a cost of $98,400.

The project includes the addition of two classrooms with folding partitions, which can be used as a large room, made up of the two additions and an existing classroom; another classroom; alterations for a library room, previously a science room; and the construction of smaller rooms for book storage, janitorial equipment and washrooms.

Sewer Going Ahead By Initiative Clause

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN — A long period of uncertainty ended Wednesday when council decided to go ahead and put in a sewer system under the local improvement initiative clause in the Municipal Act.

The course of action became necessary after a sewer bylaw in the Gibbins Road, Mary Street and Sherman Road area was twice defeated.

The $465,000 system, which will serve about 500 homes and commercial firms, is expected to be completed one year after construction begins.

Health Hazard

Reeve Donald Morton stressed council decided against a compulsory sewer system installation — another alternative.

Following the last defeat of the sewer bylaw a few months ago, a number of residents complained about hazardous health conditions caused by inadequate septic tanks.

The Reeve told council in disclosing information on the compulsory sewer installation that "The department was very cautious and advised us it would be our choice."

Department officials pointed out some of the pitfalls a compulsory scheme could have.

Although the local improvement initiative clause has been used elsewhere it has never been applied in North Cowichan.

Touchy Subject

He hinted it could become policy in future. Coun. Dennis Hogan urged speedy construction because of cost increase tendencies.

He said another alternative would require several months to study. "I cannot see that we could get a cheaper sewer system," he said.

Another touchy subject within the North Cowichan municipality, the Fuller's Lake Arena will also soon get underway after Coun. Gerry Smith assured council people in the northern end would probably be willing to vote on a supplementary money bylaw to provide additional funds.

About another $80,000 will be needed to build a standard arena. Council agreed to set a bylaw vote for next month.

Because of long and heated arguments and delay in courts, cost of the arena — originally estimated at $330,000 — rose sharply. This became apparent two weeks ago when tenders were opened.

Public meetings to discuss the necessity of a supplementary money bylaw will be held in the Chemainus, Crofton and Westholme areas.

Bishop Urges Talks To Ease Social Ills

Striking out at social welfare and housing injustices, poverty among and aged and discrimination against Indians, Bishop Remi De Roo has suggested a series of open forums to air and explore "the full nature and extent of our problems."

The Roman Catholic leader of Victoria Diocease has called for action to correct what he terms a "restlessness and tension in the city."

The letter has been sent to Mayor Hugh Stephen, Reeve Hugh Curtis of Saanich, Reeve Alan Cox of Oak Bay, Reeve Ray Bryant of Esquimalt, Garth Homer of the Community Welfare Council, school board chairman Peter Bunn, University of Victoria president Malcolm Taylor and the Victoria Youth Council.

CONCERNED

It was read and considered at a meeting of the Youth council Tuesday evening.

★ ★ ★

'Explore Extent Of Problems'

★ ★ ★

"A number of persons whom I have asked about "the local situation think it is becoming worse and I have become concerned," said the bishop's letter referring to such matters as:

- Social welfare and housing condition in the city.
- Poverty, particularly among older people.
- Moral and legal issues surrounding the increased use of stimulants and sedatives and, particularly, psychedelic drugs.
- Alleged injustice of vagrancy laws and their enforcement and arbitrary pressures and harassments against non-conforming social groups.

REACTION FAVORABLE

Reaction to the proposals in the prelate's letter was generally favorable.

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he is all for the forums and any discussion which would arrive at a solution of community problems although he stressed that he would not like to see a "ferment of discussion" when the Mayor and Reeves' Committee on Youth was on the verge of action.

The committee is moving on some of there problems and within six months should have some positive answers, he added.

'INTERESTED'

"If this dialogue is well-arranged, something useful could come out of it," said Reeve Curits. "I have told the bishop's office that I am extremely interested in this sort of program.

"A person-to-person approach has worked before on these sort of issue. I hope, however, that we (council members) are not considered representatives of the unbending Establishment."

'GOOD MOVE'

Reeve Cox described it as a "good move indicative of the church's desire to participate in the solution of community problems and Peter Bunn said he has sent copies of the bishop's letter to all members of the School board.

Referring to recent controversies over some of the points mentioned including the harassment of non-conforming groups, Bishop De Roo said;

MAY GET WORSE

"Accusations were made which were often poorly founded or only partially justified.

"The controversies emphasized the cleavages and did nothing to improve the situation.

"The danger now is that unless some effort is deliberately made to remove friction and misunderstanding the bitterness and strife will become even worse."

Lake Tragedy State Secret

VIENNA (Reuters)—Between 100 and 300 persons are believed to have drowned in a pleasure-boat disaster on Lake Tei near the Romanian capital of Bucharest, unofficial reports reaching Austria said Wednesday.

Romanian officials have maintained total silence about the accident, reported to have occurred Sunday. There were no reports of such a tragedy in Bucharest newspapers.

WOMEN, CHILDREN

The unofficial reports said many on board the pleasure steamer, which normally plied across the lake, were women and children.

An area of the lakeside was cordoned off Wednesday by Romanian police.

Sources in Bucharest, who relayed the generally accepted account of the tragedy, said the steamer sank during a storm when heavily laden. Reports were confused as to whether it sank near the dock or in the middle of the lake, which is only 15 feet deep at that point.

IN MIDDLE

One account said the boat had reached the middle of the lake when it capsized and went down with passengers clinging to its side.

Romanians in the capital claimed to have seen the wreckage of the sunken boat lying near the lakeshore.

Blood Bank Shows Credit

Victorians put themselves less than three weeks ahead in blood bank supplies in the recent two-day clinic.

Wednesday, 96 donors gave at a day-long clinic at the Post Office, and 73 gave in an afternoon clinic at Red Cross House.

Tuesday, 202 gave at the Red Cross House all-day clinic, to bring the total for the August clinic to 371.

Garden Notes

Make Life Easier

By M. V. CHESNUT

Almost every keen gardener looks forward to his retirement as a time when he will be able to devote most of his waking hours to his garden, making ardent love to Mother Earth rather than the usual weekend lick-and-a-promise. One common error, however, is to take on too much garden.

It is an unfortunate but indisputable fact that the older one gets, the farther it is to the ground. Planting and weeding, strenuous jobs at any age, become miserable chores as old joints stiffen. It is wise move, therefore to incorporate in the plans for your retirement garden some ideas to make the work less onerous as time goes by, so that maximum enjoyment of our beloved hobby can be obtained with a minimum of discomfort.

I would suggest a plan of gradually scaling down. The first year or so can be spent in reducing the size of the working area to manageable proportions, at the same time making changes gradually to cut down on the amount of bending and stooping and kneeling required to maintain the place.

It is a wise move to use dwarf trees and medium-sized shrubs at the extremities of the garden. Annual flowers are harder on the back and knees than any other class of plants, with the possible exception of strawberries and the areas devoted to these may be gradually replacing them with the non-staking kids of herbaceous perennials, shrubs and small trees. Roses —particularly the shrub roses — and dahlias can be grown with little attention and a minimum of stooping, as long as you grow them for garden decoration rather than for exhibition.

The vegetable plot should undergo the same gradual shrinking process. We all tend to grow far more beans, lettuce, carrots and tomatoes than we can possibly use, and we find ourselves giving away half our crop to the neighbors. This is very nice for the neighbors, but an enormous waste of precious energy on the part of the elderly grower. That energy is better used to grow only those vegetables that give you and your family special pleasure, growing just enought for your own needs.

Asparagus, for instance, tastes especially good when you think of what it would cost you in the stores, and an established bed can be managed with little strain on the back and legs, except for cutting the crop, and even this can be made easier by fitting a long handle to one of those V-edged asparagus chisels. Vacated vegetable ground can be planted with dwarf fruit trees and soft fruit bushes.

In the earlier stages of the replanning, those who have a garden on sloping ground might well consider having it terraced; level ground is easier to work than slopes, and raised beds can be managed without any stooping at all. A cheap material for the retaining walls is broken concrete paving — certainly not as good-looking as a dry rock wall, but it weathers down in time.

Needless to say, one starts at an early stage to replace heavy garden tools with others of lighter weight. A long-handled, pointed-nose shovel in what is called "lady's size" can keep you digging long after the time when a conventional spade become burdensome. A small-bladed Dutch hoe will take care of the weeds with little effort, and a modern lightweight plastic watering can should replace the big galvanized one. Long-handled edging shears made of lightweight aluminum tubing are a joy to use for correction the shagginess at the edged of lawns and beds.

ART BUCHWALD and the Tailors of Beersheba

Piling Their Long Suit

While ART BUCHWALD takes a few days off we are reprinting some of his previous columns. This one, written some years ago, could contain more truth than meets the eye.

There has been a great deal of excitement in the United States and Israel over suspicions that Israel might be working out the development of an atomic bomb.

United States state department officials are reportedly furious at the Israelis, because when they built their atomic energy plant 20 miles outside of Beersheba, they told the United States it was a textile plant.

The United States was kept in the dark until recently, when CIA photographs revealed that the building wasn't what it was cracked up to be.

★ ★ ★

It was just by chance that the Americans didn't find out the secret six months ago.

It seems that an important American diplomat stationed in Israel needed a new suit. Since someone told him about the new textile plant, he decided to go out there to see if he could possibly get one wholesale.

As he drove south toward Beersheba, Israeli intelligence agents were alerted and a half-hour before he arrived the head of the atomic energy plant was notified that an American was coming to buy a suit.

A hurried conference was called with the other scientists to decide what to do. They were afraid that if they refused him entrance he might get suspicious and start prying into the plant. So the scientists agreed the only sensible thing to do was to let the diplomat in and pretend that nothing was going on.

The scientists removed their white smocks, rolled up their sleeves, and stuck pins and needles in their vests.

★ ★ ★

When the American diplomat arrived, he was immediately ushered into a large room where he saw men cutting suit forms out of asbestos patterns.

The head of the plant said, greeted the diplomat. "What can I do for you, sir?" he asked.

"I was wondering if I could buy a suit wholesale."

The head of the plant said, "Perhaps you would like something in cobalt blue? Or maybe a nice uranium brown? How about a cosmic gray double-breasted, with pin-striped particles? It's the latest thing."

"No," said the diplomat, "I don't want anything flashy. You wouldn't have a light grey flannel?"

"Perhaps," the head of the plant replied. "Please, let us take your measurements. Just go into the fitting room behind that six-foot wall of lead and take off your clothes."

The diplomat went in. "These fitting rooms are very well protected," he said.

★ ★ ★

The head of the plant smiled. "Our customers like privacy, and there's so much activity around here that we don't like things to pile up. Just a minute while I call the fitter. Shimshon, would you please come in with the measuring instruments."

One of the scientists rushed in with a geiger counter, a slide rule, and two robot arms. The head of the plant took a pad and said, "Shimshon, call off the customer's measurements."

Shimshon yelled out, "Ten, none, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two one of!"

"Enough with the jokes, Shimshon," the supervisor said angrily. "Let's have some measurements."

"What about the lapels?" the diplomat wanted to know.

"Don't worry," Shimshon said, "we'll smash them down if they're too large."

Shimshon measured the pants and then the diplomat put on his clothes again.

★ ★ ★

"All right," the diplomat said. "Can I charge it?"

"Negative or positive?" the head of the plant wanted to know.

"I don't care," the diplomat said. "When should I come for my next fitting?"

The head of the plant said, "Why should you, an important man, drive to Beersheba again? Our tailor from our retail store in Tel Aviv will call on you. But please, kind sir, DO NOT tell your friends about us because we have too much work now, and if we take any more orders the plant will explode."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Beatles Back at Work

LONDON (NANA) — The Beatles are due to check in this week for their cartoon feature-length movie, The Yellow Submarine. The title is from their best-selling record. No one seems to know whether the foursome did in fact buy their dream Greek island. First I was told yes, then I was told no. There is less confusion about Paul McCartney's dismay over the accusation that his young fans will follow him into the euphoric world of LSD. Why did he admit taking the stuff? He can also be evasive on other subjects. When he plans to marry Jane Asher, for instance.

★ ★ ★

Each Beatle, by the way, is now worth $5,400,000 and manager Brian Epstein is worth more. Quite a feat when you think of their tax bracket. Like other show-folks in England, including Sir Laurence Olivier, the Beatles had hoped for a tax shelter in the British-owned Bahamas. But the government said a loud no. Of course, there is always Switzerland, but even that tight-lipped country is not as easy a place to save a buck in as it used to be.

★ ★ ★

I'll take bets that if Charlie Chaplin ever makes another movie it will not be backed by an American company. His Countess From Hong Kong was a disappointment . . . Alan Arkin, completing Inspector Clouseau, called to say that he has made a deal with Joseph Strick to direct his next picture, The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter. Strick is responsible for the controversial Ulysses.

I must remember to be in New York on Sept. 27, when Forrest Tucker starts his starring role with Tony Curtis and Britt Ekland in The Night They Raided Minsky's. It will be Tuck's first film since Auntie Mame. Meanwhile, the big boy is picking up $5,000 a week on the road in On A Clear Day You Can See Forever.

Julia Foster, the cute girl in Alfie whom Michael Caine gets pregnant is expecting for real. Luckily she had completed her starring role with Tommy Steele in Half a Sixpence.

Leaving Les Ambassadeurs on a cloudy day, I came face to face with Freddie Fields, famous as a top Hollywood agent and husband of Polly Bergen. Pretty soon, Pretty Polly will be making more money than her successful husband. "Her Oil of the Turtle cosmetic line is expected to make $3,000,000 in the first year," Freddie said.

★ ★ ★

Hayley Mills really runs wild on the maternity front in her next movie, A Nice Girl Like Me. Hayley falls in love with a young Frenchman, has an affair with him within hours of their meeting and has a baby, returns to England, has another baby with another stranger, goes to a "love-in" with a young American and has twins by him, then falls in love with an older man who won't marry her. In real life Hayley is in love with and about to marry 53-year-old director Ray Boulting.

One U.S. casualty insurance company alone pays out $1,000,000 a day because of accidents to individuals who are injured and this amount is greater than the sum spent in a whole year in the entire U.S. for researching the cause of accidents.

King Fisherman: Coho Takes Lead

Gordon Maycock, 1935 Trans-Canada Highway, has stepped into the lead in the The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest coho division with a 15-pounder caught on a Flashtail at Pedder Bay.

He caught a 14½-pounder as well just to make sure he ousted the 13½-pounder caught by Vern Nicholls of Ferndell Court from top spot.

As a Colonist subscriber Mr. Maycock is in line to win the T. Eaton Co. Viking outboard motor for the heaviest coho as well as a King Fisherman trophy, but with big coho around his lead is not likely to hold up for long.

Anglers are reminded contest rules call for pictures and positive identification of all big cohos, and this now means any coho bigger than 15 pounds.

FIRST TYEE

Leo Cyr's 26.14-pounder from Alberni Inlet has won him the trophy for the first tyee of the season from Alberni Inlet by a member of Alberni Valley Tyee Club.

But his trophy fish doesn't rank as a tyee in the King Fisherman contest. The Alberni club rates spring salmon 18 pounds or heavier as tyee salmon, but King Fisherman rules call for tyee to be spring salmon 30 pound and seavier caught in Alberni Inlet waters or north of Nile Creek, above Qualicum Bay.

Hikes, Cookouts

Scouts Training For Olympics

Every day, at least once a day, Tommy Muir of Jordan River puts on a 25-pound pack and hikes a mile or two.

The 77-pound Boy Scout is one of 33 Juan de Fuca Scouts in training for a 75-mile adventure hike to heights of more than 7,000 feet into the Olympics, due to start Aug. 23.

Twice the district has won the Provincial Commissioner Adventure Award, given for achievement and planning, and the boys are out to capture the award for the third time.

★ ★ ★

District Scoutmaster Robert Muir — no relative of Scout Tommy — says the Scouts picked the route for the hike, and planned all the details.

"Leaders are only allowed to give advice if it's really necessary, or if they see the boys are making mistakes.

"The boys have planned everything, right down to the menus."

The 12-day route will begin at Staircase Ranger Station, and the group is hoping to climb the Anderson Glacier.

★ ★ ★

They will go through three passes, and climb as high as 7,300 feet, before arriving at Elwha Ranger Station, and returning to Victoria Sept. 3.

Last Sunday there was a practice cookout to give patrol leaders and cooks experience with the dehydrated food they will carry. Next Sunday the boys are to wear their boots, and load packs to about 30 pounds for a practice hike.

That will be the final organized practice before the main hike.

Out for Season

Swamped Camp Awaits Repairs

A floating fish camp that suffered heavy damage and losses in equipment at Becher Bay Sunday is out of commission for the season.

A Nelson Bros. Fisheries Ltd. spokesman said it will remain in Sooke until a company tug is available to take it to Vancouver for repairs.

The camp, which suffered $70,000 damage when it swamped Saturday near Race Rocks, is at present in Sooke Harbor.

Early Sunday the camp, being towed to Port Renfrew, was hauled onto the beach at Becher Bay after the snow on which the camp sits took on water in rough seas.

The churning action of a tug brought in to further beach the camp collapsed one of its walls in the already submerged first storey, spilling out valuable supplies and equipment.

Oil Slick Threat To Resorts

LONDON (Reuters) — A massive oil slick said to be 10 miles long and 60 yards wide is threatening holiday beaches along England's south coast.

The oil patch, of unknown origin, is about two miles offshore, in the area of the south coast towns of Eastbourne, Hastings and Shoreham.

All But One

Deadly Drums Found

VANCOUVER (CP) — All but one of the 21 pesticide drums that spilled into Teakerne Arm, about 120 miles northwest of Vancouver, several weeks ago have been recovered, the federal fisheries department said Wednesday.

The drums, which contained an arsenic compound, were recovered by Macmillan Bloedel, which had kept them in a float as part of a log assembly operation in the inlet, department biologist Ken Jackson said.

SHELL BAN

The compound is used to rid the logs of sea growth.

A ban on shell fishing operations as a result of seepage from the drums will be continued at least until the end of August, Mr. Jackson said.

First samples of oysters taken from the water near where the drums fell off the float during a storm contained a small showing of arsenic, he said.

After Rain

Prairie Hopes Higher

From CP

Agriculturists from the three prairie provinces, and officials of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, expressed hope Wednesday of better-than-expected crop yields following general weekend rains across the country's grain belt.

The Manitoba department of agriculture said rain arrested deterioration of crops in dry areas and, coupled with cool weather, slowed ripening while providing crops with time for filling.

Prospects for most districts in Manitoba were favorable, and yields were expected to vary from good to above average.

Recent light to heavy showers in many areas of Saskatchewan resulted in generally sufficient moisture to carry grains to maturity, the Saskatchewan department of agriculture said.

The agriculture department forecast a wheat crop yield of slightly less than the longtime average of 16 bushels an acre.

Dockyard Timeout Repeated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Navy announced Wednesday the fire-ravaged aircraft carrier Forrestal will return in mid-September to Norfolk, Va., for repairs.

A spokesman estimated the repairs will take three to six months. The Forrestal lost 132 men killed in fire that broke out as it was beginning bombing operations off Vietnam July 29.

The ship underwent a $50,000,000 overhaul, also at Norfolk, during a nine-month period ending Jan. 22.

Varnish Toll At 96

MADRAS (Reuters)—Another 43 persons died Wednesday in the prohibitionist Indian state of Madras after drinking varnish as liquor, bringing the death toll in the last three days to 96.

Twenty-five persons died at Walajabad and 18 at Kancheepuram. Latest reports said 90 others, admited to hospial, were responding to treatment.

At Kancheepuram, 134 were in hospital, three of them in critical condition. In Madras city, 53 persons died Tuesday after drinking varnish at a party Sunday.

Vancouver To Vote On Name

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Residents of this city of 39,000 will vote Sept. 19 on whether to change its name.

City council ordered the election after receiving a petition with 75 signatures. If the vote is yes, the council will accept suggestions and will call a vote on them Nov. 7.

The petitioners want the name Fort Vancouver, mainly to avoid confusion with Vancouver, B.C. Fort Vancouver was an army outpost more than a century ago.

In 1909 voters overwhelmingly rejected a similar proposal.

Seamen Favor Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union said Wednesday that early returns in a strike vote among Great Lakes seamen overwhelmingly support a walkout next Thursday, Aug. 17.

The union tabulated ballots collected from 66 vessels in the port of Montreal. The vote was 1,047 in favor of a strike and 32 against. There were 13 spoiled ballots.

KNOWN WEDNESDAY

Ballots being cast by seamen on the remaining 115 ships will be counted at meetings between Halifax and Fort William, Ont., and the final tally should be known by Wednesday.

About 5,400 SIU members are taking the vote in a dispute with 32 shipping companies which handle 82 per cent of cargo transport on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

A two-thirds vote in favor of a strike would tie up the bulk of inland Canadian shipping within five days after the walkout starts at noon Aug. 17.

In Prince Albert, Sask., Opposition leader Diefenbaker demanded a special session of Parliament immediately to pass strike-preventing legislation before the walkout date.

Bear Death

Surprise 'Factor In Attack'

EDMONTON (CP) — Officials of the Alberta and Canadian Wildlife Services said Wednesday a black male bear that chased two girls, killing one, Tuesday near Vernon, B.C., probably thought they were prey.

Both said it was common knowledge among wildlife biologists that any predatory animal may give chase, instead of running away, if it is surprised by a strange creature. The animal's sex, or whether young are present, does not necessarily matter, although known attacks usually involved females with young.

WELL-FED ANIMAL

Susan Duckitt, 10, of Haney, B.C., was killed after she and Jennifer McHugh, 9, of North Vancouver, apparently surprised the bear on a hill near Vernon. The animal was described as healthy and well fed by examiners after it had been killed.

"The bear may never have seen a human before," said Stuart Smith, director of the Alberta service.

"A wild animal's instinct at being surprised, not necessarily frightened, by another animal, human or otherwise, is to attack. They are inclined to attack anything that runs."

Jennifer, who was not mauled, said she and Susan had run from the bear after spotting it close by standing on its hind legs.

Digital Boast Topped

PALERMO, Sicily (Reuters) — "That's nothing," said housepainter Lorenzo Guarnieri on reading about a Spanish waiter who has 24 fingers and toes. "I have 26."

"In our family we never thought anything of it. But if they make such a fuss about someone who only has 24 fingers and toes, what would they say about us (his mother, sister, and himself) who have 78 between us."

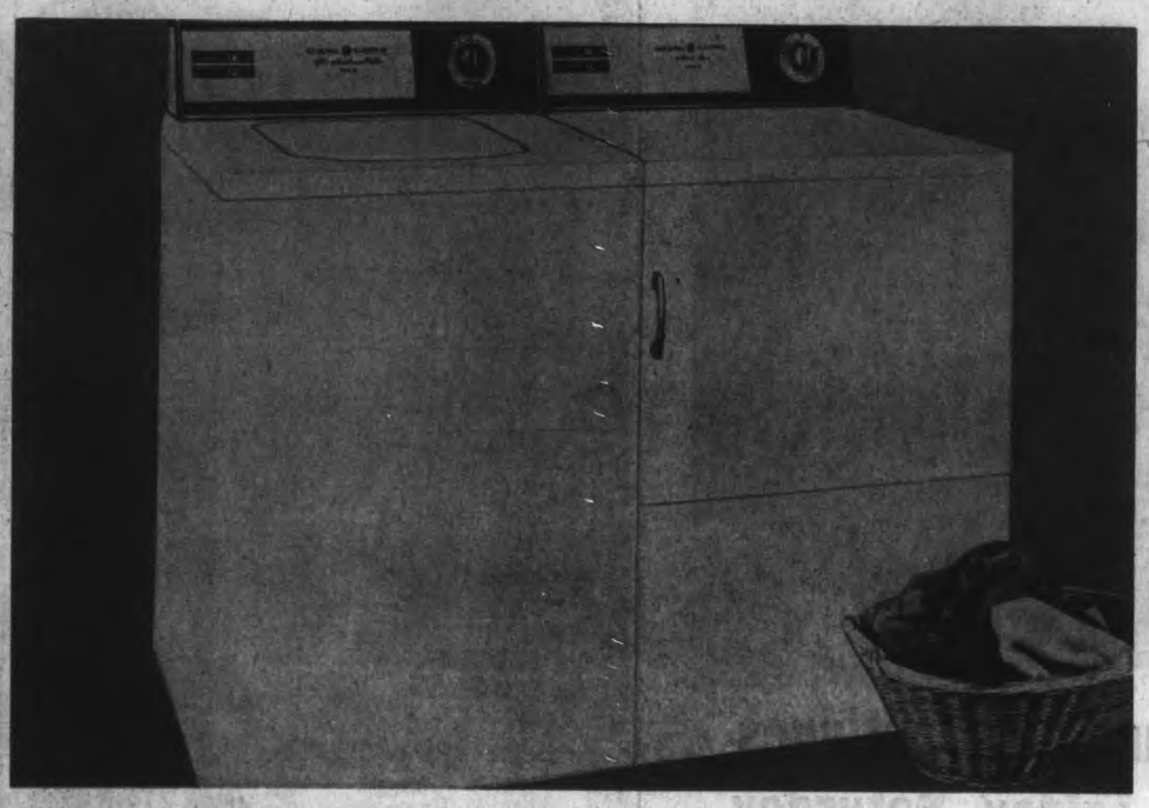

Guarnieri, 25, his mother Rosalia, 56, and sister Antonina, 26, all have six fingers on each hand and seven toes on each foot.

Breakaway Bomber Hits Lagos

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—A warplane believed to be from breakaway eastern Nigeria bombed this African capital Wednesday night as rebel troops invaded federal territory and claimed the capture of the mid-western region.

The hostile aircraft dropped explosives on the Lagos waterfront section of Apapa where docks and petroleum dumps are located. Nearby Nigerian naval units fired on the plane, and there were unconfirmed reports that it was hit.

(The BBC in London said three bombs fell on Lagos.)

CAPTURE CLAIMED

The air raid took place as rebel forces invaded the neighboring midwestern state and claimed its capture. Rebels seized the radio station in the state capital at Benin and announced they had taken over the midwest "as a result of the liberation action of midwest forces backed by friendly troops from the east."

IBO HELP

The federal government said in an official statement that rebel soldiers had infiltrated the state with the help of the anti-government Ibo tribesmen in the Nigerian army.

Nigeria, with more than 55,000,000 people, is the most populous nation in Africa. It has been torn by tribal rivalries and religious differences for months.

The midwest state is one of 12 states into which the country was recently carved.

PHONES OUT

Telephone service between Lagos and Benin was cut late Wednesday night.

A woman announcer broadcasting on Radio Benin said "Revolutionary forces" occupying the city were led by Lt.-Col. Victor Banjo, a member of the Yoruba tribe.

Lagos sources said they doubted Banjo was involved. These sources said the rebels probably used his name in an effort to bring Yoruba tribesmen into the rebel camp.

NO MENTION

Radio Benin reported that a curfew had been imposed throughout the midwestern region, and that it would remain in effect until a new government was formed. It said revolutionary forces had saved the region from "The shackles of domination."

The broadcast from Benin made no mention of Brig. Gen. David Ejoor, the governor of the midwestern region.

A police announcement Wednesday night ordered Nigerians off the streets of Lagos because of what was described as an emergency situation. The announcement said failure to obey the order "may lead to grave consequences for which those concerned will have only themselves to blame."

Whites Seize Bukavu

SHANGUGU, Rwanda (LAT) — The rebellious white mercenaries took full control of the important eastern Congo city of Bukavu, Wednesday and vowed to keep control until the kidnapped Moise Tshombe was released and returned to Congolese political life.

The column of mercenaries demonstrated its control by marching to the Rwanda border and releasing the first of the more than 100 white civilians who had lived with them in the Congolese bush for the past month.

The Congolese government radio and called these civilians hostages, but the civilians, as soon as they reached Rwanda, insisted they had joined the mercenaries for their own protection.

No one standing here on the Rwanda border could doubt the control and power of the 150 mercenaries and their 700 to 800 allies, the former African gendarmes of secessionist Katanga province.

Space Feat Hinted

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Wednesday launched an unmanned satellite into an orbit which indicated that Russian scientists were planning a new space spectacular.

The satellite named Cosmos 172 was the second to be launched in two days, and the seventh consecutive space probe to follow an almost identical path around the earth.

Observers believed that the concentration on the same orbit indicated that some new, manned space feat was being planned for the Nov. 7 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Key Putt Gives Canada Victory

A 14-foot eagle putt by Johnny Johnston of Vancouver was the telling blow as Canada's six-man team to the fourth Commonwealth golf tournament defeated South Africa Wednesday by five matches to four.

Johnston's putt came on the 17th green when Canada was in the middle of an exciting recovery that could have brought victory or a narrow loss.

Johnston's putt put him one-up on John Fourie of South Africa, a lead he held through to the end.

Great Britain won the other match, dropping the talented Australian team, five matches to four. New Zealand had the bye. (See Page 16.)

Canada had to struggle for its win when South Africa opened a 2-1 gap after the morning foursomes. But, with Gary Cowan in devastating form, the Canadians rallied to grab victory in four of the six singles.

Britain, which now has won one match and drawn another, is in first place with three points. Canada and South Africa are tied for second with two points, New Zealand has one and Australia is scoreless.

CITY TO ORDER: ROLL UP HOSES

By A. H. MURPHY

City council will probably be asked today to impose a ban on sprinkling because nearly 40,000,000 gallons of water was used Wednesday in Greater Victoria — the highest daily volume in the water district's history.

By the time the thermometer had climbed to 83 degrees at the Gonzales weather station at 4:30 p.m., on the hottest day of the year, it was already clear that Greater Victorians had ignored warnings that they must begin conserving water.

As the drought continued, with another forest fire flareup on the Malahat and restrictions imposed on swimming at Thetis Lake, civic officials began taking preliminary steps to slow the flow of precious water through city water mains.

SPRINKLERS OFF

Mayor Hugh Stephen ordered a week's cessation of sprinkling in city parks and on city-tended boulevards, the water board abandoned its effort to keep salmon fry alive in Goldstream Creek, and city parks administrator Herbert Warren said swimming will not be allowed beyond the dam at Thetis Lake until the fire hazard ends. (See also Page 22.)

The last rain fell on Victoria July 20 — a miserable sprinkle of .13 inch.

During July, only .21 inch fell. The average rainfall for the month is slightly more than half an inch.

REVERSE EFFECT

Commissioner Ronald Upward of the Greater Victoria Water District said he was hesitant to suggest that restrictions of any kind be imposed, because the very suggestion seemed to have the effect of making people use more water.

"They evidently feel that their flowers and grass and shrubs are going to be water-starved, so they turn the sprinklers on full and pour the water to them," he said.

First warning of trouble was given in Tuesday's Colonist when Mr. Upward pointed out that there had been no fall-off in

Aberfan Won't Prosecute

ABERFAN, Wales (AP)—People of this little Welsh mining town, who lost 144 children and other kinfolk killed in last October's coal-mountain slide, decided Wednesday night not to prosecute any National Coal Board official blamed for the tragedy.

Dayan Rejects Withdrawal Of Israeli Lines

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israeli defence minister Moshe Dayan said Wednesday night the Jewish state must never pull back to its pre-1958 borders. He said surrender of land won in the war with the Arab world would invite new attacks and deny the Israeli people "fulfilment of ancestral dreams."

Dayan reiterated Israeli demands for direct peace negotiations with Arab states, and a former Jordanian government minister close to King Hussein said Jordan is planning to hold talks with Israel.

Ismail Nijezi, former minister of development in Hussein's cabinet, told newsmen Wednesday that the plan would be submitted to the Arab summit conference later this month. Egypt and Syria have refused to negotiate with Israel and do not recognize its existence.

IMPATIENT

Dayan stepped out of his role as defence minister Wednesday night by addressing a cheering political rally in Jerusalem. He has become increasingly impatient with political feuds that have plagued Israel in the aftermath of its war victory.

Dayan's hard-hitting speech widened the rift between him and Premier Levi Eshkol. Dayan addressed a political rally attended by 5,000 members of the Rafi party, an organization opposed to Eshkol's Mapai party.

BAN VIOLATED

The speech by the one-eyed general violated a parliamentary ban on discussion of Israeli peace terms in any settlement with the Arab world.

Dayan spoke against a background of increasingly hostile Arab sentiment against Israel in occupied areas. Israeli police arrested two prominent Arabs Wednesday in the former Jordanian sector of Jerusalem and authorities invoked strong security measures against the threat of civil disobedience.

Yemen Fight Flares

ADEN (UPI) — Egyptian planes and ground forces were reported Wednesday to be counter-attacking in neighboring Yemen where their power had waned recently because of the Middle East War.

Reports from Cairo said the Egyptians were freeing some enemies of the Yemen republic government, in a possible move toward abandoning Egypt's republican allies.

BIG BATTLE

A Yemeni army private who defected to this British colony Tuesday said Egyptian and republican troops fought a big battle against a splinter group of dissident republicans at Mawiya in south Yemen.

The soldier said nine of the dissidents, three Egyptians and five republican soldiers were killed.

Quake Shakes Denver Area

DENVER (UPI) — The worst earthquake in Denver's history, estimated up to five times as strong as any previous tremor and nearly reaching major proportions, knocked bricks out of chimneys, cracked walls and shook a wide area around the city Wednesday.

There were no reports of injuries.

Mao's Thoughts Are Everywhere

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. (AP) — Police searched the lockers of three prisoners in the city jail Wednesday and found beer, liquor, candy, obscene drawings and a book of quotations from Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung.

Formal Declaration

Conservative Thinkers Urge Two-Nation Plan

QUEBEC (CP)—A recommendation that the Progressive Conservative party formally endorse the two-nations theory of Canada will be placed before next month's leadership convention in Toronto.

The constitution study group at the party's policy advisory conference here endorsed the idea late Wednesday, formally declaring that the party should recognize that Canada is composed of "two founding peoples"—in French, deux nations—with historic rights.

The proposal, put into formal language by former Conservative national president Egan Chambers of Montreal in draft form Wednesday, represented the committee's resolution of a three-day argument over whether the step would be misunderstood in English-speaking Canada.

TWO MEANINGS

It was argued that in English nation means political unit while in French the word is used to denote a cultural grouping.

Ontario Premier Robarts used both "two founding peoples" and "two societies" in a Wednesday address to the conference.

★ ★ ★

Convention To Rule On Proposal

★ ★ ★

He said he believes "English-speaking Canadians, by actual practice and not just by words, must recognize that Canada is essentially a country of two societies and two founding peoples . . ."

PLENARY SESSIONS

The constitution group's report to plenary sessions also calls for immediate establishment of a parliamentary committee study of changes in the constitution followed by a constitutional conference of representatives of all parties in legislative bodies to recommend specific changes desirable.

The committee says the constitution should encourage equality in the full growth and development of the two founding peoples throughout Canada.

Gordon Fairweather, MP for Royal and chairman of the study group, said he plans to reiterate in reappointing to the conference plenary session the earlier decision recommending that use of French and English be guaranteed in the courts and legislatures throughout Canada, and that access to education in either language be guaranteed throughout Canada.

TWO-HOUR TALK

He said he also will renew the study group's call for a constitutional tribunal to decide constitutional disputes between the federal and provincial governments.

In resolving the argument over the two-nation theory in the way they did, participants in the constitution study group held a two-hour session in camera.

The study group's report still faces on final hurdle at Thursday's plenary session of the conference, but the issue was debated at length in plenary session Tuesday night without any indication of uncompromising opposition.

Canton Fight Casualties Reach 200

HONG KONG (UPI)—A battle between Red Army troops and fanatic Red Guard supporters of Mao Tse-tung in Canton killed or wounded more than 200 persons, the independent Hong Kong newspaper Ming Pao said today.

It also quoted travelers from southern China's largest city as saying Communist murder squads from rival political factions are roaming the city at night.

Brown Buffaloed — Negro Crowd Laughs

Governor Defuses Gun Talk

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Flamboyant Gov. Claude Kirk caught H. Rap Brown by surprise at a Black Power rally Wednesday night, bounding out of the darkness to welcome him to Florida and to warn he did not want to hear "any talk about guns."

The crowd of about 300 Negroes gathered in a baseball park had no notice Kirk would fly by jet from Tallahassee to appear at the rally.

Brown complained:

"These white hunkies try to step in and take over your meeting."

★ ★ ★

Earlier the crowd had chanted. "We don't need you . . . go home Brown."

Kirk appeared at the microphone just after Brown told the crowd. "You better get yourself some guns, baby. That's the only way you're going to get what you need."

★ ★ ★

Dressed in a dapper dark pin-striped suit, Kirk came forward and offered his hand to Brown. The Black Power militant turned his back to Kirk.

Kirk took the microphone from Brown's hands and said:

"Welcome to Florida. Are you here in good spirits?"

Brown tried to ignore the governor before the delighted crowd. He then yelled:

"If he wants to campaign let him pay for it."

Florida's first Republican governor in modern times was not perplexed. He persisted at the microphone:

"I don't want any talk about guns," he said.

Canadians Win On Pressure Putt

By BRIAN DOHERTY

A 14-foot eagle putt stared at Vancouver's Johnny Johnston as he stood on the 17th green of the Victoria Golf Club Wednesday. It was a putt that would swing Canada's match with South Africa in the Commonwealth tournament.

As Johnston studied his putt this much was known:

- The Canadians trailed after the morning foursomes by one win to two;
- Gary Cowan and Nick Weslock had won their singles;
- Doug Silverberg had been walloped;
- Keith Alexander was one up playing 17;
- Wayne Vollmer was two down playing 16; and
- The Canadians had to win four singles to take the match.

Johnston was even on 17 with John Fourie, South Africa's top match-play man.

Fourie was two feet inside Johnston's ball as they lined up their eagle putts.

Johnston's putt curled in and he had his eagle. Suddenly Fourie's putt was longer and harder. Fourie missed on the inside and Johnston was one-up. Canada had a toe in.

He held the advantage. Alexander kept Comrie Du Toit out and the Canadians had their victory by five matches to four.

After he holed an 18-incher to halve the last hole with the painstakingly slow Fourie, he said: "That putt on 17 was the big one."

Fourie was 20 yards in front of him off the tee but Johnston arched a beautiful five iron to the left side of the pin.

"I knew Keith and I had to win," said Johnston.

Alexander had a break in his match against Du Toit. They were even coming into 16 and Alexander dropped his approach short. But Du Toit over-clubbed and finished off the green.

Alexander, with a typical effortless swing, put the ball close and Du Toit came up short. That gave Alexander a one-up lead and the match.

WON FOURSOMES

South Africa, which thumped Australia on the opening day Tuesday, again showed its strength in the morning foursomes.

Derek Kemp and Hugh Baiocchi defeated Weslock and Johnston, 2 and 1. Fourie and Rod Mullan downed Silverberg and Vollmer, 3 and 2.

Canada's only win came with Cowan and Alexander beating Dave Symons and Du Toit, 4 and 3.

But the Canadians got away to a great start in the afternoon singles, largely because of the brilliance of Cowan.

ONE UNDER, TWO DOWN

Playing Kemp, South Africa's amateur champion, Cowan was two in the trap at the side of the first green with a drive and a four iron. They shared birdies.

On the shortish par-three second, Cowan canned a 40-footer from off the green for a birdie. He was one-up. He birdied three with a 20-foot putt and Kemp was two down and one under par.

Cowan muscled a magnificent drive on the fourth, over 300 yards, and finished in the beach that fronts the fifth tee. He took a one-stroke penalty but still almost won the hole when Kemp was scrambling.

As it was, Kemp won it with a pressure putt.

ENDED ON 15TH

The match finished on the 15th when Cowan drew his tee shot around the trees, leaving him a lazy wedge to the green. His drive travelled 300 yards before striking a small tree.

Weslock began with a birdie on first against the diminutive Symons. He birdied the fifth to finish the front nine one-under par and three-up.

Symons birdied 10 against Weslock's par but the Canadian came back with a birdie on 12.

Silverberg could do little right in his match against Mullan. He was erratic with his irons while Mullan kept up his fine play.

Mullan had five birdies in the match and finished one-under par after hitting two balls out of bounds.

Baiocchi, who came into the South African team when Bobby Cole turned professional, also turned onto the 10th hole one under par.

He tamed the tricky par-three seven with a birdie two and followed it with another two on the eighth.

Aussies Suffer Second Setback

By BRIAN DOHERTY

Gordon Cosh burned up the front nine of the Victoria Golf Club Wednesday with a five-under par 28 and then had to come back to down Australia's Bill Britten, one-up, in their singles clash in the Australia-Great Britain match in the Commonwealth tournament.

Britain won the match by five matches to four to hand the Australians their second straight loss. The Australians, who had tied with Britain for first place in the last Commonwealth in Sydney, are at the bottom of the standings.

EAGLE ON FIRST

Cosh began brilliantly with an eagle three on the first hole. He then birdied the second, parred the third, birdied the fourth, parred the fifth and sixth, birdied the seventh, and parred eight and nine.

That left him four-up after nine holes.

But Britten wasn't playing marbles. He birdied the first and the eighth to finish the nine with an even par 32.

Then came the Aussie's flight. He parred 10, birdied 11, 12 and 13 to even the match. They halved 14 with pars and Britten took the lead for the first time with a par four on 15 against a bogey five.

WELL UNDER PAR

But Cosh tied it up on 16th with a par against a bogey and won the 17th with a birdie. They halved 18 with pars and Cosh finished the day with a four-under par 66.

Britten was two-under on the back nine and ended with a 67.

The Australians had taken an early lead when they won two of the three foursomes.

Kevin Donohoe and Kevin Hartley beat Ronnie Shade and Sandy Saddler, 6 and 5, and Dennis Bell and Vic Bulgin downed Cosh and Rodney Foster, 4 and 3.

SCORED LONE WIN

Britain's only win in the foursome came when Mike Bonallack and Dudley Millensted beat Phil Billings and Britten, 5 and 4.

Bonallack and Millensted got their margin on the point holes when they birdied seven, eight and nine.

Some of the day's best golf was seen in the afternoon singles between the Australians and British.

Hartley split his game with Bonallack as he shot a one-under 69 against Bonallack's 68. They both birdied the eighth.

STILL WINLESS

Phil Billings, described by Australian manager Les Graham as the team's steady player, has yet to win a game this week.

He shot par golf but lost out to Rodney Foster, one-up. Foster, who ended on-under par, Foster, who ended one-under par, was two holes down with five to play and headlined his charge with an eagle on 17.

Donohoe eagled the first hole in his singles match against Ronnie Shade for a three-under 67. Shade, who was two down after four holes, finished with a 68 and they split their singles match.

Nanaimo Wins Opener

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Little league teams from Nanaimo, B.C., and San Fernando Valley, Calif., were victorious Wednesday in the western regional finals.

Nanaimo defeated Clearfield, Utah, 6-5, scoring the winning run in the seventh inning on a single, an error and an infield out. Dale Fitzhenry was the winning pitcher.

The losing and winning teams meet today in the double elimination tournament. The eventual winning team moves into the national finals at Des Moines, Iowa, next week.

Shamrocks Fade in Third Drop Decision to 'Bellies

As far as Victoria Shamrocks are concerned, the only statistic that came out of last night's game is that they are not going to finish on top of the Inter-City Lacrosse League standings.

New Westminster Salmonbellies made sure of that with a great third period surge that saw them outscore the Shamrocks, 8-2, and breeze to an 18-win.

Shamrocks stayed in second place in the standings, one point ahead of Coquitlam, but Salmonbellies kept alive their chances of getting into the playoffs by moving to within two points of Coquitlam.

Tonight, Rocks play a return engagement in New Westminster. Coquitlam and Vancouver wind up league play with a game in Coquitlam Saturday night.

Last night, Shamrocks played the first five minutes in each period as though they were trying to keep Paul Parnell of New Westminster off the scoresheet, and set up their own Ranjit Dillon.

Parnell and Dillon are in a battle for the league scoring championship, and last night Parnell picked up two goals and three assists to Dillon's one goal and three assists.

Dillon still holds his lead but the margin has been cut to three points, 90-87, and the game tonight will settle the issue.

Although the spotlight was focused on Dillon and Parnell the big man last night was New Westminster defenceman Ian Bull. He scored five goals and five assists to have his biggest night in Inter-City competition.

New Westminster scored the first three goals of the game, but Shamrocks came back and held a 6-4 lead at the end of the first period.

Salmonbellies came back again in the first four minutes of the second period and had a 8-7 lead going into the second half of the period.

Americas, Europe Split Opening Events

MONTREAL (CP)—The Americas track and field stars edged ahead of Europe's best Wednesday night, 79 points to 74 at the half-way mark of the inaugural two-day meet.

A damp and soggy evening, but without rain after the start was made, seemed to affect the athletes. Only one — Vince Matthews of the United States — came within hailing distance of a world mark.

Matthews breezed to his win in the 400-metre run in 45 seconds flat, one-tenth of a second off the world record.

FEW RECORDS SET

Only a scattering of Canadian open records were set.

Europe's most spectacular win was supplied by Roger Bambuck of France in the 100-metre sprint. He defeated Willie Turner and Jerry Bright of the United States.

ALMOST EVEN

The 15 events were almost evenly split. The Americas won seven of the men's events and one of the women's. The Europeans took five first places in the men's and two in the women's.

In the points breakdown, the Americas' men took 57 points and the women 22. The Europeans scored 47 in the men's events and 27 in women's.

Two Vancouver Teams Eliminated

Two Vancouver teams were eliminated yesterday as play started at Hampton Park in the provincial Little League baseball playoffs.

Losers took what were believed to be the worst trouncing in the history of the event as Trail blasted Vancouver Shaughnessy, 18-0, behind the one-hit pitching of Rick Babcock and Whalley overwhelmed East Vancouver, 13-2.

There's a consolation game for the losers this afternoon at 2 but play for the championship is a sudden-death thing and yesterday's results leave the two winners, Victoria Hampton and West Vancouver in the semi-finals.

Hampton plays Trail this evening at 6 and Whalley and West Vancouver play the other semi-final tomorrow. The final is set for Saturday.

Babcock, who lost his no-hitter to a second-inning double, struck out 11 and had no worries after the second, when his teammates scored 10 times to go with the five runs they managed in the first inning.

Ted Springenadek was almost as well off, Whalley scoring eight runs in the first three innings.

Lister's Four-Hitter Gives Greaves Win

Jerry Lister pitched a four-hit shutout Wednesday at Royal Athletic Park as Greaves hustled to a 3-0 victory over King's Hotel.

The win gave Greaves a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five Senior Amateur Baseball League semi-final series.

The 19-year-old righthander was in command all the way, striking out 13 batters. Lister issued a single base on balls in each of the last two innings.

Plucky Dave Rivers scored Greaves' first two runs. In the fourth inning he singled, moved to second on Les Brice's bunt single and scored on Bob Lumley's hot single off shortstop John Yankoski's glove.

In the sixth, he walked, moved to third on an infield out and a passed ball, scoring on Lumley's sacrifice fly.

Jerry Ciochetti scored the third run on a double steal in the seventh inning.

Rawlings hold a 1-0 lead in the other series going into today's game at 6:30 p.m.

They Could Win Without Swinging a Club

By JIM TANG

If you're a golf fan and gave been following the progress of the Commonwealth Matches this week you'll know about Mike Bonallack and how he has been playing.

You'll know something, too, about the other 29 world-calibre swingers but it may come as a surprise that fellows named Phil Farley, Bryan Silk, Basil Heartland and Leslie Graham can come up with strokes which play an important role in deciding the team championship.

They'll do it without swinging a club in the competition in a little game of stategy and psychology which takes place every day and which ends approximately a half hour after the last singles match of the day has been completed.

They are the men entrusted with making the decision on what order their six players will play— Farley, Silk and Heartland as the non-playing captains of the Canadian, New Zealand and South African teams respectively, and Graham as the manager of the Australian team.

Bonallack's duties don't end with stroking the ball. He is the captain of the British team and matches wits with the other four in an effort to find a winning combination.

* * *

For those who might presume that the order in which outstanding golfers such as those in the Commonwealth Matches play cannot really be too important, it can be said that Canada's first international team victory is largely credited as the result of the team batting order.

It came about in the 1965 Americas Cup competition at Winnipeg when non-playing captain Bruce Forbes was credited with providing the order of play for Nick Weslock, Keith Alexander, Doug Silverberg, Johnny Johnston, Gary Cowan, Bert Ticehurst and Bill Pidlaski which gave them the best possible chance of winning.

Forbes, the former president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association who is chairman of the Commonwealth Matches this year and who captained the Canadian Commonwealth team in 1963 and the World Cup team in 1960, smilingly declined credit for the Winnipeg win but agrees that competitions can be won or lost through the order of play.

It is essentially a guessing game. Men responsible for making the decision must hand in their "batting order" for the next day 30 minutes after the completion of that day's play. They have no idea on how their opponents are going to line up and the little meeting which follows each day's play is a little drama.

* * *

Compatability, says Forbes, is extremely important in the selection of the two players who will pair up for the three Scotch foursomes each day.

But compatability also extends to the play. Whenever possible, pairs are chosen to complement each other in a competition in which they play alternate shots on each hole.

In all selections, Forbes says, consideration must always be given to how the players are hitting the ball.

In the guessing about the other team, a decision has to be made as to whether to try and play best against best or, to try and get the top players against the other side's lower-ranked players.

Forbes says he would like to start playing best against best but that he wouldn't necessarily carry it through the matches. Match standing, of course, becomes important. If a team is behind it has to go best against best but if it is leading it may try it the other way.

Knowing how the next day's opponents are playing is also quite important.

Heartland agrees that the order of play can certainly decide matches.

* * *

Heartland, who made no changes for yesterday's losing match against Canada after opening with a rout of Australia Tuesday, had an almost completely new lineup for today's set-to with New Zealand.

His pairings for the foursomes are unchanged but he has John Fourie and Rodney Mullan leading off instead of Dave Symons and Comrie Du Toit, who led off the first two days and now bats third.

Heartland believes that the Commonwealth Matches will swing on what is done in the Scotch foursomes.

His contention was proven the first day in a 3-0 foursome sweep over Australia which left South Africa needing only two points from the singles for the team victory.

"And it was big again in today's match," he said. "When we took that 2-1 lead in the morning it meant your team had to win four singles, and that's difficult in this kind of competition."

It was, too. South Africa lost only because a birdie on the 17th hole in the second last singles wasn't good enough to get a half. It lost to Johnny Johnston's eagle three and gave Canada the point that won the match, 5-4.

'Lives of Patients May Be in Danger'

Nanaimo Engineers File Strike Notice

By JOHN MATTERS

The Union of Operating Engineers, which already has struck a major Lower Mainland hospital, gave notice to Nanaimo Regional Hospital Wednesday that its members may walk out of that institution anytime after Friday.

As the strike situation at Royal Columbian Hospital at New Westminster created problems, the Victoria Medical Society, an organization of close to 300 doctors, appealed to engineers to reconsider their action.

★ ★ ★

"It should be their civic duty to keep such essential emergency services in operation," said a spokesman for VMS. "Patient care could be in grave danger if the strikes spread further."

As a result of the walkout at Royal Columbian Wednesday morning, authorities banned all but urgent surgery and restricted admissions to emergency cases only.

★ ★ ★

The union has served notice on five other Lower Mainland and Victoria hospitals in a bid to get parity between rates for third-class engineers. They are Vancouver General, St. Paul's, Burnaby General and Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's in Victoria.

The Victoria hospitals were operating from shift-to-shift, uncertain when the operating engineers, who man essential heating and refrigeration equipment, would walk out.

★ ★ ★

St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee both plan to have supervisory personnel, working 12-hour shifts, operating their plants. However, they point out that such a situation could not last forever.

The Victoria Medical Society said the situation was a matter between the hospitals and their engineers.

"However, we would become deeply concerned if emergency cases could not be cared for. We find it difficult the situation could go that extreme," he said.

★ ★ ★

"Our mood so far has been one of detachment but we are concerned there has been no assurance from the engineers that our hospitals won't be closed."

While NGH administrator Gordon Frith is on holidays, Fred Cooper is assistant. He declined to answer the following questions put to him by Colonist reporter Arnold Olson:

- How many patients in the hospital,
- To what degree does he expect other union members will sympathize with the engineers,
- How many engineers does NGH have,
- What is their current pay scale, old rate.

Swim Meet Attracts 200

NANAIMO—More than 200 swimmers are expected to take part in the Vancouver Island regional championship meet this weekend.

Winners in the two-day meet will qualify for the B.C. summer swimmers' championships meet at the Empire Pool in Vancouver, Aug. 25 and 26.

The Nanaimo meet is for summer swimmers only, said publicity director Mrs. John Gorosh.

"Anyone in winter clubs is not eligible to compete," she said.

The competitions, which will include all ages, will consist of relay and individual events.

First and second place winners in relay events qualify for the Empire pool meet, and first, second and third place winners in individual events also qualify.

Saturday's heat begins at 1 p.m., with the final at 7 p.m., and Sunday's heats starts at 9:30 a.m., with the final at 3 p.m.

Sewer Going Ahead By Initiative Clause

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN — A long period of uncertainty ended Wednesday when council decided to go ahead and put in a sewer system under the local improvement initiative clause in the Municipal Act.

The course of action became necessary after a sewer bylaw in the Gibbins Road, Mary Street and Sherman Road area was twice defeated.

The $465,000 system, which will serve about 500 homes and commercial firms, is expected to be completed one year after construction begins.

Health Hazard

Reeve Donald Morton stressed council decided against a compulsory sewer system installation — another alternative.

Following the last defeat of the sewer bylaw a few months ago, a number of residents complained about hazardous health conditions caused by inadequate septic tanks.

Pitfalls

The Reeve told council in disclosing information on the compulsory sewer installation that "The department was very cautious and advised us it would be our choice."

Department officials pointed out some of the pitfalls a compulsory scheme could have.

Although the local improvement initiative clause has been used elsewhere it has never been applied in North Cowichan.

He hinted it could become policy in future. Coun. Dennis Hogan urged speedy construction because of cost increase tendencies.

Touchy Subject

He said another alternative would require several months to study. "I cannot see that we could get a cheaper sewer system," he said.

Another touchy subject within the North Cowichan municipality, the Fuller's Lake Arena will also soon get underway after Coun. Gerry Smith assured council people in the northern end would probably be willing to vote on a supplementary money bylaw to provide additional funds.

About another $80,000 will be needed to build a standard arena. Council agreed to set a bylaw vote for next month.

Because of long and heated arguments and delay in courts, cost of the arena — originally estimated at $330,000 — rose sharply. This became apparent two weeks ago when tenders were opened.

Public meetings to discuss the necessity of a supplementary money bylaw will be held in the Chemainus, Crofton and Westholme areas.

Not Standard

The reeve said "The only other thing that could be done would be to erect a building with the available money, but it would not be a standard ice arena."

Coun. Smith commented, "It would be ridiculous to chop it down. "I am sure people in the north will support it (supplementary bylaw)."

Stanfield Talks in Nanaimo

Contribution Stanfield's Aim

NANAIMO — Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia says he wants to get into federal politics to enable his Progressive Conservative Party to make a concrete contribution to the nation.

"I never thought I would get involved in federal politics, but I was so concerned about some of the problems of the country and about the ability of my own party to make the contributions I thought it should make a national development," he said.

Mr. Stanfield visited Nanaimo as part of a western Canadian tour to drum up support for his Conservative leadership bid.

LUNCHEON TALK

He spoke to members of the party in the Shoreline Hotel, Wednesday afternoon during a luncheon.

He said the brains of Canada should be harnessed, and used to build the country and its economy.

He said the party seemed to have based its strength more in rural areas, leaving urban centres with little representation.

MAIN TASK

"Part of the problem was the party had not attracted intellectuals, and whoever becomes party leader in the coming convention, should institute a program designed to do so.

"Harness the minds all over Canada," he said.

He advocated the use of professionals and "the best informed people in the country."

The reason, he said, was "that we have quite a problem ahead of us."

DEFINITE PROGRAM

The needs of Canada are such that a definite program of priorities must be instituted, education and housing are two which would rank high on the priority list.

"I am very pleasantly surprised," he said of his reception by party members across the country.

CHARTER PLANE

"If I hadn't thought my chances were excellent, I wouldn't have taken the step," he added.

Premier Stanfield, the eighth of nine candidates to declare themselves for Tory leadership at the party's convention in Toronto next month, arrived here by charter plane from Vancouver. He flew to Victoria later Wednesday to continue his tour.

Remedy Worth $1,050,000

Cowichan District Finds Answer

DUNCAN—Cowichan School District is going to fight fire with fire.

Faced with an influx of more than 5,000 students this fall, the school board is rushing completion of 46 classrooms and other additions. All are expected to be ready by December, according to George Routley, superintendent of works.

★ ★ ★

"Last year there were about 4,400 students in the district, and we are preparing to go over the 5,000-student mark with a school addition project of more than $1,050,000," he said.

"These additions are either in progress right now or will be started in the near future, and the budget is one of the largest the district has had."

★ ★ ★

Three projects are expected to be completed for the September registration: A gymnasium at Duncan elementary school at a cost of $47,777; The addition of one classroom, a library and administration area at Mill Bay elementary at a cost of $30,268; and one classroom, administration area and play area at Crofton elementary at a cost of $17,276.

Mr. Routley said of the 46 new class rooms, five will be libraries to be used as classrooms, and one will be a new industrial arts shop at George Bonner junior high.

★ ★ ★

The Khowhemun elementary school project of an additional four classrooms, a library, activity room and play area will cost $150,583, of which $98,400 will be paid by the federal government on a per capita basis, through the Indian students' grant.

Other school additions include: The new Lane Road elementary, six classrooms, a library and activity room, $183,800; the new Roome Road elementary, five classrooms, a library and activity room, $170,442.

George Bonner junior high, one classroom and industrial arts shop, $95,540; Wharnoliffe Elementary, three classrooms, $60,800; Bench elementary, one classroom, library and electrical room, $33,426; and Mill Bay elementary, one classroom, $18,000.

One of the largest projects now in progress is the alterations and additions to the second storey of Quamichan junior high at a cost of $98,400.

★ ★ ★

The project includes the addition of two classrooms with folding partitions, which can be used as a large room, made up of the two additions and an existing classroom; another classroom; alterations for a library room, previously a science room; and the construction of smaller rooms for book storage, janitorial equipment and washrooms.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Commercial salmon fishing by net in the Gulf of Georgia and Fraser River has been temporarily suspended to insure adequate spawning, the federal department of fisheries has announced.

Blossoms Die at Dawn

Duncan Garden's Magic Plant Blooms Only After Sunset

DUNCAN—Every night for the past six weeks, Sidney Carreck on Gibbins Road, has been waiting for the colorful outburst of his magic plant.

He almost can set his watch by when it blooms.

He found it in a corner of his property a little over six weeks ago.

"At first I thought it was a weed, but on second thought I transplanted it into the flower garden. Every night since, it blooms as soon as the sun sets.

"The blooms die off when morning comes and new blooms burst open in the evening.

"I don't know what it is."

As soon as the sun sets the pointed buds unfold within five minutes to beautiful yellow blooms which are about four inches in diameter.

After it was replanted in the flower garden, the plant grew from about one foot to three feet.

One of Duncan's flower and plant experts, Arthur Stevenson suggested it could be an evening primrose.

The scent of Mr. Carreck's magic flower resembles Cowslip and the leaves of the bloom are similar to a poppy.

Arsonist Suspected In Area Bush Fires

The British Columbia Forest Service said Tuesday night it fears an arsonist is starting bush fires near Victoria.

Four forest fires in the past five days on the Malahat Highway and in the Sooke area appear to be the work of such a psychopath, said a spokesman.

"Their timing and proximity are more than a coincidence," he added. "All indications are that someone is setting them."

The first series of two fires occurred Friday on the Malahat. The smaller was quickly extinguished but the largest of the blazes covered eight acres and was fought by a water bomber, four bulldozers and a number of men before it was brought under control.

The second series of two fires broke out at 3:30 p.m. Monday in the Glintz Lake district, near Sooke.

INVESTIGATOR

It took nine hours to bring them under control. A water bomber made 12 drops and four bulldozers, four tank trucks and 26 men were involved.

The largest blaze covered about 10 acres. The smaller outbreak, which was nearby, was kept within one-quarter of an acre by the Sooke volunteer fire department.

The Forest Service spokesman said an investigator may be brought here from Vancouver to collect evidence.

SCENERY DESTROYED

He said that while there were 22 blazes in the Langford ranger district this summer, the fires at Sooke and on the Malahat are the only ones which can be connected to an incendiarist at this time.

There was no estimate of the losses from the four fires but the Malahat outbreak destroyed roadside scenery.

It was the third time this summer the Malahat area's spectacular flora has been blackened by forest fires. The other blazes, both of which covered large acreages, were on Skirt and Finlayson mountains.

Campus Growth Outraces Predictions

When classes begin at the University of Victoria this fall, the campus will have approximately doubled in just four years.

Booming growth has outstripped expert predictions made only five years ago.

On Tuesday, president Malcolm Taylor announced the appointments of two historians and a specialist in oriental architecture.

Faculty will total about 275 this September. Four years ago there were 133 on the faculty.

★ ★ ★

In the fall of 1963, student enrolment was 2,085. This September it will be between 3,800 and 3,900.

In 1962 the widely-hailed Macdonald report on higher education in B.C. forecast that the then-Victoria College would reach an enrolment of 3,500 to 3,700 by 1971. UVic's own forecast of student enrolment envisions 4,510 by 1970.

★ ★ ★

Since construction began on the new Gordon Head campus in 1962, nearly $12,000,000 has been spent on new buildings, equipment and landscaping.

Newest buildings are two men's residences now nearing completion at a cost of $677,000.

A central kitchen, dining and lounge area will be started later this year to link the residences with two adjacent women's dormitories to form the university's first college. More colleges are planned.

The faculty appointments announced Tuesday are those of Dr. John Money of Cambridge, England, and Dr. Christopher Rowe of Liverpool, both historians.

Richard Grooms, a Canadian who has been teaching in the Middle East, has been appointed associate professor in the division of art and art history.

Mr. Grooms comes from Iraq, where he was an associate professor in the department of architecture at the University of Baghdad.

Test Flight Nearing For 'Dream Plane'

Paul Morcovescu, 1336 Lyall Street, expects to find out within about a week whether his dream can fly.

The 45-year-old Esquimalt man, who has spent a year designing and building a man-powered flying machine, said Tuesday that he expects by today to have all final adjustments made to his machine.

He is still looking around for a suitable place to test it.

Mr. Morcovescu said he needs an area with about 500 feet clear to launch his pedal-driven machine.

He expects it to be airborne about 200 feet along the runway, but needs the extra distance to gain altitude.

As the plane does not have balloon tires, he needs a paved runway, or a cropped field such as a baseball diamond, he said.

"I have one or two places to look at," he said, "and if one of them is right, and if the weather holds, I shall try within a week."

Erratic Flight Spotted

A bright light which moved erratically across the sky was reported Tuesday night about 10 p.m. by a Glen Lake resident.

Ross Phillips, of 1024 Haslam, said he saw a bright object which he first thought was a falling star, in a northerly direction from Glen Lake.

But instead of burning out on its path towards the earth, the bright white or yellowish object changed direction and moved sideways, then turned again and disappeared from sight.

Swim Goes On

Rain or shine the Vic-Van-Isle Kinsmen Club's 2½-mile centennial swim starts at 1 p.m. Aug. 20 at Thetis Lake Park.

Entry forms can be obtained from Ron McMurtie, 383-0297, or at the Thetis Lake concession.

Allison Langston, of Courtenay, left, is planning on giving up her miniskirt in favor of an armed forces uniform, shown by Ottawa wren, Laura Wallace, stationed temporarily at Victoria's recruiting depot. Allison's parents are both stationed at CFB Comox, and she attended Courtenay High School. Both girls said they would keep their miniskirts—for off-duty hours. Allison has joined up as a teletype operator.

B.C. Fire Chiefs Meet

Firemen and Foam Fill Tyee Plaza

By HELEN MITCHELL

CAMPBELL RIVER — The problems of fire departments' individual operations and methods of improving their respective services highlighted the second day of the 36th annual B.C. Fire Chief's College Wednesday.

The first day got under way with a parade through downtown streets of modern and ancient firefighting equipment from Island departments, accompanied by a vintage car procession.

★ ★ ★

Among officials attending the opening ceremony were Kenneth Scott, chairman of the Campbell River Fire Protection Association, Charles Pettman, of Kelowna, president, and Fire Marshal Basil Nixon of Vancouver.

Transportation of hazardous chemicals and a film showing the operation of fire department rescue vehicles were among the first day's events.

More than 150 delegates attended the second day of the week-long college, fire fighting and prevention, communications, life-saving and equipment being discussed.

Spectacular demonstrations at Tyee Plaza were made Wednesday, with the public and firefighters treated to manufacturers' exhibition of a new high expansion foam unit which uses water as a catalyst to effectively smother blazing buildings.

High pressure nozzles, a deluge gun for large volume fires and portable water tank with high-pressure pump were also shown.

A new pumper truck was also on display, ordered by View Royal Fire Department.

The truck was driven across Canada from St. Pierreville, Quebec, by Ed Pinder of Silverline Equipment Ltd., who left Aug 2. He arrived in Campbell River an hour before the demonstrations started.

★ ★ ★

Wednesday night, delegates and their wives attended a salmon derby and barbecue on Campbell River Spit.

Delegates' wives Wednesday went to Gold River by bus, they toured CFB Comox Tuesday.

Latest figures register 159 delegates, guests and honorary members at the college, plus 116 wives.

Key Putt Gives Canada Victory

A 14-foot eagle putt by Johnny Johnston of Vancouver was the telling blow as Canada's six-man team to the fourth Commonwealth golf tournament defeated South Africa Wednesday by five matches to four.

Johnston's putt came on the 17th green when Canada was in the middle of an exciting recovery that could have brought victory or a narrow loss.

Johnston's putt put him one-up on John Fourie of South Africa, a lead he held through to the end.

Great Britain won the other match, dropping the talented Australian team, five matches to four. New Zealand had the bye. (See Page 16.)

Canada had to struggle for its win when South Africa opened a 2-1 gap after the morning foursomes. But, with Gary Cowan in devastating form, the Canadians rallied to grab victory in four of the six singles.

Britain, which now has won one match and drawn another, is in first place with three points. Canada and South Africa are tied for second with two points, New Zealand has one and Australia is scoreless.

Breakaway Bomber Hits Lagos

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—A warplane believed to be from breakaway eastern Nigeria bombed this African capital Wednesday night as rebel troops invaded federal territory and claimed the capture of the mid-western region.

The hostile aircraft dropped explosives on the Lagos waterfront section of Apapa where docks and petroleum dumps are located. Nearby Nigerian naval units fired on the plane, and there were unconfirmed reports that it was hit.

(The BBC in London said three bombs fell on Lagos.)

CAPTURE CLAIMED

The air raid took place as rebel forces invaded the neighboring midwestern state and claimed its capture. Rebels seized the radio station in the state capital at Benin and announced they had taken over the midwest "as a result of the liberation action of midwest forces backed by friendly troops from the east."

IBO HELP

The federal government said in an official statement that rebel soldiers had infiltrated the state with the help of the anti-government Ibo tribesmen in the Nigerian army.

Nigeria with more than 55,000,000 people, is the most populous nation in Africa. It has been torn by tribal rivalries and religious differences for months.

The midwest state is one of 12 states into which the country was recently carved.

PHONES OUT

Telephone service between Lagos and Benin was cut late Wednesday night.

A woman announcer broadcasting on Radio Benin said "revolutionary forces" occupying the city were led by Lt.-Col. Victor Banjo, a member of the Yoruba tribe.

Lagos sources said they doubted Banjo was involved. These sources said the rebels probably used his name in an effort to bring Yoruba tribesmen into the rebel camp.

NO MENTION

Radio Benin reported that a curfew had been imposed throughout the midwestern region, and that it would remain in effect until a new government was formed. It said revolutionary forces had saved the region from "the shackles of domination."

The broadcast from Benin made no mention of Brig. Gen. David Ejoor, the governor of the midwestern region.

A police announcement Wednesday night ordered Nigerians off the streets of Lagos because of what was described as an emergency situation. The announcement said failure to obey the order "may lead to grave consequences for which those concerned will have only themselves to blame."

Whites Seize Bukavu

SHANGUGU, Rwanda (LAT) — The rebellious white mercenaries took full control of the important eastern Congo city of Bukavu Wednesday and vowed to keep control until the kidnapped Moise Tshombe was released and returned to Congolese political life.

The column of mercenaries demonstrated its control by marching to the Rwanda border and releasing the first of the more than 100 white civilians who had lived with them in the Congolese bush for the past month.

The Congolese government radio and called these civilians hostages, but the civilians, as soon as they reached Rwanda, insisted they had joined the mercenaries for their own protection.

No one standing here on the Rwanda border could doubt the control and power of the 150 mercenaries and their 700 to 800 allies, the former African gendarmes of secessionist Katanga province.

Space Feat Hinted

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Wednesday launched an unmanned satellite into an orbit which indicated that Russian scientists were planning a new space spectacular.

The satellite named Cosmos 173 was the second to be launched in two days, and the seventh consecutive space probe to follow an almost identical path around the earth.

Observers believed that the concentration on the same orbit indicated that some new, manned space feat was being planned for the Nov. 7 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

CITY TO ORDER: ROLL UP HOSES

By A. H. MURPHY

City council will probably be asked today to impose a ban on sprinkling because nearly 40,000,000 gallons of water was used Wednesday in Greater Victoria — the highest daily volume in the water district's history.

By the time the thermometer had climbed to 83 degrees at the Gonzales weather station at 4:30 p.m., on the hottest day of the year it was already clear that Greater Victorians had ignored warnings that they must begin conserving water.

As the drought continued, with another forest fire flareup on the Malahat and restrictions imposed on swimming at Thetis Lake, civic officials began taking preliminary steps to slow the flow of precious water through city water mains.

SPRINKLERS OFF

Mayor Hugh Stephen ordered a week's cessation of sprinkling in city parks and on city-tended boulevards, the water board abandoned its effort to keep salmon fry alive in Goldstream Creek, and city parks administrator Herbert Warren said swimming will not be allowed beyond the dam at Thetis Lake until the fire hazard ends. (See also Page 22.)

The last rain fell on Victoria July 20 — a miserable sprinkle of .13 inch.

During July, only .21 inch fell. The average rainfall for the month is slightly more than half an inch.

REVERSE EFFECT

Commissioner Ronald Upward of the Greater Victoria Water District said he was hesitant to suggest that restrictions of any kind be imposed, because the very suggestion seemed to have the effect of making people use more water.

"They evidently feel that their flowers and grass and shrubs are going to be water-starved, so they turn the sprinklers on full and pour the water to them," he said.

First warning of trouble was given in Tuesday's Colonist when Mr. Upward pointed out that there had been no fall-off in

Aberfan Won't Prosecute

ABERFAN, Wales (AP)—People of this little Welsh mining town, who lost 144 children and other kinfolk killed in last October's coal-mountain slide, decided Wednesday night not to prosecute any National Coal Board official blamed for the tragedy.

Quake Shakes Denver Area

DENVER (UPI) — The worst earthquake in Denver's history, estimated up to five times as strong as any previous tremor and nearly reaching major proportions, knocked bricks out of chimneys, cracked walls and shook a wide area around the city Wednesday.

There were no reports of injuries.

Man Killed In Car Crash

A two-car collision at the intersection of Sooke and Metchosin roads in Colwood at 12:45 this morning led to the death of Russell Hurst, 4546 Rocky Point Rd.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital emergency ward after being rushed there by Langford volunteer ambulance.

A woman Janice Ludvigson, 2857 Leigh Rd. also was taken to hospital but was pronounced in satisfactory condition by hospital officials. She was an occupant of the other car.

RCMP officials are investigating the accident.

Formal Declaration

Conservative Thinkers Urge Two-Nation Plan

QUEBEC (CP)—A recommendation that the Progressive Conservative party formally endorse the two-nations theory of Canada will be placed before next month's leadership convention in Toronto.

The constitution study group at the party's policy advisory conference here endorsed the idea late Wednesday, formally declaring that the party should recognize that Canada is composed of "two founding peoples"—in French, deux nations—with historic rights.

TWO MEANINGS

The proposal, put into formal language by former Conservative national president Egan Chambers of Montreal in draft form Wednesday, represented the committee's resolution of a three-day argument over whether the step would be misunderstood in English-speaking Canada.

It was argued that in English nation means political unit while in French the word is used to denote a cultural grouping.

Ontario Premier Robarts used both "two founding peoples" and "two societies" in a Wednesday address to the conference.

★ ★ ★

Convention To Rule On Proposal

He said he believes "English-speaking Canadians, by actual practice and not just by words, must recognize that Canada is essentially a country of two societies and two founding peoples . . ."

The constitution group's report to plenary sessions also calls for immediate establishment of a parliamentary committee study of changes in the constitution followed by a constitutional conference of representatives of all parties in legislative bodies to recommend specific changes desirable.

The committee says the constitution should encourage equality in the full growth and development of the two founding peoples throughout Canada.

Gordon Fairweather, MP for Royal and chairman of the study group, said he plans to reiterate in reappointing to the conference plenary session the earlier decision recommending that use of French and English be guaranteed in the courts and legislatures throughout Canada, and that access to education in either language be guaranteed throughout Canada.

TWO-HOUR TALK

He said he also will renew the study group's call for a constitutional tribunal to decide constitutional disputes between the federal and provincial governments.

In resolving the argument over the two-nation theory in the way they did, participants in the constitution study group held a two-hour session in camera.

The study group's report still faces on final hurdle at Thursday's plenary session of the conference, but the issue was debated at length in plenary session Tuesday night without any indication of uncompromising opposition.

Dayan Rejects Withdrawal Of Israeli Lines

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israeli defence minister Moshe Dayan said Wednesday night the Jewish state must never pull back to its pre-1958 borders. He said surrender of land won in the war with the Arab world would invite new attacks and deny the Israeli people "fulfilment of ancestral dreams."

Dayan reiterated Israeli demands for direct peace negotiations with Arab states, and a former Jordanian government minister close to King Hussein said Jordan is planning to hold talks with Israel.

Ismail Nijezi, former minister of development in Hussein's cabinet, told newsmen Wednesday that the plan would be submitted to the Arab summit conference later this month. Egypt and Syria have refused to negotiate with Israel and do not recognize its existence.

IMPATIENT

Dayan stepped out of his role as defence minister Wednesday night by addressing a cheering political rally in Jerusalem. He has become increasingly impatient with political feuds that have plagued Israel in the aftermath of its war vietory.

Dayan's hard-hitting speech widened the rift between him and Premier Levi Eshkol. Dayan addressed a political rally attended by 5,000 members of the Rafi party, an organization opposed to Eshkol's Mapai party.

BAN VIOLATED

The speech by the one-eyed general violated a parliamentary ban on discussion of Israeli peace terms in any settlement with the Arab world.

Dayan spoke against a background of increasingly hostile Arab sentiment against Israel in occupied areas. Israeli police arrested two prominent Arabs Wednesday in the former Jordanian sector of Jerusalem and authorities invoked strong security measures against the threat of civil disobedience.

Casualties Reach 200

HONG KONG (UPI)—A battle between Red Army troops and fanatic Red Guard supporters of Mao Tse-tung in Canton killed or wounded more than 200 persons, the independent Hong Kong newspaper Ming Pao said today.

It also quoted travelers from southern China's largest city as saying Communist murder squads from rival political factions are roaming the city at night.

Mao's Thoughts Are Everywhere

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. (AP) — Police searched the lockers of three prisoners in the city jail Wednesday and found beer, liquor, candy, obscene drawings and a book of quotations from Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung.

Brown Buffaloed — Negro Crowd Laughs

Governor Defuses Gun Talk

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Flamboyant Gov. Claude Kirk caught H. Rap Brown by surprise at a Black Power rally Wednesday night, bounding out of the darkness to welcome him to Florida and to warn he did not want to hear "any talk about guns."

★ ★ ★

The crowd of about 300 Negroes gathered in a baseball park had no notice Kirk would fly by jet from Tallahassee to appear at the rally.

Brown complained:

"These white hunkies try to step in and take over your meeting."

★ ★ ★

Earlier the crowd had chanted. "We don't need you . . . go home Brown."

Kirk appeared at the microphone just after Brown told the crowd. "You better get yourself some guns, baby. That's the only way you're going to get what you need."

★ ★ ★

Dressed in a dapper dark pin-striped suit, Kirk came forward and offered his hand to Brown. The Black Power militant turned his back to Kirk.

Kirk took the microphone from Brown's hands and said:

"Welcome to Florida. Are you here in good spirits?"

Brown tried to ignore the governor before the delighted crowd. He then yelled:

"If he wants to campaign let him pay for it."

Florida's first Republican governor in modern times was not perplexed. He persisted at the microphone:

"I don't want any talk about guns," he said.

★ ★ ★

The crowd surged around Kirk to shake his hand and tell him of problems. He milled about as if on the campaign trail, smiling and nodding.

A grinning Negro youth rushed up and said, "How about two dollars, I'm broke." Kirk just laughed and moved on.

★ ★ ★

Brown kept trying to get the majority of the crowd's attention with little success. The Negroes had warmed to Kirk's visit.

Another 12 acres go up in flames on Malahat

Forest Fire On Malahat Flares Anew

The B.C. Forest Service rushed every available man to fight a flareup of a week-old forest fire on the Malahat Wednesday night.

A Canso water bomber from Patricia Bay Airport arrived on the scene at 6 p.m. and started making drops every seven minutes.

Six ground tankers had arrived by 6:30 p.m., and the flying tanker knocked the fire down enough to enable ground crews to move into fighting position.

12 MORE ACRES

The fire had spread over a 12-acre area by nightfall, boosting to 22 acres the total area burned there since the first outbreak — believed caused by an arsonist — occurred on Aug. 3.

The blaze was on the water side of the Trans-Canada Highway, about half a mile south of the Dutch Latch Restaurant.

DRY BROOM

Forest Service officials were hopeful it would be contained by morning. They said some men patrolling a three-day-old Sooke fire were sent to the new outbreak.

Fire touching on a side hill covered with tinder-dry broom was believed to have caused Wednesday's flareup.

Forest fires "never really go out until we get a heavy rain," one firefighter said.

High temperatures expected for the next few days may increase the hazard in the lower Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland areas of B.C., the Forest Service reported.

The fire situation in provincial forests is "relatively good," a spokesman for the Forest Service said.

Hazards range from moderate to high, he said.

260 BURNING

There are 260 forest fires still burning, with 117 of them in the Kamloops forest district. Nelson had 92 fires and Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Prince George had 28, 16 and seven respectively. Vancouver district includes Vancouver Island.

Of the 1,269 men on the fire lines, 851 are employed in the Nelson district.

A fire at Castlegar which destroyed a mill Tuesday and now covers 4,000 acres is "still troublesome."

HARD TO CONTROL

It is burning over rocky ground and difficult to control or even contain.

Earlier this week a suspension of campfire permits was lifted in the Kamloops district, but the suspension remains in effect in the Vancouver and Nelson districts. The suspension is in addition to a recreational closure in effect in a large section of the Nelson district.

Christening Set For City-Built Tuna Fishboats

Two $2,250,000 tuna fishing vessels will be christened at noon Saturday at Yarrows Ltd.

Champagne will be splashed on their bows by Mrs. Emerson H. Gennis, wife of the president of Canadian Tuna Co. Ltd.

The 200-foot vessels, first of their kind to be built in Victoria, are two of a fleet of five that will form Canada's first wholly integrated tuna cannery in St. Stephen, N.B.

The first ship ready, the Atlantic Gairdner, will begin sea trials in a few weeks, while the Atlantic Gennis will not be ready for the sea until the end of the year.

The Gairdner will eventually head for the choice tuna grounds off western Africa.

HELICOPTER

Each of the Dutch-designed ships carries a helicopter for spotting tuna shoals and has holds with new fast-freezing fish storage that can hold 1,000 tons.

They are powered by 2,400 continuous horsepower to five-bladed propellors.

Doctors Ask:

What About Emergency?

By JOHN MATTERS

The embattled operating engineers should assure the public that hospitals' emergency services won't be terminated by their strike action, the Victoria Medical Society said Wednesday night.

"So far, our mood has been one of detachment—the dispute is between the engineers and the hospitals — but we are concerned there has been no assurance that emergency service will not cease," said a spokesman for the doctors.

"We find it difficult to believe the situation could go to such an extreme but the public should be reassured."

SPREAD QUICKLY

The doctors' statement came after officials of the International Union of Operating Engineers, whose members walked out of Royal Columbian Hospital at New Westminster Wednesday, said the strike will spread to other hospitals unless speedy settlement is reached.

Royal Columbian has banned all but urgent surgery and has restricted admissions to emergency cases only.

FIVE OTHERS

The union has served notice on five other Lower Mainland and Victoria hospitals in a bid to get parity between rates for third-class engineers.

They are Vancouver General, St. Paul's, Burnaby General and Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's in Victoria.

The union on Wednesday mailed Nanaimo General Hospital a 48-hour strike notice. It means that at any time after Friday morning, it will be legally able to strike that hospital as well.

Among other duties, the engineers operate steam heating and refrigeration facilities.

WON'T ENTERTAIN

Meanwhile, it was learned the government, specifically B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, is growing concerned about the situation. It does not intend to intervene, however, because each hospital is autonomous in its dealings with employees.

At Royal Columbian, supervisory personnel took over operation of the hospital's heating plant and nurses and other staff members were asked to economize in the use of hot water.

SAME PLANS

St. Joseph's and Royal Jubilee also have plans for supervisory personnel to run their heating plants.

Some Victoria doctors said patients were diplaying "an amazing calm" despite the tensions of the situation.

Youth Week: A Happening

Everything will be happening — including a happening — during the Victoria Youth Council's Youth Week Aug. 20 to 27.

But mostly the VYC wants to foster communication between young people and older ones, VYC spokesman Ruth Kelly said Wednesday.

At its new temporary office at the University of Victoria, the VYC is inviting other teen-age groups in the capital region to participate in Youth Week.

COMBINED DEAL

The event will be "a combined effort of the young people of Victoria to express their sincere desire to improve the community in which they live," said Miss Kelly.

She invited inquiries through the VYC's new phone number 477-3611.

Tentatively planned so far are a downtown parade and a dance in Centennial Square Sunday the 20th; a televised discussion Monday; a public meeting at the YMCA on Tuesday the 22nd; a film festival on Thursday; a "happening" — spontaneous youth gathering — Friday in Bastion Square, followed by a dance; a Saturday "light show;" and a Sunday love-in at Beacon Hill Park, followed by a family dialogue between parents and teenagers.

BROOM DAY

Thursday the 24th is also planned as a doubleheader Broom Day event, when teenagers will clean up two areas in Victoria.

Times and places of most Youth Week events haven't yet been fixed.

"We hope Youth Week will be an outstretching — a positive thing," she said.

In Saanich

Secret Meetings Irk Councillors

Two Saanich councillors said Wednesday night that too much of the ratepayers' business is being discussed in secret.

Their comments came after The Daily Colonist learned that Saanich council behind closed doors turned down an application from Victoria Youth Council for a free business licence.

The council, which published the controversial Wine Press magazine, wanted a licence on the same basis as the one granted Centennial Sing Out — a Moral Re-Armament organization — two weeks earlier.

Councillors Alan Newberry and Digby Kier said that in addition to the secret meeting over the Wine Press, other important discussions had gone on behind closed doors in recent months.

They listed:

- The secret talks which preceded an agreement with next year's garbage contractor;
- A discussion which preceded last spring's recreation referendum, a $1,250,000 proposal that was subsequently approved by ratepayers;
- "Four or five" discussions over the salary of the Saanich solicitor.

Confirmed by Reeve

Reeve Hugh Curtis confirmed that Monday's committee meeting turned down the Youth Council's request, but "I don't wish to expand on it."

Coun. Edith Gunning had "no comment" on every question raised about the Wine Press incident.

Coun. Leslie Passmore said: "It didn't bother me if the meeting was open or closed. I said it (the Wine Press) was a pretty putrid bit of literature and I would have said that in public. And I say it now in public."

Coun. William Campbell said the Wine Press application was discussed in committee and "I was satisfied with the way it was handled."

"I agree 100 per cent with the reeve's reasoning."

Coun. William Noel said council had no idea what was going to be discussed in private, but "I don't think there should be too many meetings in secret."

He said councillors would "look kind of silly" discussing something which they didn't know about in public without first talking it over privately.

Counsellors Ed Lum and Harold Todd could not be reached for comment.

Coun. Newberry said he voted against the free licence because "the Youth Council has made no significant contribution to the community, whereas another group which got a free licence had clearly made a contribution to our Centennial activities."

"However, whether or not we like hippies, they are entitled to a meeting and I regret they were not given such an opportunity.

"Secret meetings are becoming more of a trend, and I am alarmed by the attitude of the reeve, of a man who is doing such a good job. He often dicusses sensitive issues at secret meetings."

Coun. Newberry said Saanich has to enter into a dialogue with the Youth Council . . . "and just to treat them as creatures is wrong."

"They asked an opportunity to attend a meeting, and they should have had our ear."

Coun. Kier said more and more important things were being discussed at closed meetings and "you'd be surprised what goes on behind closed doors."

"This could have been handled at an open meeting, although everyone was upset with the content of the magazine."

Williams, who assaulted Bolton brutally at Nanaimo, was fined by Mr. Spalding $25 for the assault, $10 as compensation to his victim for injuries inflicted upon him, and $9 costs of court. The penalty is a light one compared with the magnitude of the offence; but, light as it is, we believe a magistrate has no power to exceed $35, which amount must include compensation and costs. We may be wrong, but it is our impression that cases calling for a heavier penalty go to a higher court.

Match Greens Kept Green

Sprinklers were turned on Wednesday night on the greens and some of the fairways at the Victoria Golf Club in Oak Bay, where the Commonwealth matches are being held.

Cruiser Visits Barred

The guided missile cruiser USS Chicago will enter Esquimalt Harbor at 1 p.m. today, but the public won't be able to go aboard.

Parking facilities at the Esquimalt base are almost impossible at any time, one official said, and not adequate to cope with numbers of visitors

Also, since Friday is a working day, it would not be good safety practice to allow crowds among men and vehicles working, officials said.

FLAGSHIP

The 18,000-ton warship, one of the most modern of her kind, is the flagship of Vice-Admiral Bernard F. Roeder, commander of the First Fleet.

The 674-foot ship — fitted with short, medium and long range missiles — is operated by a 1,200-man crew commanded by Capt. Donald Vance Cox.

The ship is designed to operate offensively, independently or with strike, antisubmarine, or amphibious forces, or against air, surface or subsurface threats.

Recently it operated in Southeast Asia identifying and keeping track of aircraft.

The Chicago has never fired a missile in anger, but has won many awards for accuracy and engineering in training exercises.

Mt. Tolmie Burns Five Hours

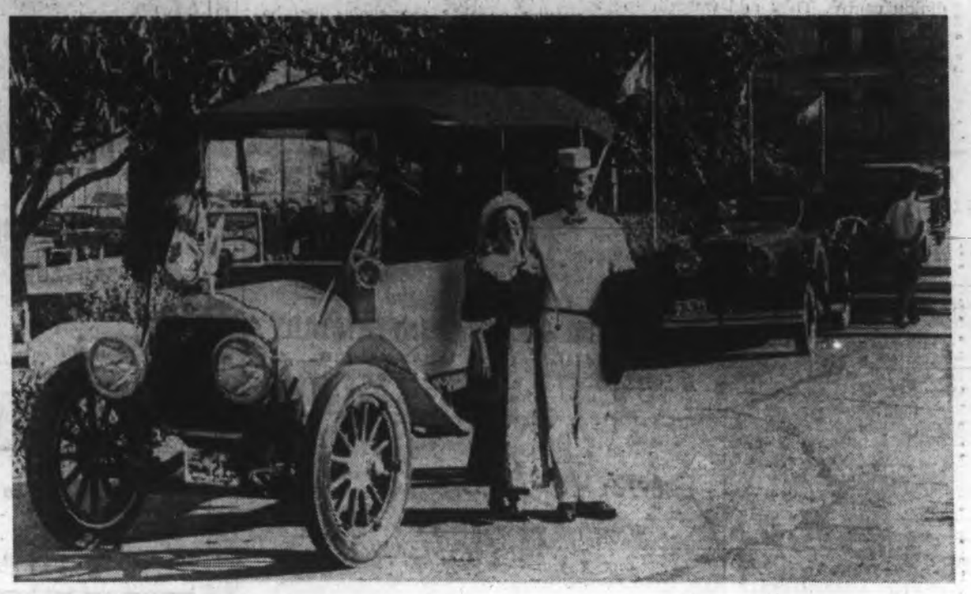

A fire on the southwest side of Mount Tolmie took more than five hours to put out Wednesday as it burned stubbornly above the sand pits.

Saanich firemen needed 1,000 feet of hose to quell the blaze that burned two acres.

The alarm was turned in at 1:31 p.m. and mopping up was completed by 7 p.m.

Breakaway Bomber Hits Lagos

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—A warplane believed to be from breakaway eastern Nigeria bombed this African capital Wednesday night as rebel troops invaded federal territory and claimed the capture of the mid-western region.

The hostile aircraft dropped explosives on the Lagos waterfront section of Apapa where docks and petroleum dumps are located. Nearby Nigerian naval units fired on the plane, and there were unconfirmed reports that it was hit.

(The BBC in London said three bombs fell on Lagos.)

CAPTURE CLAIMED

The air raid took place as rebel forces invaded the neighboring midwestern state and claimed its capture. Rebels seized the radio station in the state capital at Benin and announced they had taken over the midwest "as a result of the liberation action of midwest forces backed by friendly troops from the east."

IBO HELP

The federal government said in an official statement that rebel soldiers had infiltrated the state with the help of the anti-government Ibo tribesmen in the Nigerian army.

Nigeria with more than 55,000,000 people, is the most populous nation in Africa. It has been torn by tribal rivalries and religious differences for months.

The midwest state is one of 12 states into which the country was recently carved.

PHONES OUT

Telephone service between Lagos and Benin was cut late Wednesday night.

A woman announcer broadcasting on Radio Benin said "revolutionary forces" occupying the city were led by Lt.-Col. Victor Banjo, a member of the Yoruba tribe.

Lagos sources said they doubted Banjo was involved. These sources said the rebels probably used his name in an effort to bring Yoruba tribesmen into the rebel camp.

NO MENTION

Radio Benin reported that a curfew had been imposed throughout the midwestern region, and that it would remain in effect until a new government was formed. It said revolutionary forces had saved the region from "the shackles of domination."

The broadcast from Benin made no mention of Brig. Gen. David Ejoor, the governor of the midwestern region.

A police announcement Wednesday night ordered Nigerians off the streets of Lagos because of what was described as an emergency situation. The announcement said failure to obey the order "may lead to grave consequences for which those concerned will have only themselves to blame."

Whites Seize Bukavu

SHANGUGU, Rwanda (LAT) — The rebellious white mercenaries took full control of the important eastern Congo city of Bukavu Wednesday and vowed to keep control until the kidnapped Moise Tshombe was released and returned to Congolese political life.

The column of mercenaries demonstrated its control by marching to the Rwanda border and releasing the first of the more than 100 white civilians who had lived with them in the Congolese bush for the past month.

The Congolese government radio and called these civilians hostages, but the civilians, as soon as they reached Rwanda, insisted they had joined the mercenaries for their own protection.

No one standing here on the Rwanda border could doubt the control and power of the 150 mercenaries and their 700 to 800 allies the former African gendarmes of secessionist Katanga province.

Space Feat Hinted

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Wednesday launched an unmanned satellite into an orbit which indicated that Russian scientists were planning a new space spectacular.

The satellite named Cosmos 172 was the second to be launched in two days, and the seventh consecutive space probe to follow an almost identical path around the earth.

Observers believed that the concentration on the same orbit indicated that some new, manned space feat was being planned for the Nov. 7 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Key Putt Gives Canada Victory

A 14-foot eagle putt by Johnny Johnston of Vancouver was the telling blow as Canada's six-man team to the fourth Commonwealth golf tournament defeated South Africa Wednesday by five matches to four.

Johnston's putt came on the 17th green when Canada was in the middle of an exciting recovery that could have brought victory or a narrow loss.

Johnston's putt put him one-up on John Fourie of South Africa, a lead he held through to the end.

Great Britain won the other match, dropping the talented Australian team, five matches to four. New Zealand had the bye. (See Page 16.)

Canada had to struggle for its win when South Africa opened a 2-1 gap after the morning foursomes. But, with Gary Cowan in devastating form, the Canadians rallied to grab victory in four of the six singles.

Britain, which now has won one match and drawn another, is in first place with three points. Canada and South Africa are tied for second with two points, New Zealand has one and Australia is scoreless.

City to Rule:

NO WATERING

By A. H. MURPHY

City council will probably be asked today to impose a ban on sprinkling because nearly 40,000,000 gallons of water was used Wednesday in Greater Victoria — the highest daily volume in the water district's history.

By the time the thermometer had climbed to 83 degrees at the Gonzales weather station at 4:30 p.m., on the hottest day of the year it was already clear that Greater Victorians had ignored warnings that they must begin conserving water.

As the drought continued, with another forest fire flareup on the Malahat and restrictions imposed on swimming at Thetis Lake, civic officials began taking preliminary steps to slow the flow of precious water through city water mains.

SPRINKLERS OFF

Mayor Hugh Stephen ordered a week's cessation of sprinkling in city parks and on city-tended boulevards, the water board abandoned its effort to keep salmon fry alive in Goldstream Creek, and city parks administrator Herbert Warren said swimming will not be allowed beyond the dam at Thetis Lake until the fire hazard ends. (See also Page 22.)

The last rain fell on Victoria July 20 — a miserable sprinkle of .13 inch.

During July, only .21 inch fell. The average rainfall for the month is slightly more than half an inch.

REVERSE EFFECT

Commissioner Ronald Upward of the Greater Victoria Water District said he was hesitant to suggest that restrictions of any kind be imposed, because the very suggestion seemed to have the effect of making people use more water.

"They evidently feel that their flowers and grass and shrubs are going to be water-starved, so they turn the sprinklers on full and pour the water to them," he said.

First warning of trouble was given in Tuesday's Colonist when Mr. Upward pointed out that there had been no fall-off in

Quake Shakes Denver Area

DENVER (UPI) — The worst earthquake in Denver's history, estimated up to five times as strong as any previous tremor and nearly reaching major proportions, knocked bricks out of chimneys, cracked walls and shook a wide area around the city Wednesday.

There were no reports of injuries.

Man Killed In Car Crash

A two-car collision at the intersection of Sooke and Metchosin roads in Colwood at 12:45 this morning led to the death of Russell Hurst, 4546 Rocky Point Rd.

The victim was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital emergency ward after being rushed there by Langford volunteer ambulance.

A woman Janice Ludvigson, 2857 Leigh Rd. also was taken to hospital but was pronounced in satisfactory condition by hospital officials. She was an occupant of the other car.

RCMP officials are investigating the accident.

Formal Declaration

Conservative Thinkers Urge Two-Nation Plan

QUEBEC (CP)—A recommendation that the Progressive Conservative party formally endorse the two-nations theory of Canada will be placed before next month's leadership convention in Toronto.

The constitution study group at the party's policy advisory conference here endorsed the idea late Wednesday, formally declaring that the party should recognize that Canada is composed of "two founding peoples"—in French, deux nations—with historic rights.

TWO MEANINGS

The proposal, put into formal language by former Conservative national president Egan Chambers of Montreal in draft form Wednesday, represented the committee's resolution of a three-day argument over whether the step would be misunderstood in English-speaking Canada.

It was argued that in English nation means political unit while in French the word is used to denote a cultural grouping.

Ontario Premier Robarts used both "two founding peoples" and "two societies" in a Wednesday address to the conference.

He said he believes "English-speaking Canadians, by actual practice and not just by words, must recognize that Canada is essentially a country of two societies and two founding peoples . . ."

The constitution group's report to plenary sessions also calls for immediate establishment of a parliamentary committee study of changes in the constitution followed by a constitutional conference of representatives of all parties in legislative bodies to recommend specific changes desirable.

The committee says the constitution should encourage equality in the full growth and development of the two founding peoples throughout Canada.

Gordon Fairweather, MP for Royal and chairman of the study group, said he plans to reiterate in reappointing to the conference plenary session the earlier decision recommending that use of French and English be guaranteed in the courts and legislatures throughout Canada, and that access to education in either language be guaranteed throughout Canada.

TWO-HOUR TALK

He said he also will renew the study group's call for a constitutional tribunal to decide constitutional disputes between the federal and provincial governments.

In resolving the argument over the two-nation theory in the way they did, participants in the constitution study group held a two-hour session in camera.

The study group's report still faces on final hurdle at Thursday's plenary session of the conference, but the issue was debated at length in plenary session Tuesday night without any indication of uncompromising opposition.

Dayan Rejects Withdrawal Of Israeli Lines

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israeli defence minister Moshe Dayan said Wednesday night the Jewish state must never pull back to its pre-1958 borders. He said surrender of land won in the war with the Arab world would invite new attacks and deny the Israeli people "fulfilment of ancestral dreams."

Dayan reiterated Israeli demands for direct peace negotiations with Arab states, and a former Jordanian government minister close to King Hussein said Jordan is planning to hold talks with Israel.

Ismail Nijezi, former minister of development in Hussein's cabinet, told newsmen Wednesday that the plan would be submitted to the Arab summit conference later this month. Egypt and Syria have refused to negotiate with Israel and do not recognize its existence.

IMPATIENT

Dayan stepped out of his role as defence minister Wednesday night by addressing a cheering political rally in Jerusalem. He has become increasingly impatient with political feuds that have plagued Israel in the aftermath of its war victory.

Dayan's hard-hitting speech widened the rift between him and Premier Levi Eshkol. Dayan addressed a political rally attended by 5,000 members of the Rafi party, an organization opposed to Eshkol's Mapai party.

BAN VIOLATED

The speech by the one-eyed general violated a parliamentary ban on discussion of Israeli peace terms in any settlement with the Arab world.

Dayan spoke against a background of increasingly hostile Arab sentiment against Israel in occupied areas. Israeli police arrested two prominent Arabs Wednesday in the former Jordanian sector of Jerusalem and authorities invoked strong security measures against the threat of civil disobedience.

Casualties Reach 200

HONG KONG (UPI)—A battle between Red Army troops and fanatic Red Guard supporters of Mao Tse-tung in Canton killed or wounded more than 200 persons, the independent Hong Kong newspaper Ming Pao said today.

It also quoted travelers from southern China's largest city as saying Communist murder squads from rival political factions are roaming the city at night.

Brown Buffaloed

Negro Crowd Laughs

Governor Defuses Gun Talk

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Flamboyant Gov. Claude Kirk caught H. Rap Brown by surprise at a Black Power rally Wednesday night, bounding out of the darkness to welcome him to Florida and to warn he did not want to hear "any talk about guns."

The crowd of about 300 Negroes gathered in a baseball park had no notice Kirk would fly by jet from Tallahassee to appear at the rally.

Brown complained:

"These white hunkies try to step in and take over your meeting."

★ ★ ★

Earlier the crowd had chanted, "We don't need you . . . go home Brown."

Kirk appeared at the microphone just after Brown told the crowd, "You better get yourself some guns, baby. That's the only way you're going to get what you need."

★ ★ ★

Dressed in a dapper dark pin-striped suit, Kirk came forward and offered his hand to Brown. The Black Power militant turned his back to Kirk.

Kirk took the microphone from Brown's hands and said:

"Welcome to Florida. Are you here in good spirits?"

Brown tried to ignore the governor before the delighted crowd. He then yelled:

"If he wants to campaign, let him pay for it."

Florida's first Republican governor in modern times was not perplexed. He persisted at the microphone:

"I don't want any talk about guns," he said.

★ ★ ★

The crowd surged around Kirk to shake his hand and tell him of problems. He milled about as if on the campaign trail, smiling and nodding.

A grinning Negro youth rushed up and said, "How about two dollars. I'm broke." Kirk just laughed and moved on.

★ ★ ★

Brown kept trying to get the majority of the crowd's attention with little success. The Negroes had warmed to Kirk's visit.
